PG&E placing finishing touches on pipeline project

BY MEG FOX

A seven-man work crew has been arriving in Burney at 5 a.m. every morning to line up next to a shaded, portable conveyor belt and fill 5,000 bags with sand a day for 10 hours a day, six days a week.

It's just one element in PG&E's $39.5 million natural gas pipeline expansion project that got underway locally last week.

"We're just peanuts compared to what's out there on this job," said Carrel Heath, owner-operator of Heath Construction in Amity, Oregon, who has the contract to provide 100,000 sandbags for the project.

The sandbags will be placed beneath the new pipeline and will also be used as breakers to stop erosion, Heath said.

This major gas line expansion project is adding 14.1 miles of pipe to the existing lines, called the 400 and 401 Lines that stretch from Canada to the Panoche Station near the Harris Ranch in San Benito County.

Construction began in October 2001 and the expected completion date is September 2002.

"We want to tie in both pieces by then and get the gas flowing through the line," said Sid Leutholtz, PG&E construction manager from Lodi.

Once the pipe is in, ground restoration begins.

"The project increases the firm capacity of PG&E's Redwood Path by 200,000 Decatherms per day," according to Lisa Randle of PG&E's News Department in San Francisco.

"That is enough to warm 1.2 million homes in our service area each year. With more natural gas-powered plants coming on line, the increase could supply enough gas to run a 1200-megawatt power plant generating enough electricity to light 1.2 million homes."

The expansion adds two sections of pipeline, with one six-mile long section called the Modoc Loop going in south of Tionesta, just south of the Oregon border.

The eight-mile-long Shasta Loop parallels Tamarack Road in Burney and heads out towards Whitmore.

Burney fire budget again draws criticism

BY MEG FOX

Commissioners for the Burney Fire Protection District reviewed a $346,300 preliminary budget for 2002-2003 during a public hearing attended by Burney resident Evalee Nelson, fire department volunteer and Budget Committee member Larry Armstrong, and a candidate for the fire chief position.

The budget is based on anticipated county revenues of $193,300 plus estimated ambulance revenues of $150,000 and the $3,000 paid annually by Pit River Casino for fire coverage.

What's new in this year's budget is the addition of more, and more specific, account categories.

In past budgets, a variety of expenses were lumped, sometimes inaccurately, into one category.

"We did some reclassification because it's been difficult to track expenses," said Commissioner Lynn Miller, who introduced the budget May 29.

Nelson, who has been questioning the board's procedures and accounting decisions for months, wanted to know why this preliminary budget didn't reflect more current figures.

Miller said they would have the most current figures from the Shasta County's Auditor-Controller's office by June 30.

After the fire department posts the bills and receipts, they are forwarded to the county auditor's office for posting.

Due to this procedure, it takes six weeks before the fire department reconciles with the county, Miller said.

And now, because of past posting errors, the county is rechecking every invoice for the year.

"You must have a pretty good idea (of revenues and expenses) by this point," continued Nelson.

"We don't," the board responded. "You don't?" asked Nelson in an incredulous tone.

"What's your point?" asked Miller.

"I'd think you'd know," replied Nelson.

"Do you have questions about what has been budgeted?" Miller asked.

"Why not go by what you've actually spent," said Nelson.

"We did," interjected Larry Armstrong. "We used the history."

"The county has not finished moving numbers from one account

Fall River woman dies in crash

A 33-year-old Fall River Mills woman was killed Monday when the vehicle she was driving crashed on Glenburn Road.

Christine Marie Clemens was traveling on the two-lane road about 9:45 p.m. when the vehicle rolled and she was ejected, said Wayne Booker of the Shasta County Coroner's Office in Redding.

She sustained major head injuries and was flown to Mercy Medical Center where she was pronounced dead.

The crash is under investigation by the Burney office of the California Highway Patrol.

Booker said a post mortem examination of Clemens is scheduled.

Burney Cemetery District is taking letters of interest for two positions on its Board of Directors. If you would be interested in serving your community in this capacity, please submit a letter of interest to Secretary, Jackie Young at the 37475 Baily Avenue office or mail to: Burney Cemetery District, PO Box 277, Burney, Calif., 96013.
Deadline for accepting letters of interest will be June 7, 2002.

Pipeline project in lava

"The two loops were not built in the early 1990s when they did the (original pipeline project) due to the Modoc Loop, which is completely in lava," Leutholtz said. "So they ended there, skipped that section, and started again below it."

The pieces of 42-inch steel pipe are shipped by rail and offloaded in Newell for the Modoc Loop and in the Redding area for the local loop and then trucked to a storage facility, according to Nora Winn, PG&E's senior technical assistant for the project.

About 225 workers will be on the job at its peak, Randle said. Most of the workers will be staying at contractor's yards and facilities, and there are about six construction managers staying in Burney.

In addition to Rockford Construction, the company contracted for the job, there will be archeologists, biologists, Native American monitors, electricians, welders and other laborers on the job.

Right now, work involves clearing the right-of-ways for the project.

Randle said the court adopted bankruptcy review process for capital expenditures approved the project.

Hat Creek couple to be honored Friday, 6 p.m.

BY MEG FOX

The Hat Creek community is going to miss the home-made fudge that Grace Lonquist has been giving away for 50 years to anyone who voted at the Hat Creek polling place.

They'll miss her fresh, raised doughnuts, given as treats or sold at nearly every fundraiser in Hat Creek for probably 65 years or more.

They'll miss Elmo's willing and helping hands for everyone from neighbors to the tractor and trailer he used to transport guests at the annual Hat Creek Volunteer Fire Department barbecue.

They'll miss the big garden the Lonquists always had, but that is now just too much for a couple in their 80s to care for.

Most of all, they'll miss Elmo and Grace who they will honor at a community potluck at 6 p.m. June 7 at the old Hat Creek Fire Hall.

The Lonquists are moving to Redding this month and leaving won't be that easy for them either.

"No one hates leaving more than I do, unless it's Elmo, and he really didn't want to leave," said Grace. "It's tough, but everyone gets to this decision some time."

The Lonquists were both born and raised on ranches here and, after they were married, continued to ranch as they raised their three children.

Elmo, who will be 85 on June 8, grew up on the Lonquist Ranch in Hat Creek. Grace (Morton), who will be 80 on July 29, grew up on what was called the Morton Place, "five miles on the other side of Goose Valley."

In those days it seemed like there was more snow and it was something to reckon with.

"We'd be snowed in all winter," said Grace. "If we came out, it was on skis."

When she was five years old, she was enrolled in the second grade at the Albion School at old Four Corners. "They needed one more child so they could stay open."

The next year the superintendent of schools decided she was too young for that grade and she was sent to the first grade in Goose Valley, a summer school because of the snow.

"Then my folks sent me to my grandparents in Alturas to go to school."

Once again, the local school needed students in order to stay open and Grace came back home. "I finished grammar school at the Wilcox School and went to school one year in Oakland with my cousin. I finished high school in McArthur."

In 1936, her parents moved to Hat Creek. "I stayed there till I got married so I didn't move very far."

ELMO and GRACE LONQUIST

As for Elmo, "I'd known him most of my life. We started dating after I'd been in an auto accident and was in the county hospital in Redding. He was driving a truck for a plant in Fall River that delivered meat to Redding every day and he started coming to see me."

Grace's auto accident is another story. When she was 16, she and some friends drove "a little convertible" to Lassen Park to play in the snow. On their way home, the car left the road and hit a tree.

Grace had a fractured skull, a broken jaw and a

Multiply Your Summer Fun

Read the Whole Series

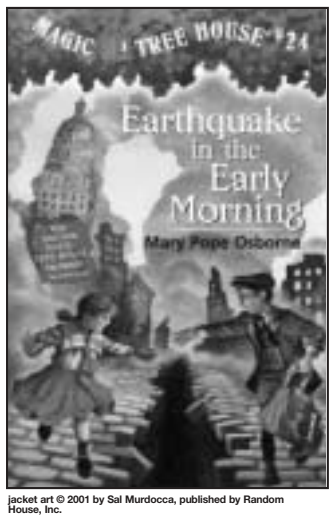

The great thing about a series is that the adventure and fun don't end when you finish the first book. There are more tales to come. The Mini Page features some of the popular series books of this summer.

Magic Tree House

In the Magic Tree House series by Mary Pope Osborne, Jack and Annie are magically transported to different places at the moment history is being made.

Their adventures take them to events such as the Revolutionary War, the sinking of the Titanic, a tornado on the prairie and a future moon landing.

In "Earthquake in the Early Morning," Jack and Annie are sent on a mission to San Francisco in 1906. They arrive just in time to experience the earthquake that shook that city.

Chet Gecko Mysteries

In these spoofs on famous detective stories, Bruce Hale's tough, wise-cracking private eye is also a gecko — a gecko in the fourth grade. Chet Gecko says: "I've always loved a good mystery. Like, how do they squeeze ketchup into those little plastic packets? And, why is cafeteria food so bad?"

In "The Chameleon Wore Chartreuse," Chet helps a damsel in distress find her brother. Chet says: "She was cute and green and scaly. She looked like trouble and she smelled like ... grasshoppers."

Junie B. Jones

In this series by Barbara Park, Junie B. is a funny kindergartner who keeps landing in trouble. Kids who are just discovering chapter books will understand exactly what Junie B. is talking about.

In "Junie B. Jones Is a Graduation Girl," Junie B. graduates from kindergarten. But she spills grape juice on her gown. And neither a white crayon nor an eraser can fix it.

Freddy the Pig

The Freddy Collection by Walter R. Brooks has been popular for about 60 years. In this classic series, Freddy the Pig and his animal friends have adventures humans might experience, such as flying a plane or vacationing in Florida.

In "Freddy and the Bean Home News," Freddy and his farm pals put out the first animal newspaper. But the town newspaper bosses don't like that, and things start going wrong for the animals.

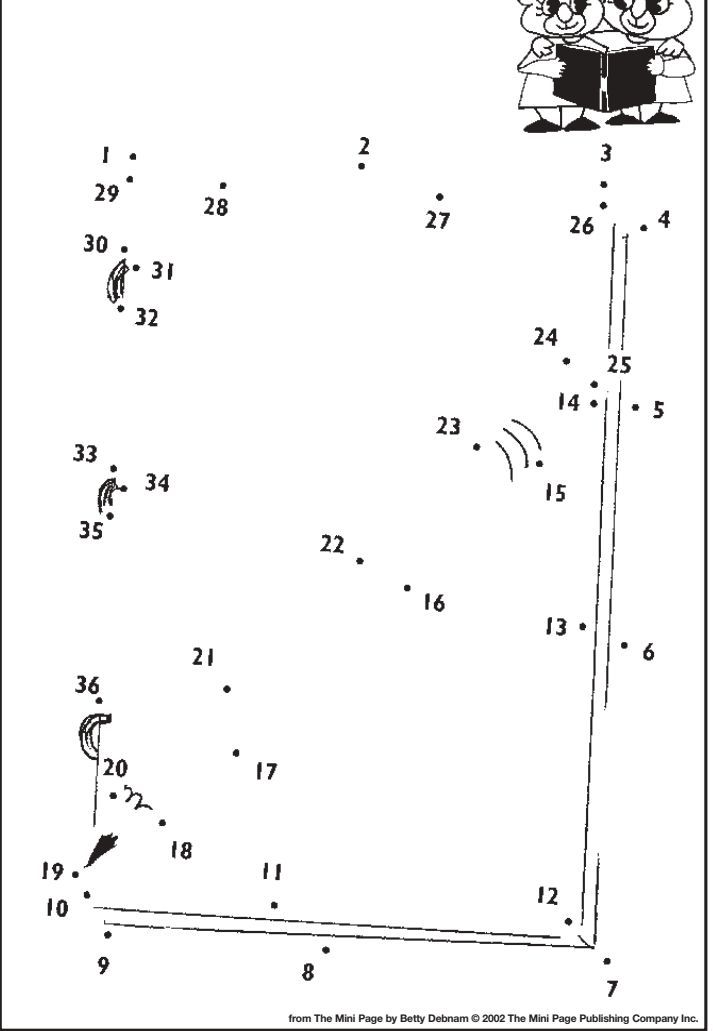

Star Wars Jedi Apprentice

Several authors continue the saga of Star Wars, writing about the characters and their adventures when they were young.

In "Star Wars Jedi Apprentice: The Rising Force" by Dave Wolverton, 12-year-old Obi-Wan Kenobi must learn to control his own anger and fear, or the Jedi Master will not accept him as an apprentice.

Rookie Cookie's Recipe Peanutty Cookies

You'll need:

- 1 1/4 cups brown sugar
- 3/4 cup peanut butter
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened
- 4 tablespoons milk
- 1 tablespoon vanilla
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 3/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 teaspoon baking soda

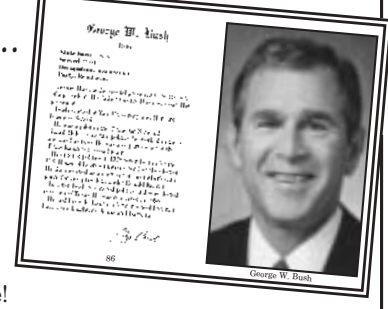

What to do:

1. In a large bowl, combine brown sugar, peanut butter, butter or margarine, milk, vanilla and egg. Mix until smooth and creamy.
2. In a medium bowl, combine remaining ingredients. Mix well.
3. Stir dry mixture into creamy mixture. Mix until just blended.
4. Drop by tablespoonfuls several inches apart on an ungreased baking sheet. Flatten slightly with the tines of a fork.
5. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven 7 to 9 minutes or until just beginning to brown. Makes about 3 dozen.

Gus Goodsport's Report

Supersport: Andy Roddick

Height: 6-2 Birthdate: 8-30-82
Weight: 185 Birthplace: Omaha, Neb.
One of the best new tennis players to make a name in the sport is Andy Roddick. He recently won his second U.S. Men's Clay Court Championship. Andy, who can serve the ball at an amazing 140 miles per hour, turned pro two years ago. He has won five singles and two doubles titles. So far, he has won more than $1,165,000.

He grew up with two older brothers. He began playing tennis because one of his brothers played the sport. Andy lives in Boca Raton, Fla. He likes riding bikes, jet skiing, playing pingpong, going to the movies and watching sports. His favorite author is J.K. Rowling, and his favorite musical group is Blink-182.

Meet Patty Loveless

For more than 10 years, Patty Loveless has been a top country singer. She was born in Elkhorn City, Ky., and grew up in Pikeville, Ky., where her father was a coal miner. She was the youngest of seven children.

Everyone in her home loved music. Her father would take her to bluegrass concerts when she was young. She was 12 when she gave her first performance. In the mid-1970s she lived in North Carolina and performed with a rock band. She then decided she preferred country music. She started a solo career and has sold millions of albums. Patty lives with her husband, music producer Emory Gordy Jr., in Nashville, Tenn.

More Fun Series Books

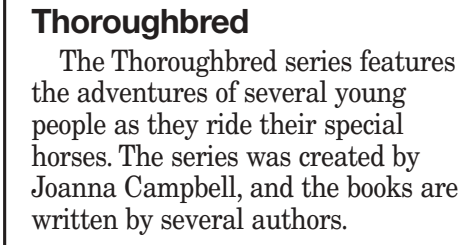

Here are some more exciting series to read this summer.

Captain Underpants

In this strange, funny series by Dav Pilkey, two fourth-graders hypnotize their horrible principal into thinking he is the superhero Captain Underpants. Dav Pilkey combines writing and drawings for a comic book-style adventure series. His books feature "Flip-O-Rama," where the reader can make the drawings look animated.

Thoroughbred

The Thoroughbred series features the adventures of several young people as they ride their special horses. The series was created by Joanna Campbell, and the books are written by several authors.

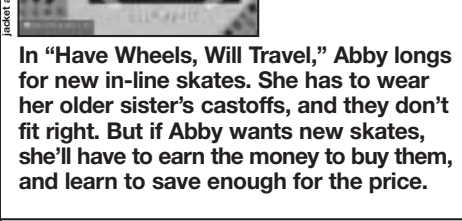

In "Distance Runner" by Jennifer Chu, 17-year-old Christina Reese is feeling the pressure of getting her horse ready for the Kentucky Derby. She takes him to California so she and her horse can heal from bad times.

Deltora Quest

This series by Emily Rodda centers on the magic land of Deltora, a land full of monsters and heroes. In the series, the Shadow Lord is plotting to enslave the people of Deltora. A magic belt is the only weapon against him, but its magic stones are stolen and hidden. The heroes must find all the stones to defeat the Shadow Lord.

The Amazing Days of Abby Hayes

In this series by Anne Mazer, fifth-grader Abby writes in her journal about her adventures and longings. She writes about what happens in her lively family. She is right in the middle of the family, between a genius younger brother and two older twin sisters.

In "Have Wheels, Will Travel," Abby longs for new in-line skates. She has to wear her older sister's castoffs, and they don't fit right. But if Abby wants new skates, she'll have to earn the money to buy them, and learn to save enough for the price.

Animal Ark

These adventures, created by Ben M. Baglio and written by different authors, feature different animals in need at the Animal Ark Veterinary Clinic. Mandy Hope helps her parents treat all the different animals who come to the clinic.

Dragon Slayers' Academy

This series by K.H. McMullan pokes fun at tales of knights and ladies. Students at the academy stumble around on their various quests.

A Series of Unfortunate Events

In this series by Lemony Snicket, three orphans endure "terrible" things that are a lot of fun for readers.

In "The Miserable Mill," Violet, Klaus and Sunny are sent to work in a lumbermill. Misfortunes that lie in wait for them include a bad casserole and coupons.

The Mini Page thanks Jewell Stoddard, Politics and Prose Bookstore, Washington, D.C., for help with this issue.

Look through your newspaper for several days to find a "series" of stories about one subject.

Next week, The Mini Page is about orphan trains of the 1800s.

Norma McCullough has fresh, California-grown flowers available for all occasions at her new shop, Fall River Florist, next to Plumas Bank in Fall River Mills.

New floral shop opens on Fall River Mills main street

BY MEG FOX

A woman who grew up helping her mother tend a car-stopping, showcase flower garden on Highway 299 has opened a new floral shop in downtown Fall River Mills.

At Fall River Florist, Norma Oilar McCullough is offering a wide variety of fresh, dried and silk flowers for all occasions.

"I love flowers," said McCullough, whose mother Janet Oilar still plants a spectacular garden for the public's pleasure.

A Fall River High School graduate, McCullough was a saw filer with Louisiana Pacific for 14 years.

She was living in Mendocino County when she decided to study floral design at Mendocino College. She put her skills to use working for two florists in Ukiah before returning to the Fall River Valley five years ago.

She and her husband Mike McCullough, a well-known trick rider and roper, were married in January.

Fall River Florist, which opened April 22, is located next to Plumas Bank on Main Street.

McCullough is featuring California-grown products, such as fresh roses from Watsonville and other flower varieties from growers in Santa Rosa, Petaluma, and elsewhere in Bay Area.

"I get fresh flowers each week and my flowers last," she said.

She does custom arrangements for weddings, special occasions, and funerals or will create pretty bouquets in teapots and coffee mugs.

"I'm also selling my decorative, custom-designed luminaries," she said, adding that a recent project has been to create luminaries with local cattle brand cutouts.

Delivery service is available and provided by McCullough's daughter, Mattie Burnam, 16. She also has a daughter Abbey Burnam, 18, and son Mason Burnam, 14. They each attend Fall River High School.

Daughter Katie Mahan is a freshman at American River College in Sacramento.

McCullough invites the community to come in and see her shop or call for orders at 336-6020 or toll-free at 1-888-463-6020. Visa and MasterCard accepted.

Study Backs Herb for Diabetes

CHICAGO — An ancient Indian herb promotes healthy glucose levels in diabetics, a recent clinical study suggests.

DiabetesInControl.com, a newsletter for diabetes health professionals published the report monitoring the effectiveness of Beta Fast[®] GXR[®] Glucose Balance, an herbal supplement, on 65 diabetes patients over 12-weeks.

The study showed that Beta Fast[®] reduced fasting blood sugars up to 28%. Average glyco-hemoglobin (HbA1c) declined .6 points and up to 1.1 points in poorly controlled diabetic patients. Other than weight loss, no side effects were noted with use of Beta Fast[®]. If you have diabetes, call 888-321-8522 or buy Beta Fast[®] today at these fine pharmacies:

WANTED FOR SEX HORMONE STUDY

These medications very quickly stop formation of testosterone (the male sex hormone), a change which often produces decreasing libido, impaired sexual function, fatigue, depression, and osteoporosis. Our current study examines the effect of returning these lowered testosterone levels to normal for a period of 6 months by daily application of a commercially available testosterone-containing skin patch (Andero-derm-Watson Laboratories, Inc). During the study, all examinations, blood tests, and testosterone therapy are provided to participants without charge.

Subjects must meet the following criteria:

- Ages 18-55 years
- Weight 110-240 pounds (must not be greatly obese)
- Daily pain medication consumption of at least 20 mg
- Below normal testosterone blood level (we will measure)

Men are not eligible if they have a history of malignant disease which has required chemotherapy or radiation, diabetes, testosterone deficiency due to other conditions, previously treated testosterone deficiency, recent use of certain herbs or other medications, or any of several other conditions which can be identified during screening interview, physical examination, and blood tests.
