What's Happening Locally This Week

Cattlemen's event

The Fall River-Big Valley Cattlemen's Association invites the public to take a chance at winning a new pickup. The association will be having a drawing to give away a 2003 Chevy Duramax Diesel 4x4 extended cab heavy duty 2500 pickup from Hiway Garage. Just 500 tickets will be sold at $100 each. The drawing will take place at the cattlemen's annual spring dinner Saturday. The drawing will be a reverse drawing; the winner will be the last ticket drawn and drive away in a new truck. Many other prizes will be awarded throughout the drawing. The cattlemen are a local non-profit organization dedicated to the promotion of the beef industry and agriculture. The association supports various legislation affecting the industry as well as funds a variety of ag education projects. They also award scholarships each year to students pursuing a career in agriculture. The drawing, after expenses, will provide the needed funding to continue the association's efforts in supporting a vital local industry. The public is invited to join the cattlemen for their dinner at Ingram Hall at the fairgrounds. Cost at the door is $30. For more information on the dinner, call cattlemen's executive secretary, Stacy Schneider at 336-6832. Cocktail hour begins at 6 p.m., followed by the dinner dance at 7 p.m. For more information or to purchase a pickup ticket, contact Val Lakey, coordinator, at 336-5994.

The Day Road community is scheduled to resume its monthly potluck dinners with the first one set for Sunday. Those attending are urged to bring a place setting and a potluck dish to share. A disability ramp has been installed at the north end of the building. The event begins at 6 p.m. Telephone Sandi Shafer at 336-7380 for more information.

Day residents at odds over locked gates; dispute as to what land has public access

BY MEG FOX

Locked gates have caused tempers to flare in the small community of Day.

The issue that has pitted neighbor against neighbor is over why a neighbor installed a new gate and locked another on a road that offered access to open land and Forest Service land, whether or not the gates are on private or county-owned land, whether the gates are legal, and what to do about it if they are or aren't.

The issue has made at least 200 people angry enough to sign a petition to re-open them to the public.

Day property owners Clifford and Alma Oilar say the most controversial gate is on their private road and that in these days of lawsuits, it's a liability to have the public traveling over it.

There are actually four gates blocking the public's path.

There is a new yellow gate that crosses the road at Don Barber's property, about one-quarter mile past Clifford and Alma Oilar's residence.

The gate is about 100 feet from a U.S. Forest Service boundary, another aspect of the issue that's in question, and blocks what some say is the public's historic access to the White Horse area.

There is a red gate with access to the Wiley Ranch that was first installed as a swinging stock gate in the late 1980s.

It is located about one-quarter mile off the county road on the Oilar's property.

On Nov. 19, resident Pete Lorenzen went to get his holiday tree and "the gate was locked and it's been locked ever since."

The Oilars said the No Trespassing signs and the gate have always been there, but the gate just wasn't locked.

Sometimes locals refer to the road as the old Stagecoach Road because in the 1870s a stagecoach traveled it between Yreka and Alturas.

In more recent years, people used it for access to the Wiley Ranch area and to cut about 45

SHERIFF’S LOG BOOK

Shasta County sheriff’s deputy Jason Gassaway stands with items taken following two traffic stops Thursday and Friday along Highway 299. A Thursday stop near Moose Camp led to the arrest of two woman, including one for the alleged possession of a loaded firearm (shown). On Friday, Gassaway made a traffic stop near Big Bend Road and arrested a man who had two outstanding warrants for methamphetamine sales. Also found, Gassaway said, were about $900 worth of crack, digital scales, and drug paraphernalia.

ing on March 10 they had seen Conely buy a can of Coke and a can of beer before returning to his room. Police called housekeeping to open the tourist’s room, but didn’t find any evidence of a struggle or foul play. They did find a large knife on one of the side tables and determined it was the same one Conely had used to slash his wrists, the article read. Police surmised that the American was suffering from personal problems and had decided to end his life in Pattaya, Chatree wrote. Conely placed advertising with The Intermountain News on Feb. 28 and was described by employees there as being “very clean cut, friendly, very nice.” Ron Gray, owner of the Potluck Trading Post in Burney, said he hired Conely to do his bookkeeping and loaned him $1,500. When he hadn’t heard from Conely after a few days in early March, Gray met Conely’s landlord who said he found a note on the trailer door, “Gone to Reno.” Deputies continued look-

The Explorer was reportedly found in Sacramento. Conely had told people in Burney about having connections in Thailand, claiming he did tax audits for the government. He had also reportedly confessed about being afraid to be on his own in business. Conely also indicated he had been married three times, but because of his work, was not home much.

Hanna family donates $20,000 to local hospice

Before the Joe Cummings Band had even begun to play at the annual Intermountain Hospice fundraiser dinner, Dr. Chris Camarata had received a single check that met the goal set for the evening.

The Hanna Family donated $20,000 to Intermountain Hospice.

"In my personal experience, I have not seen anyone who has been so generous in his support and who supports so many causes," said Dr. Camarata, the physician for Intermountain Hospice.

The late Bill Hanna, the cartoonist who created The Flintstones, Scooby-Doo, and other characters with Joseph Barbera, owned a home in Glenburn at the time of his death and was a patient with Intermountain Hospice.

Because of the care Hanna received, his wife Violet, his son Dave and Dave's wife Virginia, who also have a part-time residence in the Fall River Valley, have always been very supportive of Intermountain Hospice, Camarata said.

"Dave and Virginia have donated very generously to the hospice program for the past three years," he said.

Because the night of the Intermountain Hospice Dinner and Dance, March 22, was the anniversary of Bill Hanna's death, his family decided to meet the evening's goal.

Camarata said another guest that night, the father of a young man who had been in hospice care, personally thanked Dave and Virginia Hanna at the dinner.

"He told them he could not have gotten through his son's death without hospice."

Event coordinator Irene May and Linda Brotherton, coordinating manager of Intermountain Hospice, were not available at press time. However, it is estimated that Intermountain Hospice raised about $30,000 total.

Camarata said the organization's biggest expense is for prescriptions and that the Hanna donation would cover that.

More than 200 people attended the dinner dance catered by Chef Paul Volutura and served by area 4-H members.

One of the highlights of the tax law signed in August, 1997, was a significant capital gains tax cut which has allowed American taxpayers to unlock equities and end the spiraling cycle of 'investing up'. First-time buyers have also seen expanded rules for Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) and 401(k) plans, allowing penalty-free withdrawals to purchase a home. Every two years, married sellers of principal residences who file joint federal income tax returns have been allowed a $500,000 exclusion ($250,000 for singles) from capital gains tax and those that have had to pay have paid at a tax rate of 20 percent compared to the previous 28 percent. Depreciation recapture had been 25 percent for sales or exchanges and for qualified homes purchased after December. By the time we reach 2009 the scheduled increases will reach 3.5 million. These tax breaks enable homeowners to consider several options. Many people find themselves at an empty-nester stage (no children at home) in a four or five bedroom home with a large equity. For many of these people, their home has been their major investment and this tax law allows them to unlock the equity. They may help their children buy a first home, purchase that vacation dream-home or make other investments for retirement. Consult your tax advisor for your particular circumstance. Top citizen's enthusiasm hard to resist

BY MEG FOX

Suzanne Kane's enthusiasm is hard to resist.

She's an involved volunteer and has a knack for getting others to join her.

Following her lead, people realized they didn't have to be a horticulturist to join the garden club or a nurse to help Intermountain Hospice.

This spirit and her dedication to so many community projects are part of the reason she was honored March 19 as the Fall River Valley's 2002 Citizen of the Year.

"I see you in the hospital and I appreciate what you do. I see the spirit in the eyes of the residents and that caring that you bring is reflected in their eyes," said Jim Washem, director of human resources at Mayers Memorial Hospital.

Washem was referring to some of the projects she's initiated to enhance the lives of the long term care, Alzheimer's, and terminally ill patients and her regular involvement with them.

"For them I say thank you," Washem continued during a dinner at the Pit River Lodge honoring her and the 15 other community members nominated for the award.

"She has a great passion for helping people and I feel very fortunate to know her," said Phyllis Funk, a friend who met Suzanne through their shared interest in helping young women as members of the American Association of University Women. "She tends to rub off on those lucky enough to be around her."

"She is a take charge lady and a dynamo of activity," said Nancy Weaver, treasurer of the Fall River Chamber.

"She is a very noble and a very humble lady who is respected and loved by many," said Barbara Hartley, president of the Wayside Garden Club, in which Suzanne is an active member.

Hartley praised both Suzanne and her husband Phil Kane. "Thank you both from the bottom of our hearts. Thank you for being who you are."

Those who didn't speak were the hundreds of dogs that the Kane's have rescued and cared for, including the nine living with them now.

The Kane's moved to Cassel in 1998, leaving HART, a sanctuary for at-risk canines that they founded and ran for 15 years on their avocado ranch in Fillmore.

They also published, Muttmachers Messenger, a canine rescue newspaper with a circulation of 300,000.

They both have degrees in geology, which is how Suzanne met her husband Phil Kane, a geologist, author, and retired professor who studied the geology of Lassen Volcanic National Park.

Suzanne also has degrees in psychology and sociology and has been a parole agent in Watts and a supervisor of a water resources department in Ventura County.

They came here to retire, but within days Suzanne was in the middle of community programs that could use a little help.

She joined the Wayside Garden Club and at first needed them more than they needed her.

"I walked in and they scooped me up and it was all right that I knew nothing about gardening," Suzanne said. "They are why Fall River is a beautiful community."

She participates in the annual luncheon Wayside Garden Club puts on for about 80 elderly shut-ins in the community.

She helped organize programs to bring fresh flowers to patients and persuaded people to build bird feeders to hang outside the patients' windows.

She established Intermountain Pet Therapy, a group of local pet owners, including Carol Moyer and Pat Pope, who take their dogs along on their weekly visits to residents at Mayers and the Annex.

She initiated Santa Paws and this past holiday she and other members delivered 51 baskets of gifts for pets of people in need in the area.

She and her friend Joyce On run the bingo games and bring in the prizes for patients at the Annex.

She started a hiking group in AAUW and later established a separate Over the Hill group for any community members 60 and older.

If she's not starting something, she's often among the first to give it a try.

She recently agreed to join Carol Moyer's new AAUW group of amateur singers who are performing for patients at the hospital and Annex.

And she is about to get involved with Phyllis Funk and others in an AAUW mentoring program for young women.

She and Phil are committed volunteers in Intermountain Hospice.

A member of the Mayers Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, she praised the group that works 10,000 volunteer hours a year and encouraged the Chamber members and guests to vote for the property tax that will keep the hospital open.

This year Shasta County Supervisor Glenn Hawes appointed her to serve as a representative on the county's Commission on Aging, another cause she has actively embraced.

She brought the other commissioners to the Intermountain area, a first for many of them, and is working on improving local housing for seniors.

"This valley has embraced us both," she said in accepting the award. "We love it and it's my joy and privilege to do this work."

Chamber President Shirley French and Diane Powell also honored the other award nominees: Hart Beebee, Russ Buhay, Terry Briggs, Susan David, Lane & Shirley French, Barbara Hartley, Craig Klatt, Dick Nemanic, Todd & Elizabeth Reynolds, Rose Schneider, Randy Scholl, and Ken & Linda Yarbrough.

Celebrity Fun Run scheduled for April 4

Burney Elementary School PTA is having a Celebrity Fun Run April 4 in conjunction with their annual Jog-A-Thon for students.

The Jog-A-Thon students help raise money for PTA through pledges made for the number of laps they run during the morning event.

The top three fundraisers will receive Burney Raider Wear with a first prize sweatshirt, second prize T-shirt, and third prize gloves, according to BES PTA President Jenny Arseneau.

The "celebrities" also received pledges for their 2 p.m. event.

Running for the children on the special celebrity course will be Burney Elementary School Principal Dianna Fischer, and Supt. Eric Newton and Chief Business Official Roger Borkey, representing the Fall River Joint Unified School Districting.

Also taking to the turf will be Bob Moore, manager of Round Table Pizza, Donna Sylvester, owner of Mt. Burney Theatre, and Burney High School track coach Bill Hawes.

Hawes and Roxanne Martin are running as representatives for Safeway Stores.

High school track stars Jennifer Wall and Eric Frazier, who both have younger siblings at Burney Elementary, will run, along with Burney High School student Chris Prigmore.

The Shasta County Sheriff's Office, U.S. Bank, Mountain Valleys Health Center, and Burney Rotary were also invited to send a jogging representative to show support for the students.

Burney High School seniors Lindsay Courtright and Dawn Garcia coordinated the event for their senior project.

Correction

In a March 12 photograph in The News, Brown Bag Program coordinator Wanda Louise Baker, of Burney, was incorrectly identified as Wanda Louise Barger, of Old Station, who was quoted in the article.

Wanda Baker has been a volunteer with the program for almost two years. She coordinates the other volunteers, records their time cards, handles new applications and sign-ins, and does the annual re-enrollment.

Wanda Barger and her husband Clarence are 28-year volunteers with the program.

Funding for the no-cost nutrition program for low-income seniors could be cut from the state budget April 1.

Let's Celebrate Women's History Month

Women Pilots

The Wright brothers flew the first powered, manned and controllable aircraft in the world in 1903. In 1908, Therese Peltier of France became the first woman to fly solo in an aircraft.

At first, there were not many airports. Many pilots, a few women among them, were barnstormers who flew in the open country near farms. They would land near barns and offer rides to paying passengers.

For a long time, men thought that women did not have the physical ability to fly or make decisions. But between World War I and World War II, women began to fly in many airshows and races.

During World War II, women were not allowed to fly in the military. But some did "ferry," or fly, aircraft to military bases around the United States.

Women demanded equal rights in the 1960s, and more of them began to fly.

Today there are many careers available for women in aviation and aerospace. Many women are in cockpits flying for commercial airlines. Women fly military planes. Women are astronauts. Women hold many jobs throughout commercial and general aviation.

A few famous female fliers

Harriet Quimby (1875-1912) was the first licensed female pilot in the country. She was the first woman to fly across the English Channel. She was also a photographer and reporter.

Bessie Coleman (1893-1926) was the first licensed African-American pilot in the U.S., but she had to go to France to earn the license. She came back to the U.S. and took up stunt flying to earn money to open her own flight school.

Faye Gillis Wells (1908-2002) was the first woman to become a member of the Caterpillar Club for fliers who had parachuted out of a disabled airplane. She was also one of the first members of the Ninety-Nines Inc., a group of 99 women aviators who encouraged women to become active in aviation. Today, the group has more than 6,500 members worldwide.

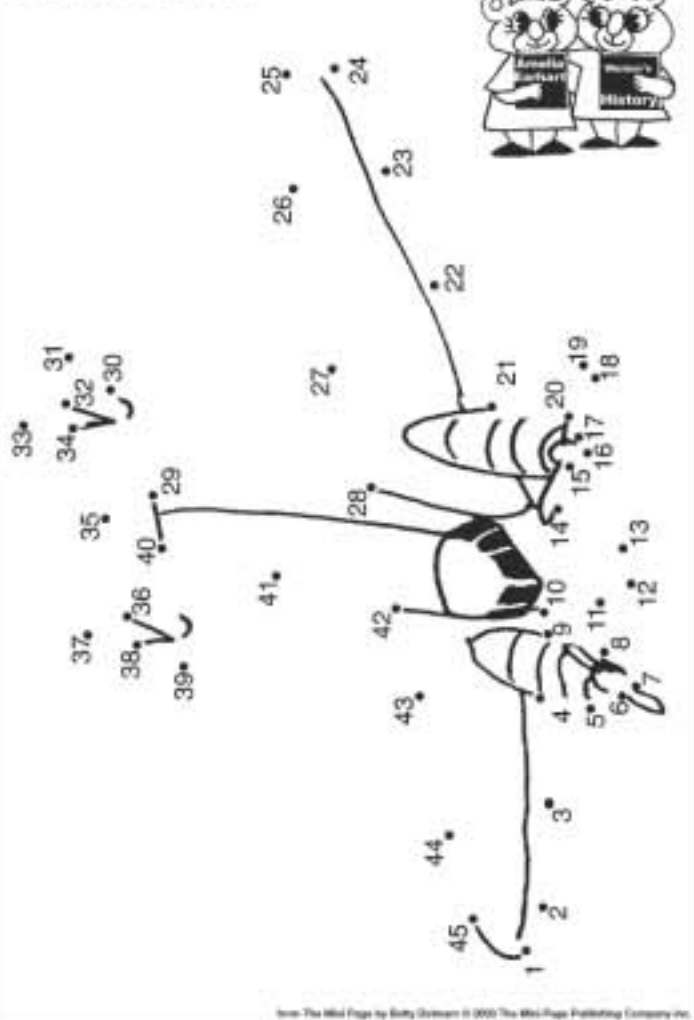

Amelia Earhart

(1897-1937) was the first woman passenger to fly across the Atlantic Ocean. In 1932, she became the first woman to pilot a plane across the Atlantic solo. She also was the first person to fly solo from Hawaii to California. She is our most famous female aviator. Her plane disappeared on July 2, 1937, while she was attempting to be the first to fly around the world.

Serena Williams is part of one of the most famous "sister acts" in sports. She ranks No. 1 in the world in women's singles, and her older sister, Venus, is No. 2. Both are outstanding athletes.

Serena has won 13 Grand Slam titles: five singles, six doubles and two mixed doubles. She has teamed up with her sister to win three Grand Slam doubles crowns. Each sister also has captured an Olympic gold medal.

The sisters learned to play before they were in the first grade. Their father, Richard, taught them and coached them. Serena and Venus have competed against each other several times. Each tries hard to win. They are good sports and the best of friends.

In addition to tennis, Serena enjoys reading and acting. She also has her own clothing line. And like her sister, she serves the community by appearing at schools and helping with charity events.

Meet Kelly Clarkson

Kelly Clarkson was born on April 24, 1982, in Burleson, Texas. She wanted to be a marine biologist as a child, but changed her mind after seeing the movie "Jaws." Her interest in singing began in seventh grade when the choral director heard her singing in the hallway and asked her to join the school choir.

After finishing school, she moved to Los Angeles and got a job as an extra on the show "Sabrina the Teenage Witch."

Kelly is best known for winning the title of "American Idol," beating out 10,000 other contestants who tried out for the TV show. Her prize was a million-dollar record deal, national fame, and a movie contract with the runner-up, Justin Guarini.

Her first single, "A Moment Like This," broke a record, going from No. 52 to No. 1 in one week on the Billboard charts.

Day residents at odds over area’s locked gates miles off a trip to Medicine Lake, according to Lorenzen.

Lorenzen, whose family bought a homestead in Day in 1883, said he’s been driving over both roads for more than 50 years to hunt, fish, collect firewood, admire the scenery, and cut his family’s annual Christmas tree.

“Everybody has,” he said. Lorenzen said the road over the hill to White Horse also has a gate at the bottom and at the top with signs advising vehicles to turn around because locked gates are ahead.

“The only thing they’re blocking out is our public land,” Lorenzen said.

“You can’t go up and you can’t go down and they’re blocking Forest Service ground.”

Lorenzen said he went to talk to Hat Creek District Ranger Deb Romberger about the problem in September, but that nothing was done.

“I blame her for not having the guts to open the gates,” he said.

Lorenzen’s home is also on the Day Road (Modoc County Road 272), where the paved portion ends and is cindered as it winds back to the Oilar and Barber properties and a gate.

On the other side of the gate is Lassen National Forest land, more Oilar land, and land owned by Sierra-Pacific Industries.

About the yellow gate, Don Barber said his neighbor Clifford Oilar and Sierra Pacific Industries “were having trouble with people going up the road and rustling cows and they decided to put a gate in.”

“I said they could put it at my property. I didn’t care. It was as a convenience and that’s the way it is and Cliff has the right to close it.”

Alma Oilar said the gate issue “has escalated.”

She said they had to put a lock on the gate.

There is their liability issue and “people were shooting at the buildings in White Horse and dumping garbage and making ruts in the road. There were so many things,” she said.

“We have No Trespassing signs, but no one acknowledged them. There are so many new people living here now. It’s a mess.”

Perhaps what bothered her most is that people driving by killed two of her dogs in one day. “They never even stopped,” she said.

Lorenzen argued that he lives on Day Road, too, “and people have to go by my house before they get to theirs and I’m not seeing that.

“There are a few who come in the fall and stop and look at the deer, so I don’t know where that (idea is) coming from.”

Lorenzen said, “the gate was put there for spite.”

As for the stagecoach road, Alma said, “It’s below us and the deed to the land we bought says no access.”

According to her, the locked gate became an issue after it was vandalized by two residents of Day.

“They welded the gate open during fire season. We could smell the smoke. Then they did it again, even after the Sheriff’s Department had been notified.”

Pete Lorenzen admits to being one of them.

“They had me arrested for going through the gate. I used a bolt cutter because (the public) has a prescriptive right. A lot have cut it, but I’m the one who got caught. The gate has been open all these years and should be open to anyone.”

Lorenzen, who said “there’s no love lost” between him and the Oilars, said the issue didn’t start with his arrest, but when Sierra-Pacific was fined for damaging the road in 2000 when S-P began a commercial hauling operation.

That’s also when the Forest Service became involved.

The Lassen National Forest went to the area to cite S-P for unauthorized use “and found a road had been reconstructed on Forest Service land,” said Jan Sorochtey, lands officer for the Lassen National Forest, Hat Creek Ranger District.

“Cultural sites and archeological sites had been damaged and the road had created an erosion control problem,” she said.

Sorochtey has at times been the acting district ranger in the absence of District Ranger

Deb Romberger and she had the title on several occasions concerning the Day Road gate issue.

Further complicating the issue is that she was the acting district ranger when she and Cliff Harvey attended a meeting at their neighbor Pete Lorenzen’s house March 16 along with about 32 other people.

Their home is between the Lorenzens and the gate.

In an article about the meeting and the issue, journalist Abigail Howard, who is Lorenzen’s granddaughter, quoted Harvey as saying that a small group of people are involved in a “land grab.”

The article was published in the Modoc Record and the Mountain Echo.

Alma Oilar asked why she was not informed about the Lorenzen meeting. She asked if it was a public meeting and wondered if Sorochtey’s being there wasn’t a conflict of interest.

Sorochtey said Lorenzen’s meeting was not a public meeting, but that she had been invited, declined, and was then assigned to go as acting district ranger.

She said she is maintaining her role as a representative of the forest service and not as a private citizen.

“I’ve been extremely careful not to get involved at a personal level or to voice my personal opinions,” she said. “It’s very unfortunate that I’m in the middle and it confuses the official issues.”

The mission of the F.S. is to “maintain public access to public lands,” she said.

As Lands Officer, she said the lands at issue are “administered by the Lassen National Forest and the historic use is well-established.

“Long term residents of the area feel they have used the roads openly and freely for decades and they’re distressed by the unilateral blocking.

“The Forest Service gets involved when public access is unilaterally blocked off.”

Alma Oilar said it’s not true that access is blocked.

“There are other access roads,” she said.

Lorenzen agreed, but said what was once a 38-mile drive to Medicine Lake is now 82 miles and many more if he takes Highway 89 to get there.

“To go from my house to Wiley Ranch is seven miles. To go around is 47 miles. To go to White Horse is three and half miles over the hill. To get there now I have to drive to Lookout, back to 93 and to the old town of White Horse is about 40 miles.”

Modoc County Supervisor Dave Bradshaw was invited to the Lorenzen meeting, but was unable to go and was not available for comment at press time.

Lassen County Supervisor Brian Dahle said that while it’s not his district, he went out of interest and because “some of my constituents use that road.”

Dahle said he recommended that Modoc County look into the matter and probably also an attorney.

“Every case is always different and I have no insights, but I would venture to say that Modoc and Lassen seem to be pro-private property rights,” Dahle said.

Sorochtey said the F.S. has a 1997 Modoc County resolution that formally includes the length of the county road to a property line between the Oilars’ and the Barbers’ property.

Another glitch and perhaps an issue for debate is determining the point where the Modoc County Road actually does come to an end.

An interested resident who asked not to be named said that at one time, after the boundaries were established, the road was changed and straightened out so that there is now a discrepancy.

Sorochtey said that this two-tenths of a mile difference is where the road passes through the Barber property.

“And that’s where the gate was placed,” she said.

At her request and on the advice of their attorney, the F.S. gave the Oilars a copy of this county resolution.

“We also explained that we did have an obligation to restore access to public lands and that we wanted to sit down with all involved and work out a solution that was equitable to everyone, Sorochtey said.

“Essentially, that’s the last time I heard from the Oilars.”

She said her office sent a letter Feb. 6 to the Modoc County Board of Supervisors, signed by Acting District Ranger John Stauffer, requesting a meeting with “all the players.”

At about the same time, the Modoc County District Attorney’s office wanted clarification on the lands involved in Pete Lorenzen’s case and Sorochtey, as acting district ranger, signed the letter, described as a condensed version of the board of supervisors’ letter.

Sorochtey said the meetings she believes could help resolve the issue haven’t happened.

“It seems some parties are willing to sit down and discuss a solution and others aren’t.”

Alma Oilar said the F.S. “did not make an attempt to contact all the parties involved so things could be worked out.”

Sorochtey said the F.S. is still trying to arrange a meeting that also includes the Modoc County supervisors

Lorenzen said he had the meeting at his house because he wanted something done and, felt the F.S. was “stalling.”

“No one else was taking the bull by the horns,” he said.

The citizens group has scheduled another meeting Sunday at 2 p.m.

To the Citizens of Shasta County:

I have been selected by President Bush to become the United States Attorney for the Eastern District of California. I am honored and humbled that I have been asked to take on this important job at this crucial time in our nation's history.

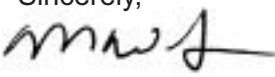

Assumption of that position, however, requires me to relinquish my position here as your District Attorney and I do so with a heavy heart. During our nearly six years in Shasta County, Jennifer and I have made many good friends, we have made a home here, and our sons were born here. It is not easy for us to leave Shasta County. It is only my sense of patriotism and duty that has led me to answer our President's call.

I will always be grateful to the members of the Board of Supervisors who gave me the opportunity to take on the duties of District Attorney here nearly six years ago. I take pride that the office I hand back to the Board is a professional operation composed of a talented, hard working staff of lawyers and support staff. The Shasta County District Attorney's Office is highly respected around the state and is the unquestioned leader here in the North State among prosecutors' offices.

Much has occurred during my watch. We have brought many new programs and resources to Shasta County. The Shasta County Meth Task Force, the Drug Endangered Children Program, an Elder Abuse prosecution unit, the California Methamphetamine Enforcement Team, the stationing of two DEA Agents in Redding, a Consumer Protection Unit, and the Hi-Tech Crimes Task Force are several of the programs we have brought to Shasta County at no expense to the county general fund. We have prosecuted several significant cases as well. We sent two men to prison for defrauding the taxpayers in operating a group home, the first prosecution of its nature in the state. We sought and obtained the death penalty for the murder of a 98-year-old woman, for the murder of an 8-1/2 month pregnant woman, and for the brutal torture murder of a young woman. We oversaw the carrying out of the death sentence against Darryl Rich for his horrendous series of murders and rapes in Shasta County in the late '70s. We saw that justice was done for the memories of Gary Matson and Winfield Mowder.

The credit for whatever success we have enjoyed belongs to the staff at the District Attorney's Office, the men and women of the law enforcement agencies with which we work, the support of the Board of Supervisors, and most importantly, the support of the community. We have all worked together during the past six years to make Shasta County a better and safer place to live, work, and raise families. It has been my great honor to have served as your District Attorney.

Best wishes to all members of the Shasta County family.

Sincerely,

McGregor W. Scott
District Attorney

Resident forming club on astronomy

BY MEG FOX

Jim Ghiringhelli is excited about views – those in the night sky magnified through his telescope lens and those he photographs through his camera lens.

He moved to Burney about five months ago from St. Helena and can't get over all the incredible views.

"This place is a treasure," he said. "The night sky is just beautiful up here. You can see it all – star clusters, Nebulas, planets, galaxies."

And then there's Burney Falls and the autumn colors at Hat Creek and a lovely pond in Cassel.

He is photographing the area and eventually wants to open a business, but for now is selling some of his framed prints at The American Store in Burney.

He's also organizing an astronomy club for others who share his passion or would like to learn more.

Ghiringhelli first became interested in astronomy when he decided to build a telescope with his daughter and they joined the Sonoma County Astronomical Society.

"It was really a fun thing and it helps kids out and provides an interesting experience for them," he said. "There's science out there and it's really interesting."

His daughter has long since taken off with their telescope and Ghiringhelli, who was on his way to Boise to buy a house when he discovered Burney, has decided to stay and look around.

The beauty of the area re-ignited his interest in photography.

"I'd done it years ago and then I started kayaking about five years ago and it brought me back into nature again. It got me started looking at landscapes again."

He recently purchased a digital camera and has been taking a lot of photos.

"Things are so beautiful here. I'm really excited about it."

His astronomy club, which already boasts three members, is for anyone, from novice to expert, adult or child. You can bring your own telescope or he will provide one.

"I have extras," he said.

He still builds his own telescopes - even grinds and polishes the glass - and would like to help young people learn to do it, too.

He plans to have star parties and meetings that feature guest speakers. There will also be tinkering, talk, and some astrophotography.

For more information about meeting times and locations, call Jim 335-5179.

Tony Mazzini and Mikeal Scheller, both 10, are the Burney Elementary School PTA Volunteers of the Month for February.

Two 10-year-olds selected as PTA volunteers of month

BY MEG FOX

Tony Mazzini and Mikeal Scheller are best friends and they work well together.

They do such good work together that Burney Elementary School PTA selected the two 10-year-olds for the honor of PTA Volunteers of the Month for February.

Tony's mother, Shari Mazzini is PTA treasurer and is in charge of the school's Boxtops for Education and Campbell's Labels programs.

The box tops are turned in for cash and help raise money for classroom and playground supplies.

"I've been helping her since last year," said Tony, who visits each classroom twice a month to collect the donated box tops and labels.

Then Mikeal got interested.

"I come over to his house and we sort them," he said.

So far, they've raised $45.

The program continues through the school year.

The PTA decided last month to host an ice cream party for the class that collects the most labels and box tops.

"So now the boys have even more to do keeping track of that," Shari said.

The school is collecting boxtops from the following brands: Betty Crocker, Bisco, General Mills cereals, Gold Medal, Hungry Jack, Hamburger, Chicken and Tuna Helpers, Old El Paso, Pillsbury, Progresso, Totino's pizza and Yoplait.

The Campbell products include all the soups and tomato and V-8 juice.

Also Franco-American, Pace jar lids, Pepperidge Farm with the UPC code visible, Prego, and Swanson broths.

Tony is the son of Mike and Shari Mazzini and is a fifth grade student in Ellen Sugg-Forbis's class.

Mikeal, the son of Denise Scheller, is in Sarah Bidwell's fourth grade class.

When they're not volunteering for their school, Mikeal and Tony like to snowboard, play football, and ride go-carts.

Anyone interested in helping can send their labels with a child to school, drop them at the school office, or leave them at a collection site at U.S. Bank in Burney.

Burney Basin Days sending letters asking for $8,000 in donations

BY MEG FOX

The organizers of Burney Basin Days need to come up with $8,000 if the July 4 celebration is going to happen.

Burney Rotary helped the planners get over one big hurdle by agreeing earlier this month to provide liability coverage for the next five years and to serve as treasurer.

"Rotary agreed to sponsor Burney Basin Days because this is an important event for this town," said Rotary President Lynn Miller.

Miller has agreed to help coordinate the three-day event with Burney Fire Chief Bob May and their next plan is to try and bring in donations.

Before deciding to go forward, Miller surveyed local businesses who said that the event is a boost to the local economy and worth keeping.

Now the Burney Chamber of Commerce is turning to the community, as well as those businesses, for the financial support needed to put on Burney Basin Days and is sending out letters to every mail recipient requesting a donation.

"The business community can not be expected to support every financial need of this community, year after year," Miller said. "We're going to need other donations to help continue this event or it won't continue to happen. If we don't raise the money, this will be the last year."

Miller said the event costs about $20,000 total for aspects such as overnight security, trash cleanup and dumpster rentals, janitorial services from the school district, trophies for various events, a DJ for the queen pageant, and entertainment prior to the gala fireworks.

At a cost of $10,000, the biggest expense is the fireworks. The entry ticket price "doesn't cover that cost, but we don't want to raise the admission price," Miller said.

Burney Basin Days also got a late start this year, in part because coordinators learned only this month that they would need to find another organization willing to cover the insurance liability.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, Burney Post 1021, rescued Burney Basin Days last year with insurance coverage and leadership, but couldn't take it on another year.

They did provide $4,000 from last year's proceeds.

The now defunct Burney Basin Days Committee ran the event for several years before losing its insurance coverage as a result of the accidental death of a volunteer parade worker.

They have given the new organizers $8,000 for the fireworks and promised to give them another $8,000 next year, Miller said, although it isn't clear why the former Burney Basin Days Committee is hanging on to that money.

She said that $8,000 is going towards the fireworks cost. They have dropped the plan to have a laser show for this year.

In the past, the Burney Basin Days Committee asked local businesses to support the event by buying program ads, Miller said.

"Instead of doing that, we're asking for direct donations this year."

"We're also going to look for corporate sponsors in Redding, because that is where we all shop, and for grant funding, though that's limited," Miller said.

Miller said all of the funds generated from Burney Basin Days will "go back into the pot" for next year.

"The books will be open because these are community funds and if anyone wants to look at the books, just call the chamber and ask," she said. "Every dollar will be accounted for."

Scout celebration

Members of Burney Girl Scout Troop 35 celebrated Girl Scout Week by painting windows at Burney Elementary School with colorful drawings of scouting activities. The troop also visited Turtle Bay in Redding. On March 12, 1912, 91 years ago, Juliette Gordon Low registered the first Girl Scout troop in Savannah, Ga. to "bring something special to girls."

Mayers Memorial employees basically satisfied with working conditions

BY MEG FOX

Employees of Mayers Memorial Hospital are basically satisfied with the working conditions, but have sent a message to administration that they're not thrilled with their compensation and benefits or management style, and want more opportunities for career development.

They also said they'd like some recognition for their hard work.

The information was gathered from Employee Satisfaction Surveys filled out by 186 of the hospital's 243 employees.

The survey data was prepared and reviewed by psychologists with the National Business Research Institute (NBRI).

The hospital's board of directors received a summary and brief review of the findings during their Feb. 19 meeting in Fall River Mills.

Department managers are going over the findings in greater detail with their staff, CEO Jerry Fikes said.

Fikes told the board that of the 20 topics in the survey, none scored in the range of being one of the hospital's strengths.

However, employees indicated they are satisfied with the hospital's productivity, their performance evaluations, and their working relationships.

They also gave job satisfaction, job training, and opportunities for creativity an above average score.

Also listed among the hospital's weaknesses were values, climate, and vision.

"Employees are unclear about what our vision is and the fix is to involve them and restate our vision and values and mission in a way that reflects reality for employees," Fikes said. "This would result in more investment and understanding."

Employee recognition is another area that administration can do something about, he said, "but compensation is not as easy to fix."

Commenting on employee dissatisfaction with the benefits package, Human Resources Director Jim Washam said that for three years employees paid nothing for health insurance and now it's "a big chunk" from their salaries.

Fikes said he was concerned about the employee response to a question concerning sexual harassment, because 37 percent of the respondents said it existed.

"We were confounded by the number until we talked to the CNA's who thought that some of the elderly patients made rude comments or inappropriately touched them," Fikes said.

He said those answers came from Skilled Nursing staff, many of whom are younger and inexperienced.

He believes the answers reflect objectionable behavior by some elderly patients, rather than inappropriate behavior by co-workers or upper management.

If sexual harassment existed with staff or management, "We would be seeing complaints and for the last three years there have been none."

To be sure, the hospital is giving mandatory classes on the topic, "so that there's no mistake in anyone's mind that sexual harassment is not permitted or condoned."

As to the mid-range score given to creativity, Fikes said the skilled nursing staff's score was 10 points lower.

That area of the hospital is "so highly regulated that there's not much room for creativity," Fikes said.

This year's survey was a baseline for future surveys that should give a better insight into the employees' frame of mind.

"Even though it was extremely time-consuming, I think the employees are encouraged that we're interested enough to ask the questions and go over the results," Fikes said.

Fall River girls win at Burney field, 17-4 and 13-2

BY MEG FOX

Fall River High School senior Libby DeCoito pitched her second consecutive no-hitter Friday as the Burney Raiders softball team struggled to keep up the pace, losing 17-4 in the first of two games.

Fall River Coach Rich Fuentes said both teams are young. "The difference is Libby," he said. "She's the defending MVP in the League."

She can bat, too, hitting 4-for-4 in the first game, with two doubles and four RBI's.

So far this season DeCoito is 9-for-10, with two singles, four doubles, a triple, a home run, and 11 RBI's, Fuentes said.

"She's an exceptional ball player," he said.

Burney quickly learned to walk DeCoito.

In the first game, with the bases loaded, DeCoito hit and while Burney's outfield brought the ball in, Fall River sophomore Elena Lewis, freshman Maggie DeCoito, and senior Sharlotte Jensen ran over home plate.

In the second game, "Burney walked Libby purposely three times to put her on base. Those were her fifth intentional walks of the season," Fuentes said.

Fall River won their second game, 13-2, with freshman Shawna Truan on the mound, striking out 10 Burney players. She gave up three hits and walked four.

"She had a really killer low pitch," said Burney Coach Dave Spencer. "We just weren't prepared."

Burney's Kristen Churney took the loss in the second game. In the second game, Burney players Amy Spencer, Rocksann Barba, Jessica Van Laak and Kristen Churney were each 1-for-3.

Fall River's Shawna Truan (4) slides safely into home plate as Burney pitcher Kristen Churney grabs for the throw in contest Friday at the Raider field. The lady Bulldogs won both games in the double-header.

the first game were Leslie Taylor, 2-for-3 with three runs scored and Nikki Looper batting 2-for-3 with two RBI's.

In Game Two, Fall River's Whitney Roysse was 4-for-5 with three RBI's, Maggie DeCoito was 2-for-5 and Nikki Looper hit a triple.

Burney girls defeat Bishop Quinn, 17-4 and 15-1

Burney's softball team came home victorious from play at Bishop Quinn March 18, winning their first game 17-4, and their second, 15-1.

Natalie Bartell pitched the first five-inning game, striking out six players. She gave up five hits and walked four.

Rocksann Barba batted 2-for-3; Tosha Beck was 2-for-2, and Kristen Churney was 2-for-3.

In the second game, freshman Anika Kierce took the mound and pitched a one-hit game. She struck out five players and gave up four walks.

"She has an extremely natural motion and I think will be one of the next big things," said Coach Dave Spencer.

In the second game, Amy Spencer was 2-for-2 and Kierce batted 3-for-4 with four RBI's.

"Anika really stood up in that game," said Spencer.

Fall River boys beat Burney 6-2 and 11-4.

With Fall River's baseball team ahead 2-0 in the fifth inning, the Burney Raiders tied it, but the good feeling was short-lived.

"We closed the deal in the seventh with four runs," said Fall River Coach Steve Hubauer.

Final score, 6-2.

Fall River's winning pitcher, junior Jeff Smith, had 12 strikeouts. He gave up five hits and one walk. Hubauer said.

Burney's pitcher Chris Angel had 17 strikeouts in the first game.

"Someone with 17 strikeouts should win," said Burney Coach Barry Powell.

"But we had a hard time playing catch that day and had some crucial throwing errors.

"There were a lot of past balls," Powell said. "In fact three of (Fall River's) six runs were past balls."

Powell's stats show Burney had 11 strikeouts off Fall River's Smith and eight hits.

Batting for Burney Robert Evans was 2-for-4, Ryan Means was 2-for-3, and Michael Bushey was 2-for-4 with a double and an RBI.

At bat for Fall River in Game One, Smith and Brian Barnett each had one hit with an RBI. Pat Williams hit a triple and Alfred Olvera was 1-for-2 with an RBI.

"We do pretty good on the mound," Hubauer said, describing their now 6-0 season.

Fall River also won Game Two with junior Pat Williams on the mound.

Williams struck Burney out 11 times. He allowed one walk and six hits.

Williams batted 3-for-4 with three RBI's. Fall River's Larry Holscher was 2-for-4 with an RBI and Carson Hubauer was 2-for-4.

"This was another situation where we were ahead, 5 to 1, until the third inning when Burney scored two runs and brought the score to 5-3.

"The sixth inning stretched 6 to 3," Hubauer said. "Then Burney came back and scored one run in the sixth to make it 6-4."

Fall River struck gold in the seventh, scoring five runs to win, 11-4.

"At one point we had six runners in a scoring position with less than one out, but we couldn't get them home. That's not good," Powell said about Burney's second game.

Hubauer gave credit to his hitters. "They're patient. We see the pitches and as we get deeper and deeper into the games, they get better."

Tyler Harris pitched Burney's second game and had 12 strikeouts.

At bat, Chris Angel was 2-for-3 with a double, a triple, and two RBIs.

Robert Evans was 2-for-3 with a double. Freshmen Cory Drenon and Kevin Sutherland also batted 2-for-3.

Fall River linkster Beck takes title at first tournament

The Fall River Bulldogs' golf team placed second in their first league match of the season.

Brandon Beck shot 39 in his second nine holes to capture individual First Place of all players for the day.

Beck led fellow players Jake Massa, Caleb Shuler, Max Scott and Jake Shuler in a narrow loss to Bishop Quinn High School at the Palo Cedro Golf Course.

"All of the players did well in their first match of this season," said Fall River Golf Coach Gregory Beck.

BURNLEY GOLFERS

Burney High School's golf team played its second match of the season March 20 at Trinity Alps Golf Course in Weaverville.

Sophomore Jeremy Babajan again played the best round, carding an 85.

"My putting and chipping have been saving me," he said. "I got into some trouble off the tee, but I am getting better around the greens."

Senior Chris Prigmore recorded the second best at 87.

"The iron play was pretty good today. I almost made a hole-in-one on a short par three. Just a few inches from the hole and I made the birdie putt," Prigmore said.

The young Burney Golf Team was unable to defeat any of the other teams from Bishop Quinn, Modoc, Mt. Shasta and Trinity high schools.

Coach Fred Gideon had praise for his players. "All of them improved a great deal over our first match at Palo Cedro Golf Course last week.

"Both courses are relatively short nine-hole venues and the team improved by 79 strokes this week."

Michael Bushey improved by 20 and Chris Prigmore improved by 30, Gideon said. "I hope they continue to improve that much."

The next match is set for Thursday at the Lake Shastina Golf Course near Weed when Burney will face the golf teams from Bishop Quinn, Etna, and Weed high schools.

Bidwell captures 7th in girls cutting multi-district meet

Blair Bidwell of Hat Creek scored 133 points to land in a three-way tie for seventh place in the girls cutting event at the California High School Rodeo Multi-District Competition.

A total of 175 high school rodeo contestants from five high school rodeo districts competed during this week-end event March 1 and 2 at the Tehama District Fairgrounds in Red Bluff.

Fall River High School is in District 1.

Bidwell, 16, and a sophomore at Fall River High School, was one of 26 riders who entered the cutting event. Jenna Ferguson of Cottonwood won the event with 144 points.

Bidwell was one of 44 competitors in goat tying and took seventh place with a time of 21.91.

The winner in that event, Shannon Pile of District 5, won by finishing with a time of 18.54.

Bidwell, along with Chad Bidwell of Hat Creek, and Jackie McArthur of McArthur, qualified after previous District 1 rodeos to compete in the Challenge of Champions.

The Challenge takes place this weekend, March 21-23, at the Amador County Fairgrounds in Plymouth.

Colin Corr named MVP for F.R. boys varsity

BY KEEGAN MOYER

Fall River High School basketball player Colin Corr was named MVP for the Boys Varsity team during the school's annual Basketball and Cheerleading awards ceremony March 11.

Abby McArthur received the Girls Varsity award for Outstanding Offensive Player, while Brittany Shelton received the Defensive Award.

Shawna Truan received MVP for the Girls JV team and Blake Connors was named JV Boys MVP.

Fall River's JV Girls coach Tim DeCoito presented the awards to his successful squad.

Maggie DeCoito received the Defensive Award; Leslie

Taylor received the Coaches Award, and Brittany Wagner grabbed the Most Improved Player Award.

JV Boys Coach Scott Gallion mentioned the team's 7-5 league record before moving on to the awards.

Keegan Moyer was the team's Most Improved Player with the Coaches Award going to Robbie Adams.

Varsity Girls Coach Kathy Jones handed out the Most Inspirational Award to senior Deanna Senko, who missed much of the season due to a severe knee injury. Libby DeCoito received the Coaches Award.

Summing up the award ceremony, Varsity Boys coach Greg Hawkins commented on his team's "terrific effort" throughout the season.

Brandon Beck received the Most Improved Player Award for the Varsity team, while Alfred Olvera accepted the Coaches Award.

The spirited FRHS cheerleaders were honored by their coach Debbie Marcum, with a special mention going to the squad's two senior cheerleaders, Siara Shelton and Jessica Stroud.

Both Varsity teams look to return to or extend their stint in the playoffs next year with some of the areas best JV's moving up to join some experienced returning players. This should make for an electrifying and gripping 2003-2004 FRHS Basketball season.

Upscale fish will soon be on display

In just a few weeks, the Intermountain area's Upscale Fish will be on display again to promote the community and local businesses through tourist season.

Sherrie Quinlan, executive director of the Burney Chamber of Commerce, said the pre-cut wooden fish have arrived and there's still time to sponsor and decorate one.

So far, Quinlan has renewed more than 50 fish sponsors and taken 15 new orders, including many from the Fall River Valley.

The fun of fish ownership is open to anyone at $50 for a six-foot fish and $35 for a three-foot fish.

Renewals are $15. Former fish owners can display the same fish as last year or create a new design.
