Passions ignite at fire board meeting

BY MEG FOX

After a brief reprieve, the Burney Fire Protection District was under fire again at last week's board meeting where one community member was concerned about the number of volunteer firefighters in the department and another questioned its accounting practices.

The Burney Fire Protection District currently has 28 volunteers on its roster, Chief Bob May said.

At the Oct. 15 fire commissioners meeting, Burney resident Mike Rodriguez asked if the board members had done an inquiry into why the number of volunteers has fallen off better than 50 percent in over a year.

Rodriguez said he heard the department was down to seven fire volunteers now, compared to 22 last year.

Commissioner Donna Caldwell said she had no comment.

The Chief said the board has looked into the issue and asked where Rodriguez got the number seven.

After the meeting May said the roster includes 15 volunteer firefighters who are cross-trained and qualified to be on the ambulance.

Seven of the 15 are strictly firefighters, while the other eight serve a dual purpose.

The department has 13 volunteer EMT's with no firefighting experience. Thirteen volunteers are trained as EMT I, four are at the EMT II level, and there are also paramedics, he said.

The roster total includes two new volunteer firefighters, Gabe Shaw and Billy Covert.

In another matter, Evalée Nelson, whose husband is a former Burney fire chief, gave the board and audience a 17-page packet that included copies of county auditor-controller balance sheets, revenue and expenditure data, government codes, fire board policy, and her letters dated Oct. 4 and Aug. 15.

Nelson, who in 2002 attended many board meetings and frequently found fault with the district's accounting records and methods, said she's still interested in the fire department's finances.

But all of a sudden it's become a hassle to get (the information), she said in a discussion after the meeting.

Nelson said she doesn't believe anything criminal is going on. I'm not saying that at all. Just bad business practices. And, overall, things in the department have certainly improved.

She said she is just trying to get some answers and hasn't been able to get her hands on the financial reports that would provide them.

In the agenda report for the Oct. 15 meeting, May said the district had received numerous requests from a member of the public.

Lumber spill at fountain

NEWS PHOTO

California Highway Patrol traffic officer Roger Spain assists with traffic control Monday morning following a lumber spill on Highway 299 at the drinking fountain turnoff in Round Mountain. Driver of the big rig, Anthony Wallace, 48, of Cottonwood was traveling west on the highway about 9:10 a.m. when he rounded a posted 30-mile-per-hour curve too fast. The trailer overturned, blocking both lanes for about 20 minutes. Crews continued the cleanup of the lumber until the early afternoon. No injuries were reported. Video is on the web at www.im-news.com.

Burn barrels will be history

BY MEG FOX

Burn barrels are about to become history.

On Jan. 1 they will be outlawed for any kind of burning and they probably won't be welcome at dumping sites either.

The combination of modern trash burning slowly in an oxygen-starved container is the perfect recipe for very toxic compounds, according to Mike Kussow, air pollution control officer for the Shasta County Air Quality Management District.

Burney Fire Chief Bob May invited Kussow to describe the new regulations during the Oct. 15 fire commissioners meeting.

When 2004 rolls around, Californians will no longer be allowed to burn household trash or garbage outdoors at their residences. Burn barrels will be prohibited for burning both waste and vegetation.

Dry, natural vegetation, grown on the property, can still be burned outdoors in open piles, unless prohibited by local controls.

Rural areas with no more than three people per square mile are exempt.

The state Air Resources Board (ARB) adopted the airborne toxics control measure to reduce air emissions of dioxins and other toxics from outdoor residential waste burning statewide and

The state looked inside residential burn barrels and found that more than 95 percent of them contained illegal materials.

"Garbage has changed in composition over the years. Now there's a lot more plastic," he said, describing the molecular process that occurs and results in the emission of toxic compounds with high risk factors.

"They are the most highly rated toxics so far," he said.

Commissioner Donna Caldwell said it would be impossible to comply, since the state has also required its residents to use landfills less often.

"Now they have passed a law that will require us to use them more," she said.

"I guess the (state) feels the risk is so great they have to move ahead," Kussow said.

Burney resident Roger Valinoti mentioned recycling, but Caldwell said there is a lot of garbage recyclers won't accept.

Air Quality Control is tasked with enforcement.

"It will be difficult to enforce. A nightmare, frankly," Kussow said.

Initially, Kussow's office will maintain compliance on a complaint basis, issuing warnings, before notices of violations that could result in court appearances and fines.

"We won't actively be searching out and removing burn barrels."

Chief May said he expects his department will receive some of these complaints, which he will forward to the county.

"Are you going to send Air Quality Control up for someone burning paper?" asked Burney resident Mike Rodriguez.

"If it's a nuisance and burning in a burn barrel, that's correct," said Kussow.

"We're not into heavy-handed enforcement. We hope people will comply and do the right thing."

"If people were compliant, you wouldn't have 95 percent with illegal materials in burn barrels," Commissioner Ann Walker said.

Amphitheater plan meeting slated

Cooler weather brings an end to construction at Bailey Park in Burney and marks the beginning of a busy planning season for next year's construction.

Future plans include an amphitheater, walking path, and landscaping.

There will be a Bailey Park amphitheater planning meeting at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 29, at the Intermountain Community Center in Burney.

This group will consider the design options presented and finalize a design for the amphitheater.

A December meeting will continue the landscape design.

The plan starts with a grant secured from the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection for deciduous trees planted on the barren side of the park property.

Further consideration will be given to a grassy picnic area and overall landscaping.

In the spirit of Bailey Park, all are invited and encouraged to join. The contribution of ideas, energy and resources will continue to enrich and drive this project.

For more information call Lynn or Cindy, 335-4600.

Varsity team at BHS calls it quits

Burney High School has cancelled the remainder of its varsity football schedule after it appeared the team would only field 10 players when they host Mt. Shasta Friday.

In a faxed notice from the school on Tuesday, Burney High athletic director Peggy Snelling wrote, "This was a team decision, made in light of the fact that we would probably have only 10 players able to play on Friday night."

Burney had started the season with 17 players, including two sophomores on the team.

"We will be moving our sophomore varsity players down to the junior varsity team and plan on continuing with the junior varsity schedule," she said.

Rash of burglaries in Lassen County

The Red Barn store in Bieber was burglarized for the second time in two weeks Thursday where someone made off with an ATM machine.

The Lassen County sheriff's office reported there have been a rash of commercial burglaries all over the county, ranging from grocery stores, a bowling alley and car wash establishments.

The subjects are taking tills, breaking into vending machines and taking any kind of currency they can get their hands on.

In the latest incident at Red Barn, someone smashed the front doors, hooked a chain to the ATM machine and yanked it out of the store, taking the entire machine.

Haunted house Oct. 31

The Burney Fire/EMS Association is hosting its second annual Haunted House Friday, Oct. 31, for children in the community.

The fundraiser festivity is from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Burney Fire Hall. Admission is $1 at the door.

Last year, about 260 people attended and helped raise money for Association projects such as the Christmas Toy Drive.

The Association is also seeking donations of candy for the Haunted House.

Fish judging is Saturday

The Burney Chamber of Commerce is judging the community's Upscale Fish entries on Oct. 25.

Fish will be judged based on theme, most creative, and best use of color and their creators will be awarded $50 for first place, $30 for second, and $20 for third. After the judging, fish will be picked up and stored for the winter.

Fire records sought

requests, but it never seems to satisfy the community member who believes the records to be inaccurate.

He said the community member claims board and staff are violating board policy. What these alleged violations are is unknown, May said.

With constant requests for records, the staff has less time for other district business.

The information I'm asking for is not in the board packets, Nelson said, explaining that board policy states that financial updates are to be included in the board packets each month.

If this were followed, I would not have to request the accurate reports and the board would have the information needed to make financial decisions, she wrote in an Aug. 15 letter to the commissioners.

She said she could get the information she needs from the Shasta County Auditor-Controller's office, which pays the district's bills, but was advised that each request had to first go through the fire department. The fire department would then forward Nelson's request to Redding.

In the past several months my requests have been ignored by the Burney Fire Department, Nelson wrote in her Oct. 4 letter to the commissioners.

What she is specifically looking for now are itemized payments and receipts that are not included in the monthly statements reviewed at board meetings.

There is a block of time each month, in August, for example, following the August fire board meeting, when the county is still making payments or receiving income for August.

While the totals are included in the September board packets, the receipts and payments for August are not itemized, Nelson said.

Chief May said Friday that when Shasta County closes its books, he receives the green bar of detailed transactions and does the reconciliation himself.

If it's not correct, I contact the county, May said.

In addition, a Finance Committee and the full board double-check my work. We also have an annual audit and if there is a problem, they will tell us.

May said the fire department has a $433,000 budget and he is accustomed to working with much larger budgets. This is not rocket science, he said.

The commissioners agreed with May's recommendation that they ask legal counsel for advice.

May also recommended that the district not publish its financial reports until after they receive the county's green bar.

Commission Ann Walker said she would like some parameters established through legal counsel.

The public is entitled (to information), but there have got to be some parameters established as to what's a misuse of staff time. A fire district is not a document distributor, she said.

Caldwell said she wanted to establish a log that indicated what was given out to whom, when, and how many times we had to provide the same documents.

The board tabled making a decision until the November meeting.

In other business, the commissioners approved a resolution on the hiring of an administrative secretary and agreed to have a committee do the interviewing and hiring.

The board agreed to decide later whether to hire part-time individuals, two individuals who would job-share, or continue with one secretary.

May preferred the job-sharing option with a 3/2, 8-hour-day work schedule on an annual starting salary of $12,228 per person or $24,456 annually.

Commissioner Sally Preheim-Thomsen said that in her experience it's chaos when two people share the same desk.

Nelson commented that she agreed with job sharing, but wanted the district to hire at least one person with accounting background.

In a discussion with Walker earlier, she also wanted to bring the billing-clerk position back in-house.

The position was outsourced to save time and money last year, but I have issues with spending $18,000 to a company in Oakland, Ca. when we could possibly hire a local resident as billing clerk. Local tax dollars are our primary source of revenue and should be spent locally whenever possible, in my view.

REAL ESTATE CORNER

WHEN SHOULD YOU LOWER THE ASKING PRICE?

Your house in Burney has been on the market for four weeks. There have been a lot of showings but no bites, so you are wondering if you should consider a price reduction. You want to get as much as you can for your home, but more important, you want it to sell! This may be the time to have a frank discussion with your Realtor. While price may be a major factor, it may not be the only consideration. Are you making your house easy for agents to show? Have you completed the necessary maintenance and cleaning so that your property is as appealing as possible? Review with your agent the current market conditions and the prices of other homes in your neighborhood before determining that a price reduction is in order. Even though your price may be competitive, the marketplace may be telling you that buyers just won't pay what you would like to get. If all indicators point to a price reduction, it is better to do it sooner rather than later.

Four BHS grads return for game

U.S. Marine Corps Private Michael Bushey, Private First Class Tyler Harris, Private First Class Jeremiah White and Private Cody Hawkins were the Color Guard, as Haley Reed, a Burney junior, sang the National Anthem for the half-time ceremony. The four Marines graduated from Burney High School just three months ago and returned to their school's homecoming Friday as proud and disciplined members of the U.S. Marines Corps. They were graduated from boot camp Oct. 10 in San Diego. As one of the top seven leaders in Bravo Company 584, Pfc. Harris was named Platoon Honor Man for Platoon 1011. Harris said boot camp was a great experience. When their brief leave is over, Harris, Bushey and White report to Marine Corps Base Camp Pendleton for Marine Combat Training, while Hawkins reports to the School of Infantry at Camp Pendleton.

Show their colors

Burney Elementary School sixth graders Jenna Watson and Hannah Howard show their colors, green and gold, during Burney High School's homecoming game vs Williams.

Info meetings scheduled on Odyssey teams

There will be two informational meetings Oct. 29 at the local elementary schools to learn about coaching or joining an Odyssey of the Mind team.

Sidewinders take 7-7 tie, ready to bust Rover's winning streak

The Intermountain Sidewinders landed a 7-7 tie with the Palo Cedro Earthquakes Saturday at the Cow Creek Church.

"It was a real intense game with all the boys fighting hard. We'd get behind and then they would make an outstanding comeback each time," said Coach Mary Childress of her U12 boys' soccer team.

"They worked their legs off and I can't say enough good about them."

Mitch Pena and Jared

Walker scored two goals each, while Trey Kramer, Edward Richno and John Neugebauer added one goal apiece to the score.

The Sidewinders play their last game at 1 p.m. Saturday against the undefeated Anderson Rovers at the Inter-Mountain Fairgrounds in McArthur and Childress said she hopes there will be a good fan turnout.

"We lost our first game of the season to them and our goal is to break their winning streak," she said.

Schools agree to fund resource officer

BY MEG FOX

At the request of the Shasta County Sheriff's Office, the trustees for Fall River Joint Unified School District agreed Oct. 8 to fund 80 percent of the cost for maintaining School Resource Officer Shawn Lewis.

The school district is now paying $58,912 of the total $73,640 annual cost to have a full-time deputy sheriff available on site for administrators and students.

"The School Resource Officers and the Safe School Initiative are near and dear to my heart, but we cannot spend money that we do not have," wrote Undersheriff Larry Schaller in his Sept. 23 letter requesting additional funding for the officer.

The school district's trustees had earlier agreed to move $21,499 from the undesignated reserve to total $43,659 of the cost.

But the Sheriff's Department needed more help.

"The county contribution was compromised by state reductions in funds and it had a domino effect to the Sheriff's Office," Supt. Eric Newton said at the Oct. 8 board meeting in Burney.

Newton said that, coincidentally, funds previously cut from the Safe Schools and Violence Prevention Act were restored and "we have the funds we've been asked to contribute."

Trustee Nancy Sisk said she wanted to maintain the officer. "The principals have told us how important this is."

In another financial matter, the school board agreed to increase Independent Study teacher Theresa Robbins from a half time to a three-quarter Full Time Equivalent (FTE) position because 14 students are enrolled in the program and there is a waiting list.

Correction to school district article

In last week's issue of The News, a quote attributed to Supt. Eric Newton concerning the percentage of a school district's resources that goes to salaries and benefits was in error and misleading.

Newton was referring to a general guideline for school districts nationwide in speaking about school districts allocating 80 percent of their budgets to salaries and benefits.

The 80/20 guideline varies from district to district. The Fall River JUSD has not always followed that guideline and 80 percent of its budget does not always go to salaries.

In this school district's unamended 2002-2003 budget, 76.6 percent of the total unrestricted and restricted dollars is allocated for salaries and benefits.

At the present time, the Fall River's 2002-2003 unamended budget, adopted last June, has projected unrestricted revenues of $7.7 million ($7,693,285) and projected cost for salaries and benefits of $6.8 million ($6,740,956), which Newton said is 79 percent of the projected unrestricted revenues.

The same budget has $3.2 million ($3,207,619) in projected restricted dollars with $2.2 million ($2,277,439) in expenditures for salaries and benefits, which is 71 percent of the restricted budget.

The total from the projected restricted and unrestricted dollars is $8,352,395, or 76.6 percent of the total budget allocated for salaries and benefits to both classified and certificated employees, Newton said.

U.S. Army Platoon Sgt. Cameron Held received the Bronze Star of Valor for his part in Operation Iraqi Freedom at the battle at al-Hilla.

Best friend persuaded his honored Army platoon sergeant to join military

U.S. Army Platoon Sgt. Cameron Held, the son of Spencer and Terry Sampson of Burney, was awarded the Bronze Star of Valor for his outstanding contributions in Operation Iraqi Freedom at the battle at al-Hilla in late March.

At the same time Sgt. Held, who is with A Company, 2-70 Armored Reserve, Basic Combat Training (3BCT), 2nd Platoon, was promoted to E7 and transferred from Baghdad to "Thunderdome," a higher security compound.

Held, 32, is stationed at Ft. Riley, Kansas, where his wife and two sons, ages 8 and 5, are waiting for his return home.

"His expected date of deployment is February, but that has changed five times since the end of the war," said his mother, the Infection Control nurse at Mayers Memorial Hospital.

"Rumor has it that they will return home for a short time and then return for another year of duty. Let's hope it's just a rumor. We miss our son and hope for his return home, safe and soon."

Held enlisted in 1991, two years after his graduation from Eureka High School.

"His best friend came home from Desert Storm and convinced him that it was soooo awesome! He was in college and he surprised us by enlisting. We are very proud of him, but college would have been nice, too," his mother said.

"He must have been his calling," she said, noting that he re-enlisted about two weeks ago.

"We thank our community for us for all their support. We may not share the same views about politics but we should support our troops. We're all they have," said Terry Sampson.

New teachers express special interest in helping students succeed

The Fall River Joint Unified School District hired seven new teachers this school year and The News welcomed four in a previous issue.

We welcome the following, who are each teaching at Burney Junior-Senior High School.

SOMMER NEWKIRK

Sommer Newkirk, the new social studies teacher at Burney Junior Senior High School, became a teacher after being influenced by her own high school teacher.

"She had faith in me when I didn't have faith in myself and I'd like to pass that on," she said.

Newkirk has a learning disability, which she likes to call a learning difference, related to visual processing.

"It's actually helped me because I had to learn how I learned and by college I had a 4.0 with no special services.

"But I wasn't a good student in high school. It was so hard for me and now I want to help others."

Newkirk grew up in Chico and after high school went to Butte College. But after a year, she said, "I wanted to see what else was out there."

She visited a friend in Alaska "and then came home and packed my car and moved to Anchorage."

Completes training

Coast Guard Fireman Apprentice Reggie E. Wellemeyer, 18, the son of Lorna and Robert Shandley, of Burney, was graduated recently from the U.S Coast Guard Recruit Training Center in Cape May, N.J.

During his eight-week training program, Wellemeyer completed a vigorous training curriculum consisting of classroom academics and practical instruction on water safety and survival, military customs and courtesies, seamanship skills, first aid, fire fighting and marksmanship.

He joins 36,000 other men and women who are the Coast Guard's force.

Men and women train together from the first day in the Coast Guard. To reinforce the team concept, Apprentice Reggie Wellemeyer and other recruits were trained in preventing sexual harassment, drug and alcohol awareness and civil rights training.

Wellemeyer is a 2003 graduate of Mountain Christian Academy.

He is currently attending Machinery Technician (MK) School in Yorktown, VA and is expected to graduate Nov. 7.

He and his brother, Seaman Andrew Wellemeyer, 22, a 2000 graduate of Mountain Christian, were both sworn in to the U.S. Coast Guard on June 9, 2003, and were graduated from the Recruit Training Center at Cape May on the same day.

Andrew Wellemeyer is currently stationed at Belle Isle Coast Guard Station, MI.

She worked for the military as a civilian for a while until she realized she needed to finish college and enrolled at the University of Alaska, Fairbanks.

She holds a degree in social science and has a teaching credential in social studies with an English supplement.

She is currently working towards her Masters degree in education/

"I love going to school, except for the cost of it," she said.

She taught a social studies class at Las Plumas High School in Oroville and a summer school continuing education English class.

She and her husband Jonathan have a daughter, Makinna, 5, who is in kindergarten, and a 15-month-old son, Jackson.

She loves to travel and also enjoys hiking and fishing. "I'm also a big fan of Elvis Presley," she said, adding that doing research on him led to her interest in history.

RICHARD FREIER

Burney Junior-Senior High

School's new math teacher, Rick Freier, worked in the medical engineering field for 12 years before entering the field of education in 1988.

He has a degree from Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, and a teaching credential from California State University, Chico.

He has taught math and science at both the high school and college level and for several years was the principal of a K-12 school.

In an interview for the school's Raider Chronicles, Freier said he hopes to teach students to "use math skills to set in motion a lifestyle they only dreamed of previously."

He said he has a vision of a generation of young people living without debt "and expanding that lifestyle to the next generation."

Freier currently lives in Shingletown and commutes each day to teach.

Candidates tackle question on recruiting volunteers

BY MEG FOX

Four of the five candidates running for election to commissioner for the Burney Fire Protection District responded in writing to several questions from the community, one of which follows.

Seeking the post are the two incumbents Donna Sylvester, a retired sheriff's department sergeant and owner of Mt. Burney Theatre, and Ann Walker, a former Burney ambulance driver and owner of Burney Barber Shop.

Also hoping for a seat on the board are Roger Valinoti, a retired plumber and the former assistant fire chief for the Graton Volunteer Fire Protection District near Santa Rosa; Penny Rodgers, a service officer for the Shasta County Sheriff's Office in Burney, and Larry Armstrong, manager of the Burney Cemetery District and a volunteer firefighter and EMT. Armstrong had not responded by the deadline set.

The Burney fire department needs more volunteers. What are your suggestions?

SYLVESTER: Generic ads don't seem to work. I hoped (the recent) Fire Prevention Week activities would solicit some interest.

An old-time fun day with simple games like ring toss, horseshoes, croquet, softball, three-legged races, etc. as a fun, family-oriented community event.

Different organizations, including the Fire Department, could set up displays, demonstrations and information tables to draw interest and support for their organizations.

I would like to see bi-monthly spaghetti feeds and an annual crab feed put on by the Fire Department, not only to raise funds for the Department, but to also increase awareness of our need for more volunteers.

We could work with the real estate professionals in the area.

Many communities offer a welcome packet to new homeowners. Maybe some of the businesses would be interested in getting something like that going here (I would).

The Fire Department could include some promotional information in the packet about the benefits of becoming a volunteer with the Department.

Many people who move here are looking for ways to reach out, meet people, and make new friends.

Becoming a volunteer firefighter might just be the ticket for them. Begin a cadet program that gets high school students interested in fire service.

WALKER: A community member suggested having a barbecue to introduce BFPD to a "new" crowd of, perhaps, younger people.

I have been trying to pursue this avenue of contact because I feel that the Department has moved too far from the center of our constituency, in that, we needed to become more "professional" and less of a "social club" (in the view of management).

BUT by doing so, we have taken away all the "fun" aspects of joining a group whose function is to serve the community through a whole lot of hard work and dedication.

So, what is our reward system? When was the last Fireman's Fun Day? 911 Picnic?

We have so few people doing everything now that it is unfair to ask them to do much more, and yet recruitment must become out highest priority.

VALINOTI: This has been an age-old problem.

It is not easy to accomplish. My last department fluctuated between 20 and 36 members.

There are also the ones who were always there and the ones who picked and chose the type of calls they wanted to go on.

In that department the members were required to go to all types of calls.

No matter what the call was, we were expected to respond. We also had to make 75% / 25% of drills / calls each six-month period by the rules and regs.

I borrowed a Possible Candidate information packet from our neighboring department and made it fit the needs of my department, so we could hand it to a prospective or an interested new member.

Then they would know up front what the commitment of time was needed to become a member.

It also gave some statistics of our previous year's call volume and the types of calls.

RODGERS: In the case of a fire department/EMS, what is expected of a volunteer today is not what it was in the past.

Because of state and federal guidelines and liability, volunteers are required to go through far more extensive training than they did in the past.

Consequently, the time that volunteers have to contribute is extensive.

In our present economy, a sense of community often loses out to a second job to make ends meet.

Perhaps offering training pay in addition to fire calls and ambulance runs might be an incentive.

Longevity pay for each five years a person stays with the department might be another avenue.

Honored for volunteer work

Kevin Carter, of McArthur, center, received a plaque from the Inter-Mountain Fair for his voluntary work this past summer. Fair Manager Dennis Hoffman, at left, and Fair Maintenance Superintendent Mark Ayers, right, made the presentation and thanked Carter for the "fantastic" job he did. Carter is a sophomore at Fall River High School.

Can you decipher this?

XLWV YIVZPVIH

If you can figure out the headline, you are practicing cryptology (cryp-TOL-o-gy), or the skill of making or breaking messages or codes.

A cipher substitutes letters for other letters. The headline above is an example of a cipher, or a message that uses substitute letters. This is also called a cryptogram. We use ciphers to protect or scramble messages. People who try to decipher messages are called cryptanalysts.

To decipher the headline, look at the code on the bottom of this page. Use the letters on the top line in place of the letters on the bottom line.

We use codes to send messages. A code uses different words, syllables, symbols or sentences to stand for another meaning. For example, we use the Morse code, a system of dots and dashes, to send messages. You need a code guide to decode a message.

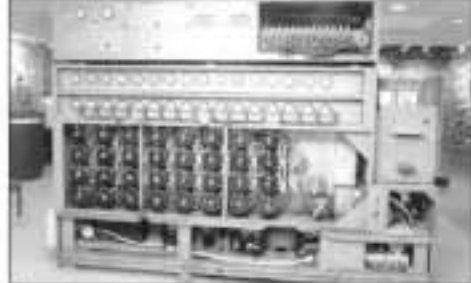

Code-making or -breaking is a serious job for our government.

During World War II, the Germans used a cipher machine called the Enigma.

When President Bush makes a telephone call, he uses a special system that makes the call secure. No one other than the person called can understand what he says.

Knowing the enemy's secret plans is of great help in wartime. By using the machine above, called the Bombe, our forces were able to decipher German messages. The fact that we could use it was a closely guarded secret.

Making and breaking codes

Our government gathers signals and communications from foreign governments, groups or individuals. Breaking these codes or ciphers sometimes alerts us to dangerous foreign spy or terrorist activities that might do damage or be a serious threat.

Not all of our information is from signals or messages. We get information from what we see. We fly planes and gather information from pictures.

Protecting our messages

Our government also must protect the secret messages sent by our military, our embassies in foreign countries and other government agencies. Because unfriendly governments or people might be listening, we must be careful.

The National Cryptologic Museum honors code makers and code breakers. It is outside Washington, D.C., in Fort Meade, Md. It is a part of the National Security Agency. Older kids would enjoy it.

Gus Goodsport's Report

Supersport: Andy Roddick

Height: 6-2 Birthdate: 8-30-82
Weight: 190 Residence: Boca Raton, Fla.

Imagine trying to hit a tennis ball that's traveling more than 140 miles per hour. That's the challenge faced by players attempting to return Andy Roddick's serve. In fact, Roddick's biggest blast was clocked at 149 mph, tying the fastest serve on record.

Roddick has utilized that sizzling serve and an all-around game to become one of the top tennis players in the world. He recently won the U.S. Open singles title. Since turning pro in 2000, the Omaha, Neb., native has captured 12 singles championships.

Besides winning tournaments, Roddick's other interests include the YMCA, following Nebraska football and playing golf. But "Mr. Ace" is at his best with a racket in his hand.

Meet Dionne Quan

Ever since she was a little girl, Dionne Quan has always loved hearing characters talk and sing on her favorite TV shows. Quan couldn't see her favorite characters because she is blind. But that didn't stop her from becoming the actress who provides the voice behind popular cartoon characters, such as Trixie Tang on "The Fairly Odd Parents," young Kimi on "Rugrats," and as a "tween"-ager in the upcoming movie "All Grown Up."

Quan, 25, reads her scripts in Braille as she gives her characters their voices. She grew up in San Francisco and enrolled in acting classes when she was 10. Learning how to do voiceovers gave her a way to pursue her desire to be an actress despite being blind. At the age of 14, she landed her first job doing commercials.

Today, Quan pursues her acting career in Los Angeles, where she lives with her brother.

Famous Spies and Spy Tools

Famous spies

Mata Hari
Mata Hari was a beautiful woman who was famous for her dances. She agreed to spy for both the Germans and the French. But she was not a successful spy. The French decided she could not be trusted and set a trap for her. When she was discovered, she was executed after a two-day trial.

Harriett Tubman
Harriett Tubman is most famous for her service in the Underground Railroad, the organization that helped lead slaves to freedom. She was also a spy for the Union during the Civil War. She often went behind Confederate lines and was assumed to be a slave.

Josephine Baker
Josephine Baker was a famous African-American star in the 1920s. She moved to France. During World War II, she served as a secret informer for French intelligence. She wrote secret messages on her sheet music, using invisible ink.

Good spies

To find out what makes a good spy, The Mini Page talked with Peter Earnest, executive director of the International Spy Museum. Here are a few of his pointers.

Spies must be:

- observant and accurate so they can report details and make smart moves.
- have good memories.
- have confidence and courage. The life of a spy can be very dangerous.
- have a good sense of intuition and understanding of people.
- have a strong curiosity.

Site to see: www.spymuseum.org

The Mini Page thanks the Public Relations Office of the International Spy Museum for help with this page.

Do you know anyone who is a spy? Probably not. The most important part of becoming a spy is that no one can know that you are one. Spies work in secret to gather information about an enemy and give that information to a "spy master," the person who wants it. This secret information is called "intelligence."

To find out more about spies, we visited the International Spy Museum in Washington, D.C.

Spy tools

Spies use many different tools to gather information. They also must transmit information back to their home base.

Disguises

Spies disguise themselves, or adopt a cover so they appear to be someone else. They dress, talk and act like the character they portray. They try to infiltrate, or join, the enemy organization so they can gather intelligence. They have to be very careful. Their life depends on not getting caught.

Hidden cameras

Spies often take pictures. This tiny camera, hidden behind the button on a coat, could be used to take pictures of enemy agents, buildings or documents. Cameras have been hidden in briefcases, lipstick tubes and books.

Listening devices (bugs)

Spies plant "bugs" in ordinary household objects so they can listen to conversations. Spies put bugs in lamp shades, electric sockets, telephones, and many places where they won't be detected.

Camouflage

Spies often hide their weapons in different ways. Explosive coal was used by the Germans in World War II. What looked like a large piece of coal was really hollow. Inside were explosives. These pieces of coal were hidden in coal bins. They would explode when loaded into fires.

Transmitters

Once the spy has gotten secret information, he or she must get it back to the boss, or "spy master." A tiny transmitter can even be hidden in the heel of a shoe.

Our first spymaster

George Washington was not a spy himself, but he hired someone to spy for him. He was our country's first "spy master." He asked Nathaniel Sackett to seek out British spies and to give them false intelligence to confuse their forces.

Pretend that you are a spy. Look through your newspaper and find events you would have liked to have seen.

Fall River league champs

BY MEG FOX

The Fall River Bulldogs scored the Shasta Cascade League soccer championship in a 6-3 win over Etna on Oct. 14.

"It was an incredible game and the kids were pumped up and ready, knowing what was at stake. We had not beaten Etna in two years. And we went from winning no games last year to the championship," said Coach Matt McAlerney.

Goalkeeper Jake Shuler had 13 saves, five of which were spectacular, McAlerney said.

It was Caleb Shuler who made the team's first move to victory in what McAlerney described as "an interesting play" off a corner kick by Deiter Salters.

"Deiter took the corner kick and passed it to Tim Arnold, who deflected it with a head shot to the back side of the goal, where Caleb was there to knock it in. It was really pretty."

The score was 2-1 at the half, after Salters put another ball into the cage.

Brandon Beck knocked the next goal in, with a head shot off another corner kick by Salters.

The next series of masterful moves by the Bulldogs brought the score to 4-1.

"Jake Shuler made a save, had the ball, and punted it well over half the field to his brother, Caleb, who broke away, took it, and scored. It doesn't often happen that the goalkeeper gets the assist," said McAlerney.

Etna came back to score, but Fall River responded when Caleb Shuler crossed the ball over to Salters to score again.

Salters closed out the game in the 78th minute with a breakaway goal up the middle, McAlerney said.

But on Thursday, as Fall River entered the playoffs against host Liberty Christian, their performance fell flat in a disappointing 7-3 loss.

"As sharp as we were on Tuesday - we were just the opposite on Thursday," said

McAlerney.

Fall River was tied 3-3 at the half with two goals by Salter and one by Caleb Shuler. "But then we lost our momentum. They scored a couple of quick goals and we didn't recover and were knocked out of the playoffs rather quickly."

A big loss so soon on the heels of a major victory might, but should not, take anything away from the Bulldogs' championship season that closed with an 8-5-1 overall standing, including the playoff game, and 5-2-1 in League.

Burney's Rocksann Barba tips one over the net in the Raider's 3-1 win over Weed.

Burney and Fall River's varsity volleyball teams were both 4-3 in the Shasta Cascade League on Friday and in second place.

Modoc's 4-3 standing last week makes it a three-way tie.

The local tie-breaking game was set for Tuesday at press time when the Raiders and Bulldogs meet on Fall River's court.

In games last week, Burney beat Weed 3-1 (25-15, 25-22, 13-25, 25-17) Oct. 16 while Fall River had a 3-0 win over Mt. Shasta (25-12, 25-11, 25-17).

In Burney vs. Weed, Robbie Fulk had 13 kills, 3 blocks and one service point. Aimee Ayers had 7 kills, 8 service points and 4 aces. Kristen Churney had 20 assists, 8 service points, 2 aces and one kill, Rocksann Barba had 3 aces, 2 service points and 2 kills, Jennifer Wall had 2 kills, 1 block and 1 service point. Angela Hiller had 2 aces and 4 service points. Amy Spencer had 2 kills and Kayla Stover had 4 aces and 2 kills.

In Fall River's win over Mt. Shasta, Jessica Hero had 9 kills and 3 digs and Brittany Shelton had 17 assists and 5 kills.

Both teams lost to the Etna (7-0 in League) Lions, with a ferocious team that features talented six-foot-tall Jaelyn Rainville and four players who are 5'11".

Burney lost to Etna, 3-0, at Etna on Oct. 14, with Etna scoring 25-10, 25-19, and 25-11.

Fall River squeaked in one point in their 3-1 game against the Lions Oct. 16. Fall River scored River 25-23, 26-28, 8-25, 22-25.

Big Valley is 5-0 in league

Big Valley continues to lead the way into the Evergreen League with 5-0. Second place Tulelake is 3-3-0 in League.

The Cardinals latest win was 3-0 over the Happy Camp Indians on their turf, 25-13, 25-13, 25-11.

Katie Pope had 8 aces, 9 assists, 1 dig and 1 kill. Missy Ackley had 5 kills. Jackie Heryford added 5 kills, 3 aces and 5 digs. Cyndie Juranits had 4 kills, 7 assists, 2 aces.
