A turn for the worst

Kevin Wrigley, 17, and a junior at Burney High School, attempted a back flip in the Terrain Park at Mt. Shasta Jan. 29, but ended up diving headfirst into the ground from about 12 feet in the air – and thankful that he was wearing a helmet. After having X-rays, he was back snowboarding on the slopes that afternoon.

New bereavement program for Mayers' patients, families

BY MEG FOX

Mayers Memorial Hospital has begun a bereavement program to acknowledge the deaths of its long-term care residents.

Emily Davidson-Taylor, director of Nursing for Skilled Nursing, said an employee suggested they do something to recognize those residents.

"Nothing is more upsetting – for staff and the other residents - than to sit across the dining table from someone for 10 years and then suddenly they aren't there," she said.

One patient who recently died had been a resident since the 1980s and many people felt the loss.

When a patient passes, the staff who are the most familiar with the resident are encouraged to send a personal note to the family. Nursing staff and administration also send cards of condolence.

The hospital's residents asked to have a memorial service on the next church day after the patient's death, Davidson-Taylor said.

They are now doing that after first receiving a family's consent.

If there is also a service locally, a few of the staff that cared for the patient are given the time to attend.

The hospital also tries to help the family of the deceased, especially if they live out of town.

Families may ask how to get copies of the death certificate or where to place an obituary or how to collect the patient's belongings.

"It's a very difficult time for them and we try to give them support and guidance," Davidson-Taylor said.

Hospital social workers also contact the patient's family after 30 days and again in 90 days to see if they need any assistance.

"When family live out of the area, there's a void and they are looking for people who can help them and that's what we're here to do," said Davidson-Taylor.

The program, which started in December, has been very well received, she said.

New local committee on byway forming

BY MEG FOX

A new committee to bring travelers into the Intermountain area from Highway 89 – on the newly designated All-American Road – is meeting tonight at 7 p.m. at the Burney Chamber Gardens.

The Intermountain Byway Committee meeting is open to anyone in this area and should be of particular interest to business owners, according to Lynn Miller, of Burney, who has been spreading the word by telephone and e-mail.

Miller represents the Burney Chamber on the Volcanic Legacy Scenic Byway Steering Group, which was organized by the Oregon Resource Conservation and Development Council in Dorris to help get the All American Road designation.

At last week's meeting in Weed, they formed an interim steering group of community representatives to decide who will manage the Byway, Miller said.

The Shasta Cascade Wonderland Association in Redding is also interested in managing the 165-mile California portion of the Byway.

Miller agreed to represent the Intermountain Area.

"I volunteered because I want the Intermountain Area to have a voice at the table. But I can't do it alone," she said.

"I am just one voice at the table, so I want a group behind me, representing Hat Creek, Old Station, Fall River, Johnson Park and Burney to help maintain continuity," she said.

The Burney Chamber is forming a partnership with the Fall River Valley chamber because "Byway communities have to be within 10 miles of the designated highway."

Highway 89 is a portion of the 560-mile Volcanic Legacy Scenic Byway, a designated scenic route

Mollie Baird first BHS student to compete in VFW state Voice of Democracy contest

BY MEG FOX

An audio essay on "Freedom's Obligations," by Burney High School junior Mollie Baird, 16, was selected as the local and District 20 winner in the annual Voice of Democracy competition sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Baird is the first Burney High School student to have gone on to the state level of competition, according to her English teacher Mary Lou Schmidt.

As a result of winning at the district level, she and 24 other California high school students received an all-expense paid trip to Sacramento Jan. 23-26 and a check for $200.

They were also recognized during the banquet in their honor Jan. 25 at the Hilton Sacramento West where the state winner was announced.

Baird was escorted by familiar Burney faces at the banquet - District 20 Commander Harold Van Cleave and his wife Karen Van Cleave who is past president of Burney Post 1021, which sponsored her.

About 500 people attended the banquet, including Burney resident and Past State Commander Bob Maxwell and his wife, Jane Maxwell, the current state president for the VFW Ladies Auxiliary and also Damon Trunnell, of Burney, chairman of District 20's Voice of Democracy.

Although she did not win at the state level, "Mollie had a great time and it was a great experience for her," said her parents, Ken and Kristi Rodriguez of Burney.

VFW committee members also escorted the district winner on a tour of Old Sacramento, the state Superior Court, and the State Capitol, where they met Lt. Gov. Cruz Bustamante and Baird met former State Sen. Maurice Johannessen.

Baird was also one of the students invited to participate in a wreath laying ceremony at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial.

The following is Mollie Baird's speech:

"I don't know about you, but when I hear the words, 'freedom's obligations,' I think about how contradicting it sounds. But then I realize how true it is.

"Personally, I have some big obligations in my life in order to be, as I would call it, free. You know, things I want to do on my own.

"I'm the type of girl who likes to be independent, but I never think about the things I have to do in order to be my own person because it just comes naturally to me.

"I remember dreaming about the day I would get my driver's license.

That takes travelers from Crater Lake in Oregon to Mt. Shasta and along Highway 89 past Burney Falls, through Hat Creek and Old Station to Lassen Volcanic National Park.

It's one of only five roads in California - and 22 in the U.S. - to receive the prestigious federal All American designation, which includes tourism marketing nationally and internationally.

Miller and Sherrie Quinlan, the Burney Chamber's executive director, will help put the committee together at tonight's meeting - and then plan for some fun.

The Volcanic Legacy Byway Committee is also selecting one community for the Grand Opening of the Byway and ribbon cutting.

"It will be a community along the length of the Byway, but that hasn't been decided yet," said Miller.

In either case, Burney plans its own ribbon cutting and other activities to celebrate the event on Memorial Day weekend.

During that holiday weekend, the Mountain Cruisers Car Club hosts a Show 'n' Shine and barbecue on Friday and the Rex Club Days car show on Saturday. The Burney Lions Club has its Amateur Lumberjack Competition on Sunday.

The chamber is planning a 1950's Fun Day Saturday afternoon, May 24, at the Burney Chamber Gardens where there will be "croquet, badminton, checkers, bocce ball, bingo, and lawn chair lingering," Miller said.

There will be 50's music, drawings for prizes, a special showing of a 1950's movie at Mt. Burney Theater, and the opportunity for community groups to raise money with food and beverage booths, Miller said.

The chamber also wants to invite the area's government representatives to their ribbon cutting.

"We want this to be a huge deal because it is a huge deal," she said.

Just knowing that my parents wouldn't tag along anymore gave me a sense of freedom all by itself.

"Of course, when I did get my license it all led to my having to pay for my own insurance, which then led to me finding a job.

"This is where the big word responsibility came into my life.

"Don't get me wrong, it's great having a job and my license, but you don't really comprehend all of the responsibilities that comes with it until they start coming into play.

"Now, I know I'm not the only teenager who has responsibilities to take care of. And it's not just teens who have responsibilities or duties they must attend to. Adults have them, too.

"But most of all, we as a nation have many duties to uphold in order to have our freedom.

"I've thought a lot about it and I wouldn't change the fact that I live in this country for one second.

"I mean, if you think about it, we have it so easy compared to most other countries. Of course we have laws we must abide by, but that's what we must do for our freedom.

"I try so hard to not take anything for granted. I would hate to live in a country where, because of my sex I couldn't show any skin on my body, or because of my race that determines if I'm a servant to another human being or not.

"Unfortunately, these are all things that happen in today's society around the world. Thinking about these things has really made me change my perspective on the privileges we receive living in the United States. Overall, it's really changed my outlook on life in general."

"I asked some of my family members what freedom meant to them and they all gave a different response.

"The word freedom varies in meaning, all depending on what type of person you are and how you look at things.

"To me, the word freedom means expressing yourself freely, choosing what you want to do in life, and, last but not least, feeling like you have independence.

"You might not agree with my definition, but you have to remember that's how I feel and that's what I think.

"To someone else, freedom could mean not being judged by his or her race or religion.

"Isn't it amazing how one single word can affect so many people in so many ways? Think about it long and hard. What does freedom really mean to you?"

Hospital surveys in review process

BY MEG FOX

In an effort by Mayers Memorial Hospital to improve employee morale, staff members were asked to complete confidential Employee Satisfaction Surveys compiled by psychologists with the National Business Research Institute (NBRI).

The surveys are now back in the hands of administration and are being "reviewed in detail" in department meetings and general meetings over the next few weeks, according to CEO Jerry Fikes.

Before releasing summary data to the public, Fikes said he is having a telephone consultation with an NBRI research scientist to prioritize the issues and develop plans of action.

At the hospital's Jan. 15 board meeting, Fikes did say

Hospital surveys in review process

that of the 20 areas surveyed, there are eight areas where employees want improvement, including their wages and benefits.
Board President Les Cufade said that area resident Mike Kern, a human resources consultant who has restructured several large organizations, offered to help the hospital implement the survey results at no cost.
Fikes asked Kern and Cufade to meet with the board's human resources committee.
In another matter, Fikes said he declined an offer from the Hospital All-Risk Property Program to upgrade their coverage by more than 15 percent to include anti-terrorism coverage.
"We're struggling to pay the premium we've got," Fikes said, adding that he thought this area was low risk.

May was a volunteer coordinator for Loma Linda Hospice before moving to the Intermountain area.
In closed session, the board approved credentials for Drs. Jennifer Scott and Lance Weigant.
The board also heard that:
* Dr. Steven Scharpf, who is in the military reserve, will likely be called upon as a flight surgeon as forces are deployed to the Middle East, but, if needed, several Redding surgeons have agreed to help with surgeries;
* The Alzheimer's Care units in Fall River and Burney have a total average daily census of about 76 patients, many out-of-area referrals, and a long waiting list;

The News will continue with salute to those in the military

During the War on Afghanistan, the Intermountain News ran a bi-weekly page honoring the area's servicemen and servicewomen who were protecting our freedom.

As the United States faces the possibility of a war with Iraq, we again would like to recognize those community members, some of whom have already been deployed to the Middle East.

If you have a child, friend, or relative in the service who you would like to recognize, please bring a photo and information to the News office at 36039 Main Street or mail it to Intermountain News, Box 1030, Burney 96013.

Please include your phone number or e-mail address so we can contact you for information.

You can also send it by e-mail to reporter Meg Fox at mbfox@rocketmail.com.

In addition, we have been assisting Fall River High School senior Ross Olson with his senior project honoring those in the service, past and present, from the Fall River Valley.

In Our Schools

Living the First Amendment

To find out about practicing the First Amendment in our schools, The Mini Page talked with Dr. Charles C. Haynes, senior scholar and director of education, The First Amendment Center.

First Amendment history

The U.S. Constitution set down the law of our land. While it did list some of our rights, many people thought that it didn't list enough.

After the Constitution was adopted, or OK'd, by the 13 original states, many Americans demanded that a Bill (or list) of Rights be added. Listing these rights would make certain that the government could not take away the individual or personal rights of any person.

In the first meeting of Congress in 1789, the Bill of Rights was approved. Because they were amendments, or additions, to the Constitution, each of the 13 states had to approve them.

Ten amendments were adopted by the states in 1791. These are called the Bill of Rights.

The first five freedoms are listed in the First Amendment: religious liberty, freedom of speech and of the press, and the rights of assembly and petition.

James Madison (1751-1836) is known as the father of the Constitution. After the convention to write the Constitution, Madison promised to present a list of amendments known today as the Bill of Rights. He kept his promise.

The Bill of Rights was adopted in 1791.

The First Amendment

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

For more than 200 years

For more than 200 years, the First Amendment has been a symbol of freedom. Every important movement to bring about change in our country has used it to make our nation more fair and free.

For example, the fight for equal rights for blacks was led by African American churches that fought against discrimination through protests, petitions and speeches.

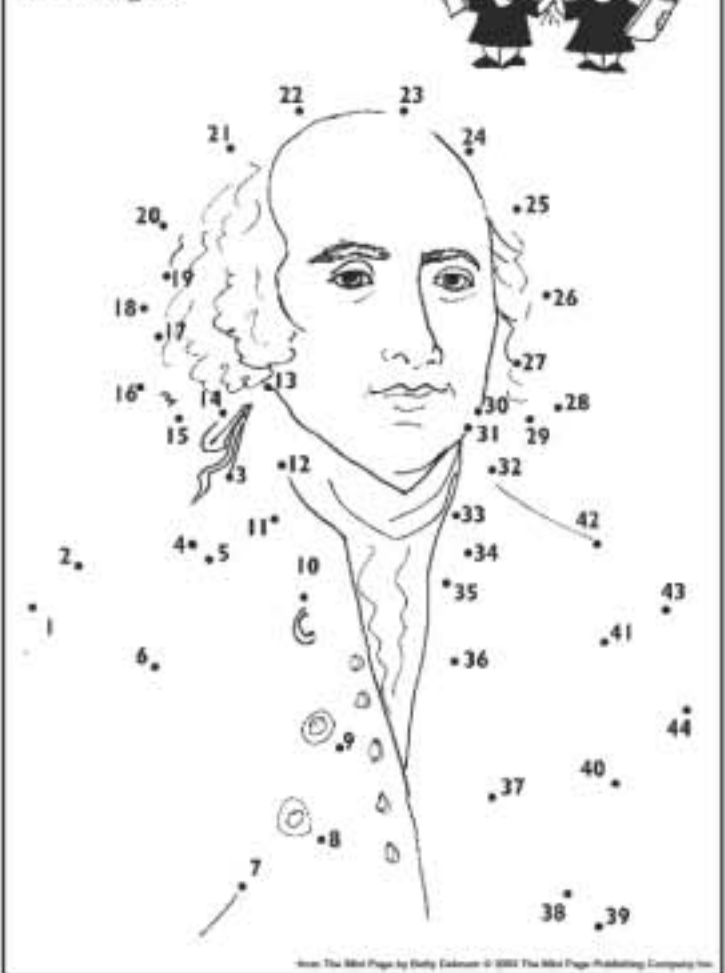

The Fairview Elementary School in Modesto, Calif., showed its support for the First Amendment by putting this sign in front of the school.

In the schools

Schools are where most students learn about the rights that give us freedom and justice. Freedom takes practice. With freedom comes responsibilities. Exercising these rights and responsibilities in schools encourages good citizenship. Students can use what they learn in class to make a real difference now and in the future.

Go dot to dot and color the father of the Constitution and Bill of Rights.

Living the First Amendment

Here are some examples of how students have the chance to practice freedom and democracy. They also learn to be responsible and make contributions to their school and community.

Freedom of religion
Students have the religious freedom to bring their scriptures to school and read them during their free time. They might get together and share their beliefs as long as they don't disrupt the school or interfere with the rights of others. Under the First Amendment, teachers may not promote religion in public school. But teachers may teach about religions. In this way, students learn about the role of religion in history and cultures.

Freedom of the press
By working for their school paper, radio or TV station, kids learn about freedom of the press. They must learn to work hard to be fair and accurate when they cover news stories. They might write news, sports or feature stories about interesting people or events. Some might write editorials and give opinions on important issues.

Freedom of assembly
Teachers at some schools hold weekly class meetings so students have a chance to discuss issues that concern them. Some schools bring all of the students and faculty together to share ideas and to review their successes. The right for people to peaceably assemble is an American tradition. Students learn that citizens can call attention to important issues and bring about change by holding meetings, rallies and marches.

Freedom of speech
Some schools put students on school committees and even on a local school board or adult group that is in charge of the schools.

Freedom to petition
Sometimes parents exercise their rights at schools, too. In one school, parents were concerned about their children's safety. They signed a petition asking the school district to build a fence to protect the kids from passing traffic. This part of the First Amendment means that when citizens believe that something is wrong, they can ask the government or people in charge to make changes. Students might also suggest changes by passing around a petition. When they have enough signatures, they can give it to the principal.

First Amendment activities
Here are some ideas on how to practice the First Amendment.

- Write a constitution for the classroom.
- What are the rights and responsibilities of the teachers and students?
- How should students treat one another?
- Why are class rules important, and what happens if a student breaks one?

Learn more about the First Amendment

- Invite a local judge or lawyer to talk to your class about the rights in the Constitution.
- Look for articles in the newspaper about people using their rights.
- Do you see things that need to be changed? Learn about the problem and decide how your class can work for a solution.

The First Amendment Schools: Educating for Freedom and Responsibility is co-sponsored by the Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development (ASCD) and the First Amendment Center. It is a nationwide program designed to help all schools, K-12, model and teach the rights and responsibilities that flow from the First Amendment. For more information, teachers and students can visit: www.firstamendmentschools.org.

Next week, find out more about dogs. What makes this pet so very special?

Her method for resolving conflict came about hard way

BY MEG FOX

Sarah Clark's discovery of community and how to resolve conflicts between children of many ages came about the hard way.

She had to live through the rough parts first and come to terms with her own turmoil and feelings of alienation.

"Only quite recently have I realized that my interest in community came from a deep longing for the connections I lacked," said Clark in her 1998 masters thesis on the subject.

"Now I'm hooked on the subject of conflict," she said. "I'm not interested in eradication, but rather in the creative potential within it."

Through her own experiences and conflicts, Clark has developed a method to help others interact equitably called, "Shalom - Peacemaking for Children."

It's something she practiced as an elementary school teacher in Burney and in the class she now has at the Burney Community Day School.

She also teaches her method at Shasta College, at conferences throughout the state, and in workshops just for teachers.

Recently, she expanded her reach again and led 19 teenagers in a four-week workshop on "Conflict Resolution with Young Children."

The class at the Acorn Café in Montgomery Creek was put on to prepare students to work in settings like the Acorn's after school program, said Lynn Dorroh, director of Acorn Community Enterprises.

High school students came from Burney, Big Bend, Montgomery Creek, Round Mountain and Oak Run to attend and upon completion received a $50 stipend.

"The workshop focused not only on how to work with toddlers and children up through the eighth grade, but also on the long term impacts of unresolved conflicts on both individuals and families," Dorroh said.

Clark had to change her presentation when she realized teenagers are not the same as the preschool teachers she is used to training.

"And so I talked about carrying your own pack," she said.

"If you tend to be violent or disagreeable or if you have had to deal with a lot of violence in your life, you're not going to wake up some morning and be nice. You have to be responsible for yourself," she said.

She sees conflict, whether it's between three people or 30, as a form of relationship.

"But it has a destructive course and people are afraid of it," she said.

"I also really feel that arguments and conflicts are a form a power and you have to convert something that is negative to something that is positive."

In the Acorn workshop, Clark explained that when someone grows up with violence, they, too, tend to be violent.

"But you don't have to be," she said. "You can mediate your feelings and do something positive. It can be done."

Misty Sherbundy, 18, lives in Montgomery Creek and is a senior at Foothill High School in Redding.

"I took the class because I'm interested in psychology and I figured this would help me learn about children, too."

"It gave me a new way of looking at how children think and feel and a new way to get them to cooperate," she said.

Since the workshop, Misty has been working at the Acorn and at the library next door.

"There are a lot of kids and it's helped with that. It's been good all around. It was a great experience."

In most instances, when there's a conflict between two people, for example elementary school children, someone usually separates them.

"You figure out who's in the wrong and punish that one and set the other one free," said Clark.

But in the Shalom method she advocates keeping children ages three and older together and, with guidance, letting them sort it out.

"I have them sit together and if they're fighting over a toy or something, I remove it and let them talk."

"I mirror back what they are saying to validate their feelings."

"This is done quickly, in less than a minute."

"Then I give my instruction. I tell them they've made some good points and to stay and talk to each other."

"I tell them when they figure out how they can share, I'll give it back."

"And then I turn away, indicating I have confidence that they will work it out."

"I also show respect," she said. "I may think fighting over a game is silly, but I still show respect. It's their feelings and it's not small stuff."

Misty said Clark's method worked in her own family.

"My (younger) sisters fight a lot and they fight over the TV a lot. So I usually talk to them or take the object away and it's been working out. Eventually they compromise, either by sharing or taking turns."

As children get older, "they are still perceptual, but more logical and with often unfortunate habits," said Clark, smiling.

When older children see conflict "they want to stop it now," she said.

In elementary school, a lot of the conflict occurs on the playground and it's usually between three children and one who reports it.

"Every recess brings a fresh load of conflict hot off the blacktop," she said.

By this age, the method moves into the community of relationships. The children involved bond."

She said it's why good marriages are good and why good work relationships are good.

There's a conflict and then a dialogue and in getting beyond deadlock "people become new and smarter."

She described something else she's observed when older elementary age children are in conflict.

"They come up with restitution. If someone has truly hurt another, who is blameless, it's usually recognized in the dialogue and an effort is made to make that right."

"And it comes in some form of a gift, a concession, such as letting that person go first or have first serve in a game."

"It's very important and it shows someone cares and that's what I want to get to - care."

Though it took her half her lifetime to find a satisfactory method for dealing with people and conflict, she based Shalom on simple principles.

"The people with the problem are the only ones who can solve it," she said.

"You are the helper. And you need authority, respect, honesty, and faith."

Raised in a Quaker family in Pennsylvania, Clark said that peacemaking has been a thread in her life.

The high school and college she attended were both founded by Quakers.

She attended George School, a coeducational boarding school in Newton, Pa., and Guilford College in Greensboro, N.C.

She began her teaching career working with emotionally disturbed children in Pennsylvania and when she first came to California.

She has been a teacher in the Intermountain area since moving here in 1979 with her former husband.

While raising their son, Ian, she taught in local pre-schools and, after earning her credential in 1990, taught kindergarten through third grade for 11 years at Burney Elementary School.

Clark said she finds conflict resolution exciting.

"Am I my brother's keeper? Yes, you are. Take five minutes and talk to him," she said.

"The focus of my life is on community," she said. "It's my mission. I have a heart for it."

Deputies arrest 2 in Burney

Shasta County deputies arrested two Burney women Thursday for alleged narcotics violations.

At about 8:50 p.m., deputy Barry Powell saw the two in a vehicle on Orchard Way, reports show.

The passenger, Kelley VanPelt, 35, had an outstanding felony warrant for a previous narcotic violation.

Powell suspected Tonya Seefloth, 27, to be driving under the influence of a controlled substance and had California Highway Patrol traffic officer Kevin Luntney make a DUI evaluation.

Luntney placed Seefloth under arrest for suspected driving under the influence of a controlled substance.

A subsequent search revealed more than a quarter of an ounce of suspected methamphetamine found on Seefloth, deputies said.

Both were booked at the Shasta County main jail.

"Local people serving local needs"

Fall River Chamber looking for top citizen

Fall River Chamber announced that they are starting to look for the Citizen of the year for 2002.

In the past years they have tried different methods, everything from phone surveys to ballot boxes.

This year the Chamber is asking every employer to ask their employee's for suggestions, school teachers to have discussions with their students.

All social organizations to discuss it at their club meetings and for all individuals to take ten minutes out of their busy schedules to discuss this with their friends and families and co-workers.

Once they have arrived at a name. Please call 336-5179 or Fax 336-7342 and leave a message with the name and the reason this person should be considered as the citizen of the year.

At the end of February the chamber will take all the names and recommendations and will select the Citizen of the year at the board meeting and the citizen will be announced in March at the dinner.

It is important to remember that this is a very important matter and shouldn't be taken lightly. If it wasn't for special people who went out of their way to donate their time, energy and resources we wouldn't have many of the advantages we now enjoy in this community.

Example being the beautification projects, hospital volunteers, people who bring their pets to visit hospital patients, the museums and library, hospice organizations plus much more that we as citizens take for granted.

So please call or fax your input. Every response is important to the chamber and the community. You can also send your suggestions to: Fall River Mills Chamber, P.O. Box 475, Fall River Mills, CA 96028.

MHA year end high-point awards

The Modoc Horseman's Association has listed the Year-End High Point Winners of their 2002 show season.

All members competed throughout the year in all of the organization's events for these coveted awards.

12 & Under: Champion – Tim Verling riding De Top Candy Bar, 94 points. Reserve – Dylan Sponseller riding Smokin' Cherokee, 78 points.

13 thru 17: Champion – Elyse Hudson riding First Inclination, 61 points. Reserve – Deidra Jeppson riding Fresno Divi Bueno, 34 points.

18 thru 39: Champion – Molly Terpening riding Full Color Page, 92 points. Reserve – Tia Ogden riding Stretch A Deck, 59 points.

40 & Over: Champion – Pat Weekly riding Red Hot Jazz, 73 points. Reserve – Julie Miller riding I'm Super Well Dun, 64 points.

Junior Horse: Champion

– Dylan Sponseller riding Chicken Hawk, 27 points. Reserve – Veronica Allan-Miller riding Ultimate Lark, 24 points.

Overall High Point Horse & Rider: Champion – Tim Verling riding De Top Candy Bar, 94 points. Reserve – Molly Terpening riding Full Color Page, 92 points.

M.H.A. will be losing two very important members of its organization; Julie and Craig Miller will shortly be moving to Washington and Vicki Hughes is resigning her position of Secretary/Treasurer and General Manager of the shows.

Between these two ladies they contributed so very much to the organization. Julie and daughter Veronica both rode in the maximum amount of classes in all of the shows and Julie was responsible for designing and setting up all of the jumping classes and most of the trail courses. She also secured the judges for all of the shows.

Vicki spent hours of her time making pre-show arrangements, ordering ribbons, trophies, securing water trucks, finding someone to run the concession stand, paying all bills and finding someone to announce our events. She insured that the P.A. was set up and working and had everything in order, and in place, for all of our shows.

The absence of both of these ladies will leave a definite void in the organization.

However, M.H.A. will continue to plan and present shows this year. Many folks have volunteered their time and services to insure that this season's event will be new and different.

Meetings have been held and as soon as dates and schedules have been finalized they will be published and all folks on the organization's mailing list will be notified.

New executive secretary for education foundation

The Burney-Fall River Education Foundation has made the appointment of Mrs. Karen McArthur as the new executive secretary.

Mrs. McArthur succeeds Valerie Lakey who served the Foundation for the past several years.

Mrs. McArthur comes to the Foundation with a wealth of experience having been an active volunteer in the community for many years and serving as an officer and member in different organizations and businesses.

She has been a classroom volunteer and on school committees as well as school site councils.

The Foundation also welcomes as new members to the Board of Directors, Mr. Mike Churney, manager of the Burney Mosquito Abatement District and involved member of the Burney community; and Mrs. Evalee Nelson, manager of Tara Travel in Burney, active in the Burney Chamber of Commerce, and many community activities.

At a meeting the Board received an audit, for the year ending May 31, 2002, from the firm of Donald R. Reynolds of Redding.

It was the opinion of this audit that "the financial statements presented, in all material respects, were in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles" and the audit disclosed "no items to be of any material weaknesses."

In addition the financial statements presented "fairly represented the financial position of the Burney-Fall River Education Foundation."

The Foundation Board was pleased to know that there were no recommendations for any changes to the Internal Accounting Control System.

Blue Fire Draft EIS ready for public review

A Draft Environmental Impact Statement (DEIS) for the Blue Fire Forest Recovery Project is now available for public review and comment.

The Blue Fire occurred on the Modoc National Forest in August 2001. The DEIS analyzes four approaches to restoring 12,000 acres of Modoc National Forest lands to desired Forest conditions.

The Blue Fire, located approximately 15 miles east of likely, burned approximately 34,000 acres on the Warner Mountain Ranger District.

The DEIS analyzes potential treatments on 26,000 acres outside the South Warner Wilderness.

The Blue fire's DEIS identifies and examines environmental effects on soil productivity; effects on forest ecosystems; and beneficial and adverse socioeconomic effects, as well as other forest resources.

The Warner Mountain District proposes to harvest dead trees killed during the Blue Fire. Harvesting these dead trees will protect the long-term capability of the soil to support old forest establishment and to maintain healthy forests over time.

Copies of the Blue Fire Forest Recovery Project DEIS are available for review at the Modoc National Forest headquarters' office in Alturas and the Warner Mountain Ranger District Office in Cedarville.

The 45-day public comment period will begin after the Environmental Protection Agency publishes the Notice of Availability in the Federal Register.

The date will be posted on the web at www.fs.fed.us/modoc and through other means.

Send comments to: Edith Asrow, District Ranger, Warner Mountain Ranger District, P.O. Box 220, Cedarville, CA 96104.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Exciting activities

Editor:

Our Sierra-Cascade Logging Conference will be visiting the Redding and Anderson area this year for the 54th anniversary.

The theme of the conference is "United, Confident, and Courageous." The conference starts on February 6th and ends on Saturday, February 8th with activities being held primarily at the Shasta District Fairgrounds in Anderson.

Some of the events that will take place will be very interesting for the public. We will have "Wild Things" wildlife show everyday, we have an authentic "steam donkey" operating throughout the conference, and the most terrific exhibition will be "logging competitions."

Three colleges will have eight-member teams competing in various logging events Thursday and Friday afternoons and Saturday morning.

Along with the exciting activities there will be a terrific logging equipment display inside as well as outside the fairgrounds' buildings.

Bring the whole family because the kids will really have a great time sitting at the controls of a huge hydraulic loader or in the driver's seat of a big log truck.

On Saturday, 11 a.m. there will be a "Talk About Trees" program that is extremely interesting and educational for the whole family. Be sure to visit the fairgrounds on Saturday, if not before.

Senior Project

Editor:

As a senior at Fall River High School I am faced with the challenge of the Senior Project.

I was originally inspired to construct a tribute to our local service men and women by a poster I saw in another town.

I plan to construct a tribute to individuals currently serving in the armed forces. However, I need pictures and information on these individuals.

I realize that the most reliable and up to date resource for this information is you, the friends and family of these soldiers.

Could anyone with a friend or family member from Fall River High currently serving in the military please contact me? Your support is greatly appreciated.

Holding down the fort

Editor:

I would like to commend Ron Mosher for his Jan. 28 article in the Mountain Echo regarding the complacency that exists in the Burney community in regards to supporting school events.

However, I differ with Ron in regards to the magnitude of the problem.

In Burney, we have a dynamic group of people who attend meetings, volunteer their services at local schools, support and coach youth athletics, and YES! are adamantly opposed to combining high schools.

Unfortunately, it is the same group of individuals who do it all!

The problem lies in the majority of folks who live in Burney and who expect this small dedicated group to hold down the fort.

The time has come for YOU to stand up and do your fair share!

Many of you may not even realize that you belong to this non-supportive majority group. So I have devised the following assessment to ask yourself:

1. Have I attended any of this season's high school basketball games?

2. Did I attend this year's BHS fall play, Rememberin' Stuff, or the Christmas concert?

3. Have I volunteered my services this year at a local school or for youth league sports?

If you struck out on all three answers, you need to ask yourself, "What can I do to show my support?"

Well, here's one way to begin. Rather than watching a sporting event on television that takes places hundreds of miles away, come get in on the live action Friday night when Burney High hosts Mt. Shasta for basketball.

I'm sure our talented athletes and dedicated coaches would love the thrill of emerging from the locker room to a gymnasium packed with cheering fans and Raider pride!

Hope to see you Friday night.

Aids in relief efforts on Guam

Navy Fireman Conrad N. Straub, Jr, son of Marry E. Jacques of Alturas and Conrad N. Straub, of Adin, recently contributed to relief efforts on Guam during a Western Pacific deployment while assigned to the aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk, homeported in Yokosuka, Japan.

Sailors aboard Straub's ship joined members of the Fleet Activities Yokosuka community setting up field galleys to aid those whose homes were battered by Super Typhoon Pongsona, which hit Guam with winds of 180 mph.

Carriers, like USS Kitty Hawk, are deployed around the world to maintain U.S. presence and provide rapid response in times of crisis.

They serve as a highly visible deterrent to would-be aggressors, and are equipped with the most versatile and powerful weapons and aircraft available.

Straub is a 2000 graduate of Modoc High School of Alturas, and joined the Navy in August 2000.

For more information about the deployment or for high resolution photographs visit the USS Kitty Hawk web site at www.kittyhawk.navy.mil or the Navy news stand at www.news.navy.mil/local/cv63.

F.R. girls lose to Lion gals

BY KEEGAN MOYER

The Fall River Bulldogs Varsity Girls fell to the Etna Lions 74-36 last Friday night.

The Lions are one of the best Division 5 Girls teams in the North State and are the runaway favorite in the SCL. The game was exactly what the score indicates, a blowout.

The Bulldogs were out-matched and outplayed by the Lions for the second time this year. The first was a 50-23 loss to the Lions in Etna.

The loss to Etna on Friday night was the low point of the week for the Bulldogs, the high being the victory in Mt. Shasta on Tuesday. The Dogs' defeated the Bears 58-34.

The Bulldogs' swarming defense forced Mt. Shasta into many turnovers, which turned into easy buckets for Fall River.

When the Dogs' weren't scoring on lay-ups, they were running their offense to perfection, which resulted in an outstanding shooting percentage of 52 percent.

Leading Fall River's balanced scoring attack was Abby McArthur with 23 points. McArthur, a senior, made off with 6 steals.

Brittany Shelton and Libby DeCoito each added 9 points for the Bulldogs. Nikki Looper put up 2 points and pulled down 7 rebounds, while Abby Salters grabbed 8 boards.

Rounding out the Bulldogs scoring was Jessica Hero with 8 points, Carissa Romberger adding 3, and Katie Camarata and Mattie Burnam adding 2 apiece.

"It was a big win for us against Mt. Shasta," added Coach Kathy Jones, "They're ranked ahead of us in Playoff Points so this was big."

The Bulldogs fell to 4-3 in league after the Etna loss and 14-4 overall. Their next game is in Burney on Tuesday night, and then on to Trinity this Friday night.

F.R. J.V. girls lose to Etna, 35-31

BY KEEGAN MOYER

Fall River's J.V. Girls team lost to the Etna Lions last Tuesday night, 35-31.

In this low scoring affair, both teams pushed the ball up and down the court, but came up empty handed on many of their lay-ups.

Maggie DeCoito was Fall River's top scorer and grabbed herself a double-double as well.

DeCoito, a freshman, had 10 points, 15 rebounds, and 7 steals in the game.

Kelsi Halverson added 7 points for the Dogs'.

Shawna Truan, also a freshman, netted 4 points. Leslie Taylor and Delaney Chapman each added 3 points.

Burney varsity girls lose to Weed Cougars

Burney Varsity Girls went up against the ferocious Weed Cougars in their home court Friday in a game that ended in a 33-69 loss for the Raiders.

"Burney played a really good game, but when these Cougar girls were JV players they were league champions for two years in a row," said Coach Susan Ayers.

Freshman Robbie Fulk put 12 points on Burney's side of the scoreboard, while Rock-sann Barba added 8 and Diannah Childers, 6.

Shawna Hecht had three points and three rebounds. Along with getting 10 rebounds, Aimee Ayers joined Kayla Stover, another freshman, in getting two points each for the Raiders.

Roman Metzger (11) of Burney in game against Etna Jan 29.

Fall River J.V. boys garner 4th win in league

The Fall River J.V. Boys team garnered their 4th league win last Friday night, defeating the Etna Lions 54-43. This was the team's second win of the week after defeating Mt. Shasta last Tuesday evening.

The game wasn't as close as the score indicated and the Bulldogs were in control for nearly the entire game.

The Dogs' got some of Etna's top players into foul trouble early and this helped them control the game.

The game's leading scorer was Fall River's Keegan Moyer who netted 12 points. Blake Connors followed Moyer by adding 11 points. Nick McFarlin put up 8 points for the Bulldogs and Robbie Adams added 7.

Rob Senko and Kyle Dennis each added 6 points for the Bulldogs.

Fall River travels to Burney on Tuesday night, with the Raiders trying to avenge their early SCL loss to the Bulldogs.

On Friday Fall River travels to play Trinity, which is one of the best teams in the SCL.

Burney's Rocksann Barba (25) moves in against contest with Etna for the varsity girls.

Raiders defeat Weed, 58-50, at Cougar court

The Burney Boys Varsity took on the Cougars at Weed High School Friday and brought them down with a score of 58-50.

"They played really well. They executed the defense and they made good decisions," said Coach Tara Jones.

Kyle Moody made it to the net 14 times, with Karl Car-rick close behind, getting 13 points for the Raiders. Chris Prigmore added 11 points to the score.

The JV Boys also had an exciting game with J.D. Dennis getting 21 points, Luke Schechla, 19, and Nathan Bartell, 11, but it wasn't enough to top the Cougars who won the match 67-58.

"The kids worked really hard, but they're still learning," said Jones, who also coaches the JVs. "They're still trying to get used to my system."

F.R. varsity loses to powerful Etna

BY KEEGAN MOYER

The Fall River Varsity Boys lost to a powerful Etna squad here in McArthur, last Friday night, 72-58.

The Bulldogs were not as tall, not as fast, and overall not as good as the Etna team; but the Dogs' played like they were unaware of this and gave it their all from the opening tip to the final buzzer.

Earlier in the season the Dogs' were blown out by the Lions in their "barn" of a gym, 68-31.

The Dogs' have obviously improved since then cutting the losing deficit from 37 to 14.

In the opening quarter Fall River had trouble containing Mike Searle, #11, of Etna.

Searle scored 12 of his game high 27 points in first quarter, but many of these shots were answered by the Bulldogs, who were down 22-13 at the end of the first quarter.

In the second quarter Daniel Pagan added 5 points bringing his first half total to 11, and the Bulldogs up to 22 points on the half.

Etna had a 23-point lead at the half and looked to be in complete control. They would soon learn that the Bulldogs had other plans for the second half.

The Dogs' came out "on fire" in the second half putting in 5 three-pointers and adding a couple short two's bringing their third quarter total to 20 points, outscoring Etna by 3.

The Dogs' were still down 62-42, but the momentum had begun moving the Bulldogs way.

In the final period of play Alfred Olvera added a couple more three-pointers and with some help from this teammates the Dogs' outscored Etna again, 16-10.

Fall River beat the Etna Lions, 36-27, in the second half. Too bad the first two quarters count, too.

The Bulldogs had 22 shots fall for them, 10 of those 22 were three pointers.

Fall River's leading scorer was Alfred Olvera with 15 points. Olvera had only one two pointer go in, the rest came from his 4 three-pointers and a free throw.

John Morris was close behind adding 14 points, and Daniel Pagan was the last of the double-digit scores for the Bulldogs with 13 points. Colin Corr and Brandon Beck each added 7 for the Dogs'.

The loss puts the Bulldogs near the bottom of the SCL with a 1-6 record. The Fall River squads look to travel to Burney on Tuesday, with Burney looking to gain revenge on all four squads from Fall River.
