Why is your dad special?

CHRIS ESTES

My Dad is always there for me and he always put us in front of him. He always gave me whatever I wanted. When I was a kid he was always Santa Claus and went under the tree and handed out the presents. He's a hard worker. He helped me in sports. He always took me out in the driveway and hit grounders to me. I was going to play shortstop but ended up being the catcher. And he always expected the best out of me. So Dad, you're the best! The O'Doyle Rules!

-Chris Estes about his dad, Jim Estes of Burney

SARAH BIDWELL

In my classroom, I strive to instill within my students qualities of good character. We discuss the common traits of right/wrong, treating others in the way you wish to be treated yourself, and being respectful - even when it may be the hardest thing to do.

The reason I stress these important principles is because they are a part of me. Early in my life, my father taught me these vital characteristics and life lessons. He believed in and modeled them. The man and father he is what matters most to me and what makes him so very special.

I have never heard a harsh or unkind word spoken to or about my dad. Wherever he is, smiles, laughter, willingness and integrity prevail. People seem to be drawn to him.

My dad has a way of brining out the best in others and finding their positive qualities. His trustworthiness sets him a level above the rest, as this is becoming more rare to find in individuals.

My dad believes in treating people right the first time you meet them and would do anything to help someone in need. I know he has made an impact upon many lives and still does today. My dad truly is a wonderful and unique man and I ma blessed to call him "Dad."

-Sarah Bidwell about her dad, Gene Bidwell of Bieber.

J.J. JACKSON

He's a hard worker. He's always there for me and has always helped me through school and he's helping me now while I'm going through Butte Police Academy. He was a good coach. He helped me in football and always worked with me, giving me pointers. Thank you, Dad. You da man!

-J.J. Jackson about his dad, Mike Jackson of Burney

TIMBER WELLS

Because he does stuff for me. He gets me a drink of water and he helps me color.

-Timber Wells, 5, about her dad, Jeff Wells

SHANNON TOLER

My father is Irv Toler. He is 81 years old. I admire my father most for his service to his country and his community.

At the age of 22, my dad volunteered to go into the Air Corps and served as a bomber pilot in WWII.

He was a Captain in the 448th Air Division, completed 30 bomber missions over Germany, and developed a training program for American pilots to improve bombing accuracy that saved many lives.

My dad served on the Board of Trustees for Shasta College and was instrumental in the choice of the architect, the site, and the design of the buildings of the Shasta College campus.

He served on the committee to get the high school in Burney. He is one of the Burney Rotary Club's charter members and has been a Rotarian for over 25 years. I'm very proud of my dad.

-Shannon Toler about her dad, Irv Toler of Burney

NICOLE CARLOTTO

He understands me. He respects who I am. He is willing to pick me up at 1 a.m. because I wanted to go to prom with my friends. He's also a nice person, and that's important.

-Nicole Carlotto about her dad, Robert Carlotto of Burney

JENNIFER WALL

He's special to me because he cares about me. He's willing to make sacrifices to spend time with me. He keeps me safe. He supports me in everything I do.

-Jennifer Wall about her dad, Vince Wall of Burney

MATT RICKARD

I surf with my Dad. He taught me how to work on cars. When I was little, we always came up here to go fishing and I still come to visit my grandmother (Vivian Rickard) and my uncle (Gary Rickard). My Dad taught me to be an outdoor type. He encouraged me to go to school and helped me pay for college. He's a teacher. I just graduated from UC Santa Barbara and will probably end up being a teacher, too. I was in a car accident a few years ago and he helped me all through that. He's a good dad. He's done everything for me.

-Matt Rickard about his dad, Dan Rickard of Ventura

Heated talks on schools budget

BY MEG FOX

Trustees for the Fall River Joint Unified School District received a $10 million preliminary budget to review and approve when they meet again on June 19.

The budget presentation also brought heated comments from teachers, principals, and others in the audience about what budget cuts the district should make.

Chief Business Official Roger Borkey said expected revenues are $10.8 million, which is $677,000 less than last year's income.

Expenditures are budgeted at $11.2 million, an amount that's about $106,000 less than what was budgeted last year.

"This particular year we're going to spend more than we're getting," Borkey said.

The difference was made up from the reserve, while still keeping the state required three percent reserve.

Borkey said the preliminary budget actually has a reserve that is $6,473 above the three percent, plus an additional $32,000 that went in at the board meeting when the trustees agreed to a suggested budget cut.

"I sent a letter to the board suggesting two cuts, one of which they approved and one they didn't," he said.

The district budgeted $32,000 for the purchase of two vans, used but newer than the existing vehicles, and the board agreed to hold off on the purchase.

Trustees - and two principals - disagreed with cutting $10,000 from the block grants at three school sites.

Borkey said the district allocates $65,000 to each high school and $30,000 to each elementary school for school supplies deemed necessary by the principals.

He did not want to cut Burney High School's block grant because it was the one school in the district that last year was not eligible for state funding awarded for test scores.

The school raised its test scores and was in line for funding this year until Gov. Gray Davis cut the award program from the state budget.

Fall River High School had not spent all of last year's block grant, Borkey explained.

As the board continues to study the preliminary budget this week, Trustee Connie Sebastian said they would be looking very carefully "to see exactly what we need to do to do our best by our kids."

Because California school districts must prepare an operating budget before the state determines what it is giving out and what it is cutting out, Borkey said the figures are their "best guess," but based on regular input from the School Services Trade Association in Sacramento.

Preparing a budget under such circumstances, said Sebastian, "is like a family where the Dad receives notice that his job is shutting down in a couple of months. What do you do? You start looking at your money and deciding what you can do without, without hurting the family too badly."

"We realize the future is going to be tight, but it looks to us that the district puts everything else first," a teacher said after the meeting.

Two years ago, the district said its goal was to move teachers' salaries into the top quartile of salaries paid in comparable districts and, with interest-based bargaining, progress was made.

With no contract yet or salary raises for 2001-2002, some teachers are reportedly feeling discour-

WANTED FOR SEX HORMONE STUDY

MEN consuming long-acting pain medication (Oxycontin, Ms Contin, Methadone, or Transdermal Fentanyl)

These medications very quickly stop formation of testosterone (the male sex hormone), a change which often produces decreasing libido, impaired sexual function, fatigue, depression, and osteoporosis. Our current study examines the effect of returning these lowered testosterone levels to normal for a period of 6 months by daily application of a commercially available testosterone-containing skin patch (Andero-derm-Watson Laboratories, Inc). During the study, all examinations, blood tests, and testosterone therapy are provided to participants without charge.

Subjects must meet the following criteria:

- Ages 18-55 years
- Weight 110-240 pounds (must not be greatly obese)
- Daily pain medication consumption of at least 20 mg
- Below normal testosterone blood level (we will measure)

Men are not eligible if they have a history of malignant disease which has required chemotherapy or radiation, diabetes, testosterone deficiency due to other conditions, previously treated testosterone deficiency, recent use of certain herbs or other medications, or any of several other conditions which can be identified during screening interview, physical examination, and blood tests.

Heated budget talks

aged and are starting to think about looking for jobs in other districts.

AT the meeting, several people talked about cutting the district's school safety officer from the budget.

DeeWayne Field currently has a part time $12,000 a year contract to run safety programs and maintain safety records as required by Cal-OSHA and the Environmental Protection Agency's Hazardous Waste Disposal Program.

"People disagreed very much with the safety program and thought we could run one without that position," Borkey said.

Those who objected questioned the need for the position in tight times and asked why Field's hours had been increased from the original contact of two hours a day. They also said they hadn't seen him very much at school sites.

Borkey defended the program because he believes the position is needed to reduce the district's high accident rate and Workers Comp claims. Fewer accidents would mean they could eventually get a lower insurance rate, now one of the highest in their group of 40 districts.

"If we can get down to an average number of claims, we could save $70,000 to $80,000 a year," he said. "We would also have fewer employees off work with injuries."

The trustees agreed with Borkey and decided to maintain the program for at least one more year.

Borkey said the budget includes $151,000 in step and column increases for both certificated and classified staff, of as much as 5 percent in a few cases, but no pay raises and a contract has not yet been negotiated with employees.

The district is still "qualified" as a result of last year's budget shortfall and is still under the county's close financial scrutiny.

"The county has to approve any major expenditures and they would not approve a salary increase," said Borkey.

In order to give raises, "we would have to show how we would pay for this for the next three years and we could not do that. We can't do it unless we have a reduction of teachers."

In a related discussion, Borkey said that with declining enrollment, the district is currently overstaffed.

The board agreed to again offer early retirement incentives to teachers who are 55 or older and have been in the district for at least 15 years.

Borkey said letters were sent to 17 teachers and about seven responded. Of those, he believes only one or two may take the early retirement offer.

The district saves money by either not replacing the teacher or hiring a replacement at a lower salary. The district pays the retirees medical benefits until age 65, with a cap of $5,506 per year.

In another matter, the trustees announced that they met in a special meeting April 25 and agreed in a 3-2 vote to buy back Supt. Earnie Graham's 22 days of unused vacation time at a cost of $8,480. The motion to approve the buyout was made by Sebastian and seconded by Bob Hatcher.

The board said this was per Graham's contract and, though not a raise but a buyout, put it on his salary schedule so he can receive California State Teachers Retirement System (STRS) credit. Graham is retiring from this district June 30.

Another recent expenditure was the purchase of a $5,000 SuperSufer stand-on lawn mower.

Borkey said the mower was budgeted in maintenance.

"We watched the budget until we were sure we had the money for it," he said. It has a 48-inch-wide cutting deck for smaller areas.

Student recognized for merit honor

BY MEG FOX

Fall River High School senior and Class Valedictorian Scott Turner has been named a Commended Student in the 2002 National Merit Scholarship Program.

Turner was one of 34,000 students recognized for demonstrating his exceptional academic promise by his performance in the very competitive Merit Program.

As a Commended Student, he placed among the top five percent of more than one million students who entered the 2002 competition by taking the 2000 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

Turner, 18, is the son of Boyd and Kathy Turner of Fall River Mills.

He will be attending Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo to study aerospace engineering.

"He wants to get to Mars," his mother said.

For his senior project, Turner worked at the Hat Creek Observatory radio Astronomy Lab on a project to determine star development in Cepheus cloud formation.

This summer, he will be working for the U.S. Forest Service on a firefighter engine crew.

Turner is the senior class president at Fall River High and a member of the California Scholastic Federation.

This past year he enjoyed participating on his school's Academic Challenge Team on KRCR-TV and was the team captain.

He and Justin Royse took first place in Physics Lab at the state Science Olympiad.

In the recent Keys Awards presented at Fall River, Turner received the U.S. Marine Corps Scholar Award, the U.S. Air Force Math and Science Award and a Bank of America. He was one of several students named a Shasta Cascade League

SCOTT TURNER

Senior Scholar Athlete, a CIF Scholar Athlete, and a Fall River Boosters Club four-year academic letter award winner.

He received a state Merit Seal for high achievement on the Golden State Exams.

Turner also plays sports and enjoys skiing, soccer, and track, in particular one- and two-mile long distance running.

In his free time, he likes to play computer games with friends.

"He's just a kid who likes to learn. He's curious. Like a sponge who soaks up information," said Kathy Turner. "He's an all-around good kid and we are very proud of him."

Jeppson chosen for third annual Hawaii tourney

After having been nominated by her Big Valley High School volleyball coach Paula Silva, Deidra Jeppson was selected to represent her school, community, state and region at the third annual National Invitational Volleyball Tournament scheduled to be held in Hawaii June 23 through July 2.

The criteria for Jeppson's selection included her past performance, future potential as a volleyball player, position played, most current statistics, academic standing, athletic awards and her coach's personal evaluation and recommendation.

The daughter of Brad and Vicki Jeppson of Adin, this is quite an honor for Deidra, as she will be competing with more than 200 athletes from 48 other states in this, invitation only tournament set to be held on the island of Oahu showcasing the best junior players in the U.S.

This Hawaii experience will in part be a cultural education from the roots of the Native Hawaiian to the historical significance and visitation to Pearl Harbor.

The tournament itself will be as competitive as possible, with each athlete playing at least 10 volleyball matches.

More than 4,000 girls

Deidra Jeppson

from all over the U.S. were nominated for this tournament, however only the top 5 percent were chosen

Deidra will have the honor of not only representing Big Valley High School but all of Modoc and Lassen counties and possibly all of Northern California at the tournament.

However, it is also necessary Deidra must seek sponsorship to help defray the $2,876 total cost for the event.

Local individuals and businesses are urged to assist in making this once in a lifetime experience come true.

Sponsorship contributions may be mailed to Deidra at P.O. Box 304, Adin 96006.

First Foster Care

Orphan Trains

In the mid-1800s there were about 10,000 homeless children living on the streets of New York City. They survived by stealing, begging for food or joining gangs for protection. They were hungry and cold and did not have enough clothes. They slept wherever they could.

There was no government help — no welfare or food stamps or homeless shelters. There were no foster homes.

Most orphanages accepted children only when a family member could pay for their support. There was a Foundling Hospital, but it cared for children only from birth until they were 3 or 4 years old.

Many poor children worked in factories. Others were forced onto the streets. In addition to the great number of immigrants with no jobs, the Civil War, poor health and accidents all added to the poverty.

These children in New York City wait for the train that will take them to what they hope will be a better life in the country.

Trying to help

In 1853 a minister, the Rev. Charles Brace, and other caring people founded the Children's Aid Society. They wanted to do more than give poor children food and shelter.

They set up schools to teach the children a trade and the difference between right and wrong.

But there were too many children to help that way. The Children's Aid Society began sending these homeless city children to families in the rural Midwest, hoping they would find better lives.

The trains taking them away from New York City's poverty became known as the Orphan Trains.

The orphans

Most of the children chosen to travel on the Orphan Trains had at least one living parent. But if one parent had died, the surviving parent often could not support and care for the children.

Many mothers died in garment factory fires or in childbirth. The Civil War took many fathers. The flu of 1918 killed thousands.

If the mother died, the father might be at work all day with no one to care for the children. If the father died, there were few jobs for women. Mothers could not support their children.

Starting a new life

Most of the children stayed on the Orphan Trains for about three days. They slept in their seats or stretched out on the floor under the seats.

About 125 kids were on each train, with a few Children's Aid agents traveling with them.

Children who were chosen for the Orphan Trains were told the night before they were going. They were given a bath and allowed to pick out one or two changes of secondhand clothing.

Meet U2

In 1976, a 14-year-old drummer in Dublin, Ireland, named Larry Mullen put a note on the school bulletin board looking for musicians to form a band. After several classmates auditioned, the band was formed. That was the beginning of U2, one of the biggest bands in the world.

Besides Larry, 40, the other members are Bono, born Paul Hewson, 42 (vocals), the Edge, born Dave Evans, 40 (guitar), and Adam Clayton, 42 (bass).

Before the name U2, they were called Feedback and The Hype. Growing up, Adam dreamed of being a bassist in a rock band. Bono and his wife have two daughters and two sons. Larry, who is a big Elvis Presley fan, has three children. The Edge has five children.

Orphan Trains Offered Hope

Hoping for the best

Orphan Train children had to have a lot of courage. Most were leaving behind at least one parent, and many were separated from their brothers and sisters as well.

The Children's Aid Society believed the children would be better off if their new lives were completely separated from their old ones.

Children were not allowed to communicate with their living parent or other family members. Most children never knew what happened to their parents. Most parents never knew if their children ended up happy.

Orphan Train children were city kids who had no idea how to live in the country. It was often hard to adjust. Here a boy learns to work in the fields of Kansas.

A new life

Most Orphan Train children found good homes with loving families. But experts estimate that about one-quarter of the kids ended up with families who were mean or who used the children as unpaid servants.

Most kids found good homes in the end. If a child were being mistreated, Children's Aid agents usually found him or her a new home.

Even the children who ended up with bad families were probably better off than on the streets of the city. They had food and shelter. They were kept away from a life of crime.

One girl's story

When Clara was about 7 years old, her parents and a sister were killed when they tried to cross a river in New York state. She and her two brothers, 5-year-old James and 3-year-old Howard, were sent to an orphanage in New York City.

Soon after, all three children were sent on the Orphan Train to different families in Kansas. Each child ended up with a different, loving family.

Clara and her brothers were lucky. They all were taken in by caring people. The siblings were able to keep in touch with one another throughout their lives.

Clara was adopted by a minister's family. Her new mother was a schoolteacher. When she grew up, Clara married and moved to Texas. She recently celebrated her 100th birthday.

The Orphan Train project

The Orphan Trains began about 10 years before the Civil War and lasted for about 75 years. In that time about 150,000 children from 4 to 13 years old were placed in rural homes.

The first state to accept a group of these poor city children was Michigan. By the end of the Orphan Trains, 47 states were involved.

In the 1870s, the Sisters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul set up a similar project. They sent needy children to Catholic homes throughout the Midwest and South.

Their children were adopted by Catholic families. Some of the Orphan Train children were not adopted. They were the first official foster children.

Grown-up "orphans"

Experts believe there are at least 200 Orphan Train children still living. Many searched for much of their adult lives for their families. Some brothers and sisters were finally reunited when they were in their 70s.

Most Orphan Train children learned how important it is to be loved. They grew up to become loving, caring parents of their own children.
