Nephew said to have stabbed Hat Creek aunt

Shasta County sheriff's deputies arrested Joshua Lee Davis, 20, of Hat Creek Sunday night shortly after he allegedly stabbed his aunt behind the ear with a screwdriver.

Sylvia Winn, 50, also of Hat Creek was flown to a Redding Hospital where Monday she was listed in stable but critical condition.

The two had reportedly been arguing at a residence off Wilcox Road. Winn was taken to a nearby residence by relatives.

Davis was arrested by deputies a short time later and booked into county jail for attempted murder and assault with a deadly weapon. He was to be arraigned Tuesday.

Bailey Park gets OK to research costs for Burney ballot initiative

BY MEG FOX

The Bailey Community Park project received an okay from the water district to take a closer look at what it would cost to activate their dormant Parks and Recreation District.

Cindy Dodds, executive director of the Tri Counties Community Network, and Project Coordinator Lynn Erickson once again described the park plans to three directors of the Burney Water District at their Dec. 18 meeting.

The sticking points were the same as when Dodds brought the project to the board in June.

They still aren't sure they want to take on anything more and they aren't convinced the community would go for a ballot initiative to acquire the necessary property tax dollars to fund the additional district.

"Our feeling is that getting a Parks and Recreation District will avail this community of dollars it is not getting," Dodds said.

She described the McCloud Community Services District, which has a tax base of $40,000 a year "and so much Parks and Recreation money they don't know what to do with it."

In 2000, for example, the McConnell Foundation gave the McCloud CSD $51,500 for playground equipment, park benches, sprinkler system renovations, an outfield fence, and lawn for their community park.

That same year they received $46,000 from the Ford Family Foundation for park improvements and $21,500 from the California Integrated Waste Management Board to install recycled tires as playground surface.

Mayers to vaccinate 10 hospital volunteers for smallpox

BY MEG FOX

Mayers Memorial Hospital plans to give smallpox vaccinations to 10 volunteer employees in mid-January as part of a nationwide program to develop Smallpox Response teams.

On Dec. 13, Pres. Bush announced the plan to protect Americans against the threat of smallpox should there be such an attack by hostile groups or governments, according to the Centers for Disease Control.

The first phase of the plan is to vaccinate emergency and healthcare workers, as they would be the first needed to mobilize in an emergency, according to Mayers CEO Jerry Fikes.

Pres. Bush just had his shot and certain military personnel are also receiving the smallpox vaccine.

"Pre-attack vaccination of Smallpox

Response Teams will allow them, in the event of a smallpox attack, to immediately administer the vaccine to others and care for victims," the CDC said.

In Phase II of the plan, police, fire personnel and first responders would receive vaccinations, probably in June, Fikes said.

According to the CDC, the federal government is not recommending that the general public be vaccinated at this point.

"Our government has no information that a biological attack is imminent, and there are significant side effects and risks associated with the vaccine," according to the CDC.

Fikes said that about nine of the 10 hospital volunteers would be of an age to have already had the smallpox vaccination.

"That will be a good indication that they can take it again and are low risk," he said.

The vaccine is a live virus, cowpox. And while it is not smallpox, it does provide immunity to the disease, Fikes said.

Some people who have the vaccine "can get flu-like symptoms, with muscle aches and pains. Some feel bad enough to be bedridden and some just feel punk," Fikes said.

The CDC said certain people should not get the vaccine, such as anyone who has a weakened immune system or skin conditions such as eczema, burns, chickenpox, shingles, impetigo, herpes, severe acne, or psoriasis until the conditions clear up.

Savings not found in school grouping

BY MEG FOX

Consolidating the school district's two high schools may not be the best cost savings option.

The amount of Necessary Small High School Funding that the district stands to lose through consolidation could squash that unpopular option, one of several the school board will discuss at their Jan. 8 workshop.

"It's looking more like consolidation might not be a possibility," said Nancy Sisk, a trustee for the Fall River JUSD.

"We don't have all the numbers, but from the information I've gotten it may not be a cost savings for the district," she said.

Supt. Eric Newton said the situation and the consolidation option "are more complex than they might seem."

Newton wants to improve the district's curriculum while in the throes of declining enrollment and a tightening budget.

One of the more controversial considerations was to consolidate the 9-12th grade high schools in either Burney or McArthur.

"It would generate some savings, such as having fewer principals and office and custodial staff and, instead of having two classes of 10 students (at two sites), we could have one class of 20," Newton said.

"But, on the financial side, we may not gain as much as we think and so the analysis is continuing."

Newton said a "subset of options" surrounding high school consolidation includes the pros and cons of where the district's seventh and eighth grade students would go.

At present, consolidating kindergarten through sixth grade is not a consideration.

"We're trying to look at all the different options and trying to figure out what's the best direction for the next several years," Sisk said.

In Burney, a group of concerned parents has organized a community meeting set for Dec. 30, at 6 p.m., in the Burney High School library.

"We want to hear from people with potential alternatives and suggestions to help with the problems currently facing the Fall River school district," said one parent.

The trustees will discuss their own proposals and ask for public comment at the Jan. 15 school board meeting in Burney.

Sisk said she wants the final decision to be a community decision "so that we've all had input in deciding what is the best we can do for our kids."

month of receiving the vaccine or who are breastfeeding should not have the vaccination either.

The CDC said smallpox is a serious, contagious, and sometimes fatal infectious disease.

"There is no specific treatment for smallpox disease and the only prevention is vaccination."

The smallpox vaccine was routinely administered to Americans until 1972 and "is a highly effective protection against the disease when given before or shortly after exposure to the virus," according to the CDC.

The last case of smallpox in the United States was in 1949. The last naturally occurring case in the world was in Somalia in 1977.

Hawkins leads his Broncos into top college 20

By RON HARRINGTON
When Dan Hawkins became head football coach of Boise State University in 2000 he had the unenviable task of taking over a program that had won back-to-back Big West Conference league titles and two straight victories in the Crucial.com / Humanitarian Bowl.

At that time, Hawkins, a 1978 graduate of Big Valley High School, was the tight ends and special teams coach and assistant head coach to Dirk Koetter. When Koetter accepted the head coaching position at Arizona State that year, he took all of his Boise State assistants with him but one.

The Broncos also moved up a conference that year, going from the Big West Conference to the Western Athletic Conference offering an even greater challenge for Hawkins.

But in those two seasons, Hawkins has taken Boise State from a second place finish last year with a 6-2 WAC record (8-4 overall) to this year's WAC championship and an 8-0 record (11-1 overall).

For his efforts, Hawkins was named WAC Coach of the Year as well as Co-Coach of the Year for Region 4 by the American Football Coaches Association, sharing the title with University of Oklahoma head football coach Bob Stoops.

In addition, for the first time in the school's history, the Broncos are ranked in the top 25 in the nation - make that the top 20.

Boise State is currently No. 15 in the most recent ESPN/USA Today Coaches poll and No. 19 in the Associated Press Top 25 poll. The team may even end the season higher than that after Tuesday's Crucial.com / Humanitarian Bowl game against Iowa State, a team their favored to beat.

In a phone interview late Friday night where Hawkins was watching game film on Iowa State, the 1984 U.C. Davis graduate said it was a bit daunting two years ago when he became head coach.

"It was a little ominous task," Hawkins acknowledged. "Dirk did a good job, the school had back-to-back titles with 20 wins. It's hard to follow that. But it was a good challenge."

This year's performance impressed Hawkins' bosses so much that the Idaho State Board of Education recently approved a contract extension for Hawkins to 2008.

Between a base salary (state funds) of $141,750 per year for coaching and (non-state funds) of $158,250 for media/public appearances, his cumulative salary will be $300,000, not including numerous incentives that could make the total go even higher.

Just as important, Hawkins said, are the improvements the program is getting, including such things as a better weight room and scholarships offered.

"We can be a consistent top 20 team if we do it right," Hawkins said.

With all of that, you would think Hawkins would feel pretty secure. Not so.

"In this business, if you lose a couple of years (you're out of there)," he said. "But this is a good place and I'm happy to be associated with the program."

On the other hand, if he continues to be successful,

Dan Hawkins leading his Broncos to a winning season.

Hawkins admits he would be tempted to make a move to a bigger program.

"My goal from the beginning was to be a coach in the NFL, but that's not necessarily a goal anymore," he said. "I want to make a difference and have a positive influence on kids. Getting better is better, not bigger is better. "But that being said, never say (never)," he added. "I won't lie. I told the athletic director here that if Notre Dame ever called..."

Hawkins said that would probably be his ultimate college job.

Hawkins came to Boise State in 1998 following a successful stint as head coach at Willamette University in Salem, Ore.

In high school, Hawkins was a fullback and linebacker under Ray Odum and, for one season, under Joe Blevins.

Blevins later coached the New York Giants' Jason Sehorn at Mt. Shasta High School giving Hawkins a connection to the talented player by way of Blevins.

"Yeah, the only difference is Sehorn is a better player," Hawkins said. "That's why I'm coaching."

Hawkins said he'd also like to add an Intermountain area connection to his coaching staff. Robby Snelling, a Burney High School graduate who played tight end at Boise State under Hawkins and was drafted by the Tennessee Titans, is "definitely" coaching material, Hawkins said.

"I tried to get him as a grad assistant (on our football staff) and want him to come out this spring," Hawkins said. "But he wants to try and take one more shot at the NFL and I know how that is. It's hard to get (that desire) out of your blood."

Hawkins and his wife Misti, are the parents of four children: Ashley, 18; Brittany 15; Cody, 14; and Drew, 12.

Given the time consuming nature of his job, Hawkins said he doesn't get back to the Intermountain area very often to visit his father, Norman.

"Not as much as I'd like," he said. "I saw my dad one time last year and before that in 1998."

As for Tuesday's game with Iowa State, it could be a fun offensive show.

The Broncos lead the nation in total offense. They are led by running back Brock Forsey, the nation's leading rusher with 1,533 yards this season.

And Iowa State, although they lost five of their last six games after starting the

Investor confidence

Editor:
It is difficult to have confidence in my share of stock when my company may distribute similar shares, or perhaps preferred shares, as a gift, or "option" to others, free or at some other mystical unforeseen price.
Also, insiders can reap big-rewards by merely being associated with us other shareholders.
Ask congress to "stabilize" the basis, the integrity of a share of stock; by prohibiting all distributions of stock, stock-options, etc., that "dilute" existing stock worth, unless the owner of each and every share of stock receives the exact same-distribution.
Prohibit insiders from purchasing (IPOs) of a Company without first giving notice and benefit, to the company and/or owner of each and every associated share...Only allow one class of stock.

Holiday fire safety tips

Smoke Detectors: Have you tested your smoke detector lately?
Smoke detectors save lives and may save yours! Working smoke detectors in the home have slashed the number of fire-deaths by fifty percent since the late 70 s.
Your smoke detector batteries should be checked monthly, and one should be located in every room of the house.
Chimney Cleaning: Chimneys should be checked and cleaned on a regular basis.
Build-up of creosote is natural during fireplace and wood-stove operations. It is important to remove any build-up from your chimney.
Also, don't forget the chimney outlet and stove pipes are required to have a "spark arrester" fitted with mesh, no larger than half inch.
Christmas Trees: Cut trees need water, often! a fresh-cut tree can remain relatively fire resistant if you follow these important steps:

-Re-Cut the trunk 1-inch above the original cut as soon as you get it home.
-Keep the trunk in the water; do not allow the water source to run-dry.
-Avoid placing the tree near heat.
-Do not block escape routes.
-Check the water level in the tree stand daily.
-Remove the tree immediately after the holidays.
-Use tree-lights that are in perfect working condition, throw away any old light strands. Check for deterioration before placing lights on the tree.
-Turn-off the lights when leaving the house or retiring for the night. Even standard-size holiday lights generate heat.
-Never, ever burn your tree in your wood stove or fireplace! This causes a serious fire hazard.

BY NICOLE CARLOTTO
The 2002 year is quickly dwindling down, but everyone is still busy, busy, and even busier!
The basketball players have been quite active. Coming off their second week of pre season action, with some great games!
Redding Christian allowed our teams to have some exciting home court action-giving us win in all the games played.
Last weekend was also busy; both the boys and girls are headed off to separate tournaments.
Wrestlers were also busy this past week, with a wrestling match up in Modoc.
The November students of the month were honored at the monthly Lions Club Student of the Month dinner. Malia Colomia was the senior student of the month, and Chris Wall was the eighth grade student of the month. Congratulations guys for all of your hard work!
Ski/Snowboard club sign-ups were held. Students grades 7-12 lined the main hall of BHS to sign up for the annual event.
December 16 was also Burney's yearly Christmas concert. The band and vocal ensemble put on a free performance for the community. Good job!
California Scholarship Federation (CSF) just finished up their annual Christmas candy gram sale. The CSF's elves will be delivering the candy grams as a 'Merry Christmas treat to BHS students.
The last Raider Bowl match of 2002 took place. The battle is very close between the top two teams; they are within 5 points of each other. The deciding match will be in January.
Our school will be getting a special treat! A Shakespeare assembly will be put on for the entire school. Different acts of Shakespeare's most famous plays will be performed right in front of our eyes!
Everyone is beginning to feel the Christmas spirit throughout the halls of Burney High. The annual Christmas hall decorating began last week, and each class is busy preparing their hall.
But that's not all! The Christmas assembly is planned. Each class will be putting on a lip-sync to their favorite holiday music. This is something that gets the whole school motivated!
On behalf of Burney High School I would like to wish everyone a very Merry Christmas, and a Happy New Year! See you in 2003!

Lassen National Forest says 2003 firewood permits will soon be available

Beginning January 2, Lassen National Forest fuelwood permits will be available for 2003.
Cost of the fuelwood permits will be $10 per cord with a minimum purchase of two cords per permit.
Permits are also available for fuelwood cutters who wish to cut wood on both the Lassen and Plumas National Forests.
"If fire and dry weather conditions continue, you may experience early firewood cutting closures as happened last year," said Ed Cole, Lassen Forest Supervisor.
"Be especially cautious while cutting, follow the regulations and fire rules to prevent any fires or resource damage. If you are cutting early this year, be careful driving and be conscious of potential damage to wet roads.

Our forests and resources belong to us all. Be considerate, treat the land and roads with respect and with your help and proper care, it will continue to serve us for generations to come."
Permit tags are sold with a map of the forest and fuelwood cutting regulations. It is important to point out that the Plumas has different restrictions than the Lassen and the Plumas fuelwood map has those restrictions printed on it.
The Lassen would like to remind wood cutters of the following points of importance:
Falling Snags - Falling dead trees within 100 feet of a paved road or within 200 feet of a railroad or power lines is prohibited.
Diameter Limits - With the exception of lodgepole pine, the falling of snags is limited to trees 20 inches in diameter or smaller.
Downed Trees - No restrictions, unless otherwise signed or marked.
Third Party Permits - An individual may be a cutter or transporter for up to 5 third party permits per year.
Fuelwood cutters are reminded to contact their local Ranger District office for information regarding road closures during the winter months.

Firewood permits may be purchased Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. from the following locations:
Eagle Lake Ranger District, located at the corner of Highway 36 and Eagle Lake Road, or call 257-4188.
Almanor Ranger District, located at 900 East Highway 36 in Chester, or call 258-2141.
Hat Creek Ranger District, located at 43225 East Highway 299, Fall River Mills, or call 336-5521.

to combat drunk driving, the CHP had declared the Christmas and New Year's holidays maximum enforcement periods.
All available officers will be on the road to prevent deaths and injuries, Hahn said.
The Christmas maximum enforcement period will extend this week from Dec. 24 at 6:01 p.m. to midnight Dec. 25.

Any member of the Class who objects to the Settlement may request a hearing as specified above but only if such objector has filed with the Clerk for the Superior Court in and for San Diego County, San Diego County Courthouse, 200 West Broadway, San Diego, California, 92101, to the attention of "Clerk, Class Action Settlement in Case No. CHC 77969" no later than January 14, 2003, notice of his intention to appear, a detailed statement of his/her objections and the grounds therefor, and all documents and writings hereto with the Court to consider. CHP advises to celebrate responsibly over holidays

Being responsible is the key to a safe holiday on California's highways, the California Highway Patrol (CHP) said today.
"Decide who will be driving before you attend that holiday party. Then see to it that the designated driver abstains from alcohol entirely," said Capt. Dave Hahn commander of the CHP's Redding Area office.
"Just one or two drinks can put you at risk and impair your ability to drive safely," said Hahn.
"We encourage everyone to plan ahead. If you are going out with a group, make sure you designate a driver. Those who are hosting events in their home should provide their guests with a variety of non-alcoholic beverages."

The New Year's period will go from Dec. 31 at 6 p.m. to midnight Jan. 1.
The CHP will also be looking for drivers who fail to buckle their safety belts, or do not have their passengers or children properly restrained. "Safety belts are the best protection available should a collision occur, they save lives," Hahn said.

Take a Guest Checkup

Kids' Visiting Manners

from The Mini Page by Betty Debnam © 2002 The Mini Page Publishing Company Inc.

WE ARE SO GLAD TO BE HERE!

The holiday season is here. Grandmothers and grandfathers, aunts and uncles, relatives and friends are welcoming "the kids." What sort of guest are you? Will they want you back anytime soon? Take the guest checkup test to find out.

How often do you do these nice things?

Always Sometimes Never

Draw faces in the circles while you ask yourself these questions:

WE LOVE HAVING YOU!

ISN'T THAT PRETTY!

I am very careful with the decorations and other valuable treasures that are around. I don't touch what I shouldn't.

GLAD TO MEET YOU!

I am polite to my hosts' friends. I remember that they are very proud of me, so I use my best manners. I don't say "Uh-huh" or act bored.

I'LL TRY IT!

I use my best table manners. Even if I am served something I don't like, I take a bite. I don't say "Yuck" or "I don't like that."

HERE'S SOMETHING FOR YOU!

I give my host and the other adult guests a chance to talk together about grown-up things. I carry along crayons, books and games to amuse myself.

JINGLE BELLS...

If I am asked to sing, say a poem or tell a favorite joke, I do so willingly. Friends and relatives, especially grandparents, make an outstanding audience.

GOOD MOVE!

I am pleasant. I especially try hard to get along with brothers and sisters and cousins.

SHHHH!

I try not to run and yell in the house. I remember that many adults are not used to confusion.

I'LL WAIT.

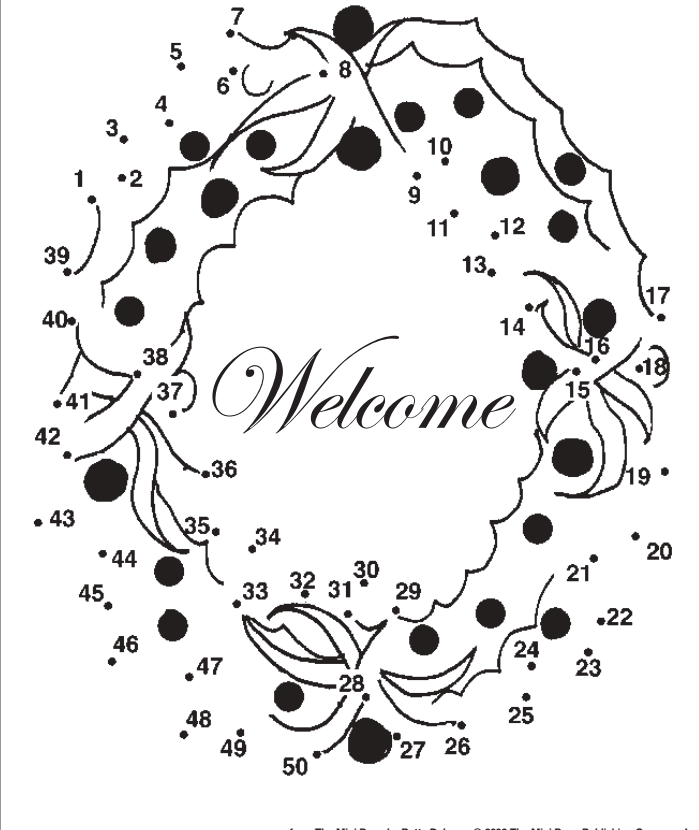

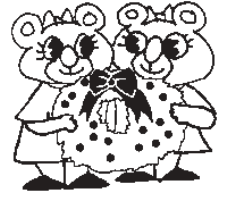

I do not ask for snacks. I stick to mealtimes or to snacks offered by my host. I don't want to spoil the holiday dinner.

I AM VERY GENTLE.

If my host has a pet, I am very gentle and don't tease it. I ask for permission before petting it.

Go dot to dot and color.

All the following jokes have something in common. Can you guess the common theme or category?

Ellen: How do you hang up an idea?
Eric: Inside a frame of mind!

Frances: A blueprint!

Deirdre: Where does a sea lion hang pictures?
Dexter: On the living room walrus!

Visiting Manners Checkup

Are you a neat guest?

When I take a bath, I don't leave wet towels scattered around.

I place candy wrappers and paper-wrapped chewed gum in the wastebasket.

I put clothes and toys in a special spot that my host points out to me.

My hosts' house looks as nice when I leave as when I arrived.

I ALWAYS KNOCK!

I close the doors to the refrigerator, bathrooms and to the outside. I respect my hosts' privacy. I knock before I open a door that is closed.

I LIKE TO HELP!

I offer to help bring in the wood or set the table or do the dishes. I don't wait to be asked.

THAT SOUNDS GREAT!

I go along with whatever plans my grandparents have made for me.

I keep my feet on the floor. I take my shoes off if I want to stretch out on the couch. But I ask my host before I do!

MAY I GO OUT?

I ask permission before I leave the house, especially since I probably don't know the host neighborhood as well as I know mine.

OUT OF BOUNDS!

I don't just help myself to everything in the refrigerator. I ask permission before I even open the door.

Color in the state where you live. If your hosts live in another state, color it in.
What states do you have to go through to get there?
Remember, whenever you are traveling, buckle up your safety belt.

Visiting safety

Many hosts, especially grandparents, aren't used to having children around. When you first arrive, go on a safety tour with your parents and the host. Talk about the "don't touch" things and the places that are out of bounds and why. You might have little brothers and sisters. If so, you might help your host double-check to make sure the house is "childproof."

PLEASE DON'T TOUCH.

Here are some things to check:

- Are dangerous items such as household chemicals out of reach?
- Are the medicines locked in the medicine chest?
- Are all matches, lighters and breakable knickknacks out of reach?
- Has the water heater temperature been lowered to 120 degrees Fahrenheit? This cuts costs and the chances of scalding.
- Are the emergency numbers posted next to the phone?
