Burney fire chief choice hush-hush; budget still pending

BY MEG FOX

Mum's still the word on the commissioners' choice of a chief for the Burney Fire Protection District.

At their monthly meeting July 10, the commissioners said they had negotiated a preliminary contract with a candidate and sent the document to Shasta County Counsel for review.

"I do believe we will come to an agreement and everyone will be very happy," said President Donna Sylvester.

But, until the contract is signed, she said, "We're not giving up the name.'

The prospective candidate, who is from California, has to give his department 30 days' notice and said he could start in Burney Sept. 1.

"But I hope it's sooner than that," Sylvester said.

Also still pending are the final figures needed from Shasta County so that the fire department can finalize its budget.

In other business, Lt. Rick Moore said the department received a six-page questionnaire from the Insurance Services Office, Inc., the organization that provides the insurance industry with statistics for determining premiums and risk.

In February, the fire department considered asking the ISO to re-evaluate the area because upgrades within the district could result in a lower ISO rating and lower insurance premiums for homeowners.

The commissioners were also worried that a survey might result in increased premium costs and they decided to wait until they had a fire chief.

Sylvester wondered what had generated the ISO's current request for information, but CDF Battalion Chief Tim McCammon, who was at the meeting on another matter, assured her that the ISO annually updates its records.

Big Bend quarry OK'd by planners

A proposed rock quarry near Big Bend was approved Thursday by the Shasta County Planning Commissioners in Redding.

Bates Mountain Quarry plans to excavate, crush, stockpile and truck out about 236,000 cubic yards of rock.

The work at the quarry, located on a 7.4-acre portion of a 120-acre parcel north of Highway 299, is expected to continue to 2013.

"We received $12,000 plus last year," said Penny Heil, secretary for the McCloud Chamber of Commerce. "And I think we're the only unincorporated town that has gotten money back."

The tax for a night's stay at a hotel/motel, bed and breakfast, or RV/camp sites in Siskiyou County is 8 percent of the total fee charged each guest.

In Shasta County, the tax is 10 percent and it goes directly to the county's general fund.

Hello, anybody out there?

The first of, what is hoped, to be 350 dishes of the Allen Telescope Array was installed Friday at the Hat Creek Observatory. As part of the SETI (search for extraterrestrial intelligence) science project, full construction still needs state and federal permits for a planned completion date of mid 2005. All SETI science is privately funded. The Hat Creek project is made possible by philanthropists Paul Allen, co-founder of Microsoft, who donated $11.5 million, and Nathan Mryhrvold, who donated $1 million. Allen has said he will provide additional monies to complete the $26 million project. For more information, view The News web site, www.im-news.com. #### BACKGROUND

The Shasta County Regional Transportation Planning Agency (RTPA) took action in June 2001 to establish three new express transit routes on a trial basis. The routes were the Cottonwood Express, the Intermountain Express (formerly Burney Express) and the Airport Road Corridor Express. Their action included a date certain (one year from start of service) that the various routes would have to meet performance measures dealing with ridership and costs for services. To meet the performance measures the routes would need to average 3.5 riders per hour or recover a 10 to 20 percent farebox ratio. To date the performance measures have not been met.

Burney Manager Linda Dunn said the company advised her it isn't going to re-brand until September, but it could be an altogether different brand by then.

One month after Tesoro's $1 billion purchase of the retail sites and San Francisco's Golden Eagle Refinery from Valero Energy Corp, the company announced a $500 million debt reduction ing the total price to $1.125 program.

The original terms of the transaction, announced in February, included $1 billion for the assets, working capital and inventories, as well as a five-year earnout payment of up to $150 million based on historical margins.

Citing possible Federal Trade Commission and state concerns regarding the earnout payment, Tesoro agreed to pay additional consideration of $50 million for the assets at closing in lieu of any earnout payment, bringbillion.

The divestiture of the Golden Eagle Refinery and retail assets was mandated by the consent order executed last year between the Federal Trade Commission and Valero Energy Corp. Tesoro, based in San Antonio, Texas, operates five refineries in the Western U.S. and, in addition to the Tesoro brands, sells its Mirastar™ brand at several Wal-Mart locations.

McCloud chamber successful in keeping 20% of TOT monies

Heil "We spent $1,500 of the TOT to pay dues for McCloud in the Siskiyou Regional Development Association, which is an economic planning group for business development in the area. It was well worth the time and money."

They also hired someone to help them put together a strategic plan outlining their mission statement and goals.

"It made our board of supervisors happy because it showed them that we were going to be around for while and it showed how we planned to get there," said Heil.

She admits the planning part hasn't been easy. "We worked on it from February to May and we now have a draft, but we're still working on market research."

That's been put on hold until their event season ends in the fall.

Heil said she also isn't certain when - or if - they'll receive another windfall.

"Our request for this year is still pending due to the state budget and what will filter down to the county. We won't even be considered until September.'

Shannon Toler, owner of the Burney Motel, said the Burney Chamber used to get back a percentage of the local bed tax, but she wasn't sure when or why it stopped and where the money goes once it gets into Shasta County's general fund.

Bob Wimer of Fall River Mills, a past president of the Fall River Valley Chamber of Commerce, said he remembers in the 1970's when the Burney and Fall River chambers received $10,000 each from the TOT dollars collected.

"About $60,000 in revenue came out of the Intermountain area and we got $20,000 back," Wimer recalled.

He said that when TOT was established, Shasta County Counsel decided that chambers of commerce were not entitled to it.

"The board of supervisors voted to put the tax in the county general fund, but to use it to advertise the local communities where it came from," Wimer said, adding us," he recalled.

"Then in the mid-1980's. for some odd reason, they took the money and put it in the general fund and then they cut off the chambers altogether," Nemanic said.

"We went before the board and they flat told us we couldn't get the money because the county was so broke," said Wimer. "There's always a reason to take money away from people."

Wimer said at the time the Fall River chamber used their TOT funds for an office secretary, to produce and mail chamber brochures, and to send representatives to promote the area at the state fair and other venues.

"And then they voted it away and I'd still like to know why," said Wimer.

When asked if any portion of Shasta County TOT monies is returned today as a benefit to the communities, Sue Norberg, Shasta County's Chief Deputy Treasurer, Tax Collector and Public Administrator, said it depends on the interpretation of 'benefit.'

For example, she said that if she were in the motel business, "It wouldn't make sense to me to pay a tax and have it come back to me."

But it could go to pay for roads, she suggested.

According to County Administrative Officer Doug Latimer, a portion of the $593,480 bed tax that was collected throughout the county last year is returned to the areas that generated the money – and a lot of it does go into road maintenance.

"We spend a lot on roads and on snow removal and we make an effort to serve Burney," he said.

Funds are also spent on law enforcement in outlying areas and he cited repairs to Sheriff's substation as an example.

Of last year's total, Shasta County collected $253,000 from room rentals and campgrounds in District 3, an area that includes Hat Creek, Old Station, Burney, Johnson Park, McArthur and Fall River Mills.

The figure is based on collections from July 1, 2001 to April 2002 and does not include May and June for either year, Latimer said.

Of the $253,000 collected in District 3, $205,000 came from room rentals and $48,000 was collected in camping and RV sites.

Shasta County's projected TOT receipts for this year are around $618,000, an increase that could be due to more people traveling within the state after 9/11, Latimer said.

A large potion of Shasta County's TOT supports the Shasta Cascade Wonderland Association, which promotes tourism throughout the north state, he said.

Latimer noted that Burney Falls in McArthur-Burney Memorial State Park is fea-money before they gave it to the parking lot at the Burney tured on the cover of the new Visitors Guide, a fold-out brochure.

> Latimer sent a 2000 brochure that lists area lodging and camping and describes parks including Ahjumawi, Lassen Volcanic, and McArthur-Burney Falls.

> The Fort Crook Museum and the Pit River Casino are in the brochure, as are events in Shasta County including Burney Basin Days, the Intermountain Fair, and Heritage Days.

> "People (in the outlying areas) always feel they aren't getting their fair share, but more money per capita goes to outlying areas than to the areas that are closer in," he said.

> "The board of supervisors is pretty clear that TOT money should go back to the areas generating it."

Wimer contends that a local chamber could better advertise its own area.

Heil said she hopes other chambers will follow McCloud's lead and have similar success in bringing locally collected tax dollars a little closer to home.

As part of its debt reduction goal, Smith said the company would divest assets including "the 70 recently acquired Beacon stations in California."

The commissioners were also concerned about not having a fire chief to answer the questionnaire.

McCammon suggested they simply telephone the ISO and explain their situation.

In the meantime, the commissioners told Moore to go ahead and submit the ISO- requested map of fire hydrants in the district.

"Just don't leave any out," Sylvester added.

McCammon asked the commissioners to sign an annual California Fire Assistance Agreement between the CDF and the fire department, as required by the Office of Emergency Services.

The agreement, usually signed by the fire chief, outlines the hourly reimbursement rates paid when Burney Fire Department staff and equipment are required as mutual aide on wildland fires outside the district.

In other business, Commissioner Donna Caldwell questioned a $1,200 bill from Shasta County's Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO).

"It's triple what we paid last year. I feel it's slightly outrageous," she said. "I'm not paying that kind of money."

In an interview Thursday after the meeting, a LAFCO spokesperson explained the three reasons for the increase, which was not a miscalculation and is a cost shared by Shasta County, its three cities, and its 34 special districts.

LAFCO Executive Officer Julie Howard said one reason for the increase is that there are four fewer agencies sharing the total cost this year.

Also, the state controller has revised its figures, based on a formula derived from district operating revenues that are submitted annually. And, LAFCO's own budget "slightly increased" over last year, she said.

In another matter, Sylvester read a letter from Dean Wright of Burney's VFW Post 1021 complimenting Lt. Rick Moore for his outstanding help during the Burney Basin Days fireworks.

LNF imposes fire restrictions as of July 19 throughout forest

As wildland fire dangers continue to climb, restrictions on outdoor use of fire will go into effect Friday, July 19 throughout the Lassen National Forest.

"We realize that these restrictions can cause some inconvenience," commented Ed Cole, Lassen National Forest Supervisor. "But we need the restrictions to reduce the chance of humancaused wildfires."

Under the restrictions, open fires, campfires, and charcoal fires will be allowed only within the campfire rings or stoves in designated recreation sites.

Portable stoves using gas, jellied petroleum or pressurized liquid fuel are exempt from the restrictions, but a campfire permit is required to use these stoves outside of designated recreation sites.

Smoking is allowed only within enclosed vehicles, or designated recreation sites.

No operation of internal combustion engines will be allowed except on forest development roads.

All woodcutting using a chainsaw is prohibited.

In addition to the Lassen National Forest restrictions, the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection has suspended all permits for incinerator and trash pile burning in Lassen, Modoc and Plumas counties.

These restrictions will remain in place until significant weather changes occur that reduces the fire hazard potential.

When these changes occur the Lassen National Forest will notify the public through the media and its Ranger District offices.

BY MEG FOX

A regional office of the Shasta County Department of Public Health opened in the Barr Building in Burney June 17.

There will be Open House Thursday from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. to introduce the community to all the services now available locally.

In addition to the services one might expect, such as monthly immunization clinics, the public health office also offers well-water testing and confidential HIV testing.

Residents can also get assistance in applying for low-cost Healthy Families medical insurance, arrange home nursing visits, or get help with needs such as child car seats or emergency clothing and blankets.

Community members can even request Shasta County Birth and Death Certificates locally.

"Our mission is to work in the community and with

She is a certified occupational therapy assistant and worked in occupational therapy for 10 years.

Shellisa Moore not only oversees the entire operation of the regional office, but also coordinates community health planning activities.

She and the staff work with the Tri-Counties Community Network to provide services through the Partnership for Public Health grant and are members of the IMAGE group.

Moore still works with the Intermountain Injury Prevention Coalition.

Prior to becoming the health department's community development coordinator, Moore was the community health educator and a grant writer at Mayers Memorial Hospital and she ran the Breastfeeding Resource Center

A 1987 graduate of Fall River High School, Moore has a health science degree with an emphasis on health education from California State University, Chico. She and her husband.

"I would go to the home and talk to the family and explain how to get rid of lice and explain that it happens a lot and that it's nothing to feel bad about."

And, while her goal is to help people help themselves, she does get involved. She recently heard about someone who needed towels and bedding, "I took the client some sheets and towels from the Clothes Closet and visited for a while," said Woods.

The Women, Infants, Children (WIC) to age 5 services are provided through Nutritionist Marcia (pronounced Marcv) McFarlane.

"The focus is on nutrition education, healthy foods, breastfeeding support, education and outreach," said McFarlane.

WIC provides food vouchers for milk, cheese, cereal, grains, juice, canned tuna, and infant cereal and formula.

WIC is based on income eligibility, according to Coordinator Delia Farias, who is bilingual and is in the regional office once a month for Hispanic clients.

The staff is trained to do community presentations on a variety of topics that include contagious diseases, anemia prevention, sexually transmitted diseases, weight management, senior health, child health and safety, and much more.

The Burney Regional Office of Shasta County Public Health is open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and is located at the entrance to the Barr Building in Suite D, 37491 Enterprise Street.

noted McArthur artist will be on display.

"Pastel is my medium and I really do prefer painting portraits, though there's very little call for them," said Lenhart, who plans to do a portrait of a Native American.

Her style, she said, "borders on the traditional, but with a little bit of the Impressionist style.

"I consider myself a colorist. I like to make the skin tones in my portraits look like there's blood in the face, not namby-pamby."

She also works in oils and acrylics. "I'll work for a while in one medium and then another. It keeps me fresh. I like to keep on experiencing different things.'

Lenhart, who has lived in the Fall River Valley for 21 years, has been painting all her life. "I started out teaching younger children to paint at the YMCA when I was in high school and I've been dabbling in it ever since," she said.

She went on to study for two years at the Student Art League in Los Angeles and has taken workshops with such artists as Anita Wolff, E. John Robinson and Ben Konis.

"Art is something you can keep studying all your life,"

And, though she describes her work as "only a hobby," her paintings have won numerous awards and medals and has been exhibited throughout the Northwest in galleries such as the Shaun Brenda Hall Gallery in San Francisco, the Sacramento Fine Arts Gallery in Carmichael, the Tollefson Gallery in Oakland, Ore., the Lighthouse Gallery in Crescent City and the Hallie Brown Ford Gallery in Roseburg, Ore.

She and her husband, Erv. have been married 56 years and have three grown children.

Lenhart is also involved in supporting arts in the community and has twice been president of the Intermountain Artists, Inc. and a member of the Gallery and Gifts Cooperative for more than 20 years. She currently serves on the board of directors

Also on staff are Advocates Claudia Woods, the former Outreach Intermountain Coordinator for the Shasta County Women's Refuge in Burney, and Manuel Meza, who is bilingual and will be working with the Hispanic community.

Also assisting the public are Community Organizer Laura Thompson, of Pittville, Public Health Nurse David Moeschler, of Cassel, WIC Nutritionist Marcia McFarlane, of Burney, and WIC Coordinator Delia Farias, of Redding.

The regional office not only serves the Intermountain area, but also Big Bend, Oak Run, Shingletown and Whitmore, said Laura Thompson.

Thompson's task is talk to the people and the organizations in Eastern Shasta County's communities.

"We want to find out what the assets are and what people feel are the barriers to health and well-being," she said.

"With that information, I will help the communities organize something to address the barriers."

Thompson said she is already aware of limited childcare services in the McArthur area.

"I've been looking at resources to organize a group to focus on that," she said.

She is also working on providing senior transportation in McArthur for transport to medical appointments locally and in Redding.

Thompson and her husband, Dave, and their three children - Jacob, 8, Catie, 7, and Nathan, 6 months old - moved to the area three years ago from the Sacramento foothills.

Health Public Nurse David Moeschler does home pre-natal and post-partum health visits, HIV testing, and immunizations - from adult flu shots and tetanus to the childhood and kindergarten shots.

Moeschler moved to this area from Redding about five years ago. He is a former weatherman for the U.S. Army and has a degree in nursing from Fresno State.

As part of his duties, Moeschler also investigates contagious diseases and reports on outbreaks.

Public Health Advocate Manuel Meza said he has already established a client base within the area's Hispanic communities and plans to reach more people, through referrals, word-ofmouth, or by going out and knocking on doors.

"I provide outreach for the hard-to-reach population," he said.

Meza is organizing health events and screening clinics. "What I'm hearing is that people want more services for physical fitness and more information on nutrition," he said.

Meza was the health education assistant with the Tehama County Department of Public Health, before going to work for Shasta County in Redding.

He is also a certified Healthy Family Assistor and a certified HIV counselor.

Community Health Advocate Claudia Woods said their job is to assess needs and provide referrals to the services.

As an example, Woods said, a schoolteacher might contact her about a child with a chronic lice problem.

The Beaver State

Oregon From A to Z

Oregon, a Pacific Coast state, is known for its forests, mountains and coast, with tall cliffs, sandy beaches and harbors.

Today, the manufacturing of forest products, food products, metals, plastics, computer parts and software is important. World corporations such as Nike are headquartered there. Tourism is a big industry.

Native Americans first settled in the area about 13,000 years ago. Spanish, British and Russian explorers all claimed it for their countries.

Fur-trading companies such as the Hudson's Bay Co. were early leaders in settling the area.

Until President Thomas Jefferson sent Meriwether Lewis and William Clark to explore the area in 1804, few white people settled there. The Lewis and Clark explorations gave the U.S. the strongest claim to the land. It became a state in 1859.

Oregon is the 28th most populated state, with about  $3^{1/2}$  million people.

San Pedro features twin bedroom suites

By Associated Designs

The San Pedro is a contemporary Mediterranean-style vacation home designed for dual ownership. Mirror-image bedroom suites extend from opposite sides of a central hexagonal great room, providing a mix of privacy and shared living space.

Vaulted at the center, the great room is voluminous and bright. High arched windows fill most of three walls, offering a panoramic view of the vista to the rear. A pellet stove backed by a half wall sits the patio, is roomy enough to relax the owners and a few guests.

The large kitchen has ample counter space for two or more chefs to work at the same time without bumping elbows. Range and oven are in the wide island with work space on either side. The location of the sink and dishwasher, built into a long eating bar, allows the cleanup crew to chat with people sitting on the other side, or gaze out the window while they work.

A small powder room is to the left and an equally compact utility room is to the right. Each of the San Pedro's bedroom suites has a walkin closet and a private bathroom with a tub.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $25 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, OR 97402. Please specify the San Pedro 11-049 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring more than 350 home plans is available for $15. For more information, call (800) 634-0123.
