Dress code draws ire of Old Station father

BY MEG FOX

An Old Station father doesn't relish his teenage son's clothing choices, but he also acknowledges that it's his child's right to wear skater fashions that include decorative chains and thinks Fall River High School should, too.

Jim Cimaglia said that his 17-year-old son, James, was suspended Oct. 14 for violating the district dress code.

In a Dec. 31 letter to School Board President Teri Vigil, Cimaglia argued that in making that decision

Fall River High School Principal Liz Kyle and Vice-Principal Greg Hawkins had "exceeded their authority in demanding that our son alter his manner of dress."

Cimaglia said his son wears jeans with a chain attached to a wallet and also a longer chain, which he described as "ornamental jewelry," that hangs from his son's waist to above his knee.

"It's a fad. It does no harm," said Cimaglia, adding that what he said administrators feared was gang apparel could be purchased at Wal-Mart, K-Mart, JC Penney and Sears stores.

Fall River High School reportedly asked James to keep the longer chain in his pocket and his father said his son forgot one day while walking to the school bus, an action deemed as defiant.

Cimaglia, who is retired after 14 years as the director of guest relations with the Monterey Bay Aquarium, and his wife Cathy, who served on the governing board of the Soledad Unified School District, moved to the area about two years ago.

"When we enrolled James (at Fall River High School) in his junior year we asked Mr. Hawkins about the way James likes to dress and Mr. Hawkins said that (wearing pants with costume jewelry chains) was city wear, but that it should be alright."

"We had verbal permission, but somewhere along the line they changed their opinion and didn't call us."

Cimaglia said he was subsequently advised that the clothing could be considered gang-related and also that the chain was a safety issue.

Cimaglia said he believes the administration's "on the spot" change in position was "to placate the ultra conservative viewpoint —Please See Page 2

The driver of this jackknifed big rig found the highway shoulder was a bit too narrow Tuesday.

Big rig driver almost backs over embankment near Lake Britton

A Florida truck driver with three months driving experience backed up his big rig in darkness Tuesday only to find the turnout a bit narrower than he thought.

Armando Perez was hauling 41,000 pounds of furniture wood when he decided about 5:45 a.m. to pull off the side of Highway 89 one-half mile north of the Lake Britton bridge.

He attempted to back up to, what he thought was a wide turnout, only to have the rear wheels of the big rig drop off a 300-foot embankment.

His brother-in-law, the more experienced of the two with three years experience, was asleep in the rig.

Glenn Nagle, California Highway

Patrol traffic officer, said the mishap was due to "unsafe backing," however the driver wasn't cited.

The southbound lane of the highway was blocked until about 8 a.m.

A tow truck from Redding and Caltrans loader were used to get the tractor-trailer back on the highway.

Public health to stay open

BY MEG FOX

Shasta County Supervisor Glenn Hawes had a stack of about 250 bright yellow postcards from his Burney constituency on the table in front of him when he and the other supervisors voted Jan. 13 to "borrow" tobacco settlement funds to keep public health offices open in Burney, Shasta Lake, and Anderson open.

Although the doors won't be closing in February as reported in the Jan. 7 issue of The News, there will still be staffing cuts.

"One of our fulltime employees will be laid off and two extra helpers will be laid off as of Feb. 20," Burney Public Health Community Development Coordinator Shellisa Moore.

Moore said she isn't yet certain what the hours and services will be at the Burney Regional office.

The WIC program and immunization clinics will still be offered, but the smoking cessation classes are coming to an end.

"We'll continue to do as much as we can with fewer staff," Moore said.

Hawes said he'd made his decision to try and fund public health even before the postcards started arriving in his Redding office.

"We had to do it. We couldn't let it go. It's important to have that service," Hawes said.

Two Burney residents, Sherrie Quinlan and Lynn Miller, felt the same way when they read that, due to a lack of funding, Shasta County Public Health planned to close the Burney Regional Office and lay off six local employees, and they quickly organized the postcard campaign.

Quinlan said after talking to Moore and Community Organizer Laura Thompson she was "livid" about the proposed office closure.

"It set my hair on fire and I decided we needed to do something. Public health has made such a tremendous impact on our community and they do a great job. I thought that if the county could afford to reward managers with nine percent pay raises, they could afford to keep (the local public health employees), who do the work and are breadwinners," Quinlan said.

A private contribution funded the 750 stamped and addressed postcards that Quinlan and Miller delivered to businesses and individuals.

"All people had to do was sign the cards with their name, address, and phone number. People were happy to get the cards because they had strong feelings about this, too," Quinlan said.

Hawes said the supervisors borrowed $1 million from the county's 1988 tobacco settlement reserve for public health and also earmarked $250,000 to help the Department of Mental Health.

The supervisors originally planned to use tobacco settlement —Please See Page 2

Dress code questioned by Old Station father at school district meeting

"The choice by James to make the wearing of chains an issue by wearing them in such a way as to attract the attention of Mr. Hawkins and Mrs. Kyle has, in effect, retarded the development of the positive relationships we want to see in our schools between students and their administrators," Newton wrote to the CimaIdia.

Vigil said that the issue was not on the agenda and for that reason the trustees could not discuss it then and there.

SUPERIOR COURT ACTION

In Burney Superior Court Dec. 12, Judge Anthony Anderson ordered Anthony Angelo Orlando, of Oroville, to pay the Chico Research Foundation $322.50 in restitution for fraudulently using a Golden Age Passport to camp at the Cave Campground on the Lassen National Forest.

Orlando used a Passport issued to another man, who is deceased, to stay in his motor home at the campground on Highway 89 at a rate of $7 instead of $14 per day.

Also, Golden Age Passport holders must be at least 62 years old and Orlando was 61 at the time.

Orlando was questioned July 26, 2003 because campground officials believed he was staying at the campsite in violation of the 21-day occupancy limit.

Orlando pled guilty to one count of petty theft and was given a Harvey Waiver for a charge of misdemeanor defrauding an innkeeper.

In addition to restitution, he is paying $528 in fees and fines.

He was ordered to forfeit the Passport, stay away from the Cave Campground, and to submit to the warrantless search for stolen property.

He was booked and released at Shasta County jail in Redding and placed on 24 months probation.

Ryan Nathaniel Norgaard, 26, of Burney was sentenced Dec. 12 for driving while having a .08 percent or higher blood alcohol level.

A DUI charge was dismissed. He was sentenced to 48 hours in county jail, with release Dec. 17 to work at the Burney Cemetery.

He was placed on 36 months probation, ordered to complete a six-month Level One alcohol treatment program, and had his driving license restricted for 90 days to driving to and from treatment and work.

He was ordered to pay fees and fines of $1,762.50.

He was ordered not to consume alcohol and to submit to chemical testing and the warrantless search for alcohol.

Paul Samuel Collins, 37, was sentenced to one day in county jail, with credit for time served, for being under the influence of toluene on Oct. 26, 2003.

He was placed on 24 months probation and ordered to pay fees and fines of $553.

Jeffrey Alan Cunha, 33, of Orland, contested a vehicle violation and had a court trial Jan. 9, but was found guilty of passing without sufficient clearance, an infraction, on Oct. 30, 2003 on Highway 299.

Mural grant sought for M.C. Highway 299 wall

The Acorn Café in Montgomery Creek is applying for grant funds to paint a mural on the highway wall across from the restaurant and community center.

"The graffiti painted on the wall prompted a local resident to get in touch with Caltrans to see if a mural could be painted there. It turns out that Caltrans has a Transportation Art Program, through which local communities and artists can beautify existing transportation facilities," said Margaret Jensen, project coordinator for Acorn Community Enterprises.

Acorn is applying for permission and funding to develop a mural.

"One idea for the design is a cattle drive, but if you have other ideas, give us a call," she said.

Burney fire district decides not to renew contract with casino

The board of the Burney Fire Protection District unanimously voted Jan. 14 to not renew the fire protection agreement with the Pit River Tribe, which would have covered the Casino, the Tribal offices, the Health Care Facility, the Daycare Center, and the garages, outbuildings and other structures.

In a telephone interview with Randy Wolfin, general manager of the Pit River Casino, he said he had not been aware there was a meeting to discuss the contract and had no idea the Fire District was considering not renewing the current fire protection contact.

Chief Robert May said he had sent notification of the board meeting to Susan Alvarez, his liaison from the Pit River Tribe, and has corresponded with her regarding renewal of the fire protection agreement on several occasions.

May had recommended to the board that the outstanding fire and life safety issues be resolved before a new agreement for the Pit River Tribe fire protection is signed.

The original agreement was initiated Feb. 22, 2001 after lengthy discussions and negotiations in order for the Pit River Tribe to contribute to the Burney Fire Protection District in lieu of paying property taxes.

Because the building was constructed on tribal land, normal construction practices were not followed, building plans were not created, inspections did not occur, and fire and safety features were not installed.

The Burney Fire Dept had done an annual inspection of the casino.

In 2002 the casino had an independent inspection of the facility by Owner's Construction and Inspection Service.

That inspection was in agreement with the Burney Fire Protection District inspections done previously regarding fire safety deficit.

The Pit River Tribe refuses to provide a copy of the inspection report to the district, May said.

According to data acquired from prior Burney fire department inspections, a lack of fire sprinklers and a fire alarm system, proper exiting, and construction features continue to be deficiencies as well as time-line completion dates.

In 2001 the Pit River Casino noted in their contract that they would "use their best efforts to obtain financing for the installation of automatic fire sprinklers in the tribe's casino building during the first year of this contract."

In 2002 they said they would "use its best efforts to install automatic fire sprinklers in the casino." No mention of a time line was made.

In contracts after 2002, the paragraph dealing with the sprinkler system had been deleted.

The recommended fire and safety features have still not been installed.

Wolfin said they are looking for a contractor to install the sprinkler system.

May said the casino, the health center and the day care center would receive fire protection as always.

"It just won't be on a contract. The Pit River Tribe will be billed for each occurrence we are called out for fire protection or emergency care service."

In other business, the board voted to continue the services with Allied Information and Services Corporation, which handles the accounts receivable for the Burney ambulance service.

Food service at schools rated tops

BY MEG FOX

The school district's cafeteria program passed a recent state audit with only some minor corrections already implemented and was commended for providing "quality nutritional meals" and for holding its own financially.

"For the first time in 24 years, our cafeteria did not encroach one penny on the General Fund," said Business Manager Teresea Spooner during the Jan. 14 school board meeting in Burney.

Spooner said Food Service Supervisor Linda Drenon and Operations Manager Roger Borkey should be credited for turning the cafeteria program around and Drenon in turn presented the staff who have helped implement the changes.

Drenon said she hopes that one day students will have a more positive opinion about school cafeteria food, instead of the "ugh, cafeteria food" reaction.

"Change takes time and we're working on it, but we are starting to make (food) that kids want to eat that is also nutritionally balanced," Drenon said.

The cafeteria has eliminated items that usually end up in the trash or that have no nutritional value, like potato chips. They have narrowed the menu choices down and added some new items to see what the response is.

"This month we added chicken chimichangas, French bread pizza, and chicken noodle soup with a grilled cheese sandwich," Drenon said.

Borkey and Drenon looked closely at how they could cut costs.

"One of the things we kicked around was breakfast and now were serving strictly cereal. We started thinking about what kids eat at home and people don't make biscuits and gravy and homemade cinnamon rolls for their kids. They give them cereal."

She said the breakfast change alone was a big cost saving for the Fall River Joint Unified School District in both food and labor.

There were some cuts in hours, also. "Nothing major and no layoffs. We're also watching the budget more closely and posting correctly," Drenon said.

The successful Nov. 21-26 food service audit was the first in the district since 1998, a delay caused by state budget cuts.

Drenon said the state auditor, Aileen McInerney, was "impressed" with the district's new Nutri-Kids system that collects data on student accounts and about the 180 breakfasts and 600 lunches that the district serves each day.

There were no monetary penalties made, but the state did ask that the cafeteria track the alternative education sites individually instead of as one unit.

McInerney also asked the district to update its recipe information to coincide with current labeling, nutritional information, and portion sizes that have changed during the past three years.

Saliva sample will be used in drug testing of school athletes

BY MEG FOX

When high school athletes in the Fall River Joint Unified School District are called out of class for random drug testing in the spring, they'll be asked for a saliva sample, rather than for an often embarrassing and easily altered urine sample.

Supt. Eric Newton asked the trustees to revise district policy to include the new test at the Jan. 7 school board meeting in Burney.

Newton said that Redi-Screen, the company that has been doing the district's urine-based tests, has perfected a saliva-based test without compromising test results.

"It offers great advantages and we believe it is well worth the increase in cost," Newton said.

The saliva-based tests are "less embarrassing to students, more easily handled, and less easily compromised by the individuals we are testing," Newton said.

District School Nurse Dianna Rowe said the urine-based tests cost $6 per sample. The saliva is $11 per test.

In addition to the other pluses, the saliva test takes much less time so that students can get back to class sooner.

Students receive individual kits with a swab to place under their tongues.

"The kids seal their own sample in a tamper-proof tube and they initial it and I personally take the samples to the airport in Redding," Rowe said.

The tests for THC (marijuana), PCP, cocaine, opiates, and methamphetamine are run at a Santa Rosa toxicology lab.

Rowe said she always asks students if they've eaten poppy seed muffins, since the seeds can cause a positive result.

"But I can tell the difference. It's a low positive," Rowe said.

If a student has a positive result, the lab re-tests the same sample to determine the exact drug and the amount, Rowe said.

The trustees also clarified language in the policy so that if a student tests positive for drugs and parents want another test taken, the same sample is re-tested. Test samples are kept for six months.

In other school board matters, Operations Manager Roger Borkey asked the trustees to sign the construction agreement between the district and Thomson and Hendicks, Inc. architectural firm in Chico for the proposed modernization projects at Fall River and Burney high schools and Fall River and Burney elementary schools.

Funding for the projects depends on voters passing a state bond measure (AB 16) in the March election and, later, on local voters approving to a local bond measure.

Borkey said that William Berry Campaigns, a political consulting and public relations firm in Sacramento, is interested in working with the district to promote the passage of the bonds.

Their services include campaign strategy and management, direct mail, media, grassroots operations, press relations, fundraising plans and campaign management, according to their website.

William Berry Campaigns would campaign locally to raise donations and support for passing the bond initiative.

Board president Teri Vigil asked how the firm would be paid and Borkey said that they would not charge the school district, but planned to raise the money in the community.

Borkey said William Berry Campaigns was willing to look at fund raising possibilities here, in spite of the per-centage odds against raising the $40,000 figure that was mentioned.

"They are interested in working with us if we're interested in working with them," Borkey told the board, adding that he would have more information by March.

FRE GETS $57,000 GRANT FOR PLAYGROUND STRUCTURE

Fall River Elementary School Principal Chris Knoch reported that her school and students received "an early Christmas present" when she learned Dec. 19 that they had received a $57,882 grant from the McConnell Foundation in Redding.

In their second try for the funding to complete the playground restoration project, Knoch and playground committee members, parents Chris McArthur and Chelle Vestal, applied for the funding through the Burney-Fall River Education Foundation.

The funds will be used for a playground structure that includes slides, rings, and a variety of climbing areas.

The school district funded $88,156 of the project and Fall River Elementary School students and parents raised $10,052 that was spent on basketball hoops, benches and other enhancements and $5,800 for new asphalt.

DISTRICT LOOKING AT LETTERS FOR BAND STUDENTS

The school board received information on Trustee Pat Oilar's request last month to give special recognition to students in the high school band program, similar to the recognition given for athletics and academics.

Although Oilar was absent, Hiram Oilar of McArthur spoke to the trustees about giving a letter to exemplary band and even theater arts students.

Oilar said he researched guidelines at other high schools and talked to district Music Director Hugo Castro.

"He's pretty darn hard. Other schools are not as stringent, but he wasn't going to give (special recognition) out without someone being pretty darn good," said Oilar.

With the board's encouragement, Newton said he would do further research.

In other business, the board:

- Heard from Burney High School Principal Larry Hutchinson that the state has changed its policy and waived the requirement that students successfully complete Algebra I for graduation.

- Heard that the Burney Boosters Club has made the "complicated" transition to raise funds with food sales from a cafeteria that meets stringent health department regulations, in response to issues raised by McArthur businesswoman Kim Chapman, who asked the county health inspector to look at food handling practices by volunteers at Fall River High School and in the community.

- Heard that the state has eliminated its Golden State exam diploma due to budget cuts

- Updated the district's annual K-12 library plan to receive per pupil funding to increase library collections and media centers.

Burney Elementary School Principal Dianna Fischer commented that the estimated amount has "dropped drastically" from $6 to $1.41 per average daily attendance (ADA)

- Received the June 30, 2003 Audit Report from the CPA firm of Matson and Isom, described as outstanding with only one finding: that the district had spent $4,354 on instructional materials that had not been adopted by the state Board of Education.

Business Manager Teresa Spooner said the state program has been reimbursed from unrestricted funds.

- In closed session expelled a Fall River High School student to the community day program for the remainder of the 2003-2004 school year.

Search continues for missing Montgomery Creek 15-year-old

Deputies are scheduled to continue their search today for a 15-year-old Montgomery Creek boy reported missing Jan. 4.

The search area has been narrowed to the Montgomery Creek inlet below the Sithe Hydroplant for Austin Sparks.

A dive team will be taken to the area east along the Pit River arm, a portion of the creek they had searched last week, but called off due to poor weather conditions.

Heavy water runoff and treacherous snow conditions also led to the suspension of the search, Sgt. Stan Morgan said.

Deputies had gathered at the Montgomery Creek Volunteer Fire Company's station one in Round Mountain to coordinate search procedures.

Fishing, hunting rates even higher than reported, imposed by DFG

Anglers and hunters have to dig even deeper into their pockets to buy 2004 hunting and sport fishing licenses from an authorized license agent in California than was reported in last week's issue of The News.

The bad news about the Department of Fish and Game's "sweeping fee increase" got a little bit worse with an informative phone call from Vaughn's Sporting Goods in Burney.

The Jan. 14 article reflected only the charges established by the Department of Fish and Game for sales of licenses at their offices.

The article did not report the additional fees imposed on retail outlets that sell sport licenses.

Authorized License Agents are required by law to charge handling fees and to post the license fees in their places of businesses, Vaughn said.

Hunting license increases go into effect July 1 and will also cost more than was reported if purchased from a retailer, but Vaughn said those increases have not yet been released.

Following are the DFG's required Sport Fishing License Fees for Authorized License Agents, valid Jan. 1, 2004 through Dec. 31, 2004.

Annual Licenses are $32.80 for a resident and $88.20 for a non-resident.

One-day sport fishing licenses are $10.50; two-day are $16.55, and 10-day resident are $32.80.

Stamps and report cards are also more if purchased from an authorized agent than was reported.

In addition to Vaughn's, other authorized license agents in the Intermountain area, according to the DFG, are Rite Aid in Burney, Burney Falls Camp Store; Shasta Angler and Sportsman's Liquor in Fall River Mills, Rim Rock Ranch Resort in Old Station; Fireside Village and Rancheria RV Park in Hat Creek, and Clearwater Trout Tours in Cassel.

Crab feed Jan. 31

Fresh Dungeness all-you-can-eat crab, clam chowder, salad, French bread, dessert, and coffee will be served, along with no-host beer, wine, and soda.

"The Crab Feed is our first event of the year to celebrate

"We are proud of our long heritage and very grateful to our community for supporting our goal of keeping families safe from domestic violence and sexual assault."

Burney boys lose to Bears

BY MEG FOX

"We played terrible," said Coach Tara Jones about the Raider Boys' Varsity basketball game against Mt. Shasta Jan. 13.

Burney lost their home game 66-45. Luke Schechla was the top scorer with 13 points, followed by Ryan Huffman with 10, and Kyle Moody with 8.

Burney's JV Boys team also had a disappointing evening, losing for the first time this season, 58-49.

"Our guys were kind of cold and just didn't make the baskets," said Coach Wade Jones.

Sophomore Grant Moody scored 14 points, Ryan Rhodes scored 13, and Cooper Allison scored 10.

In Alturas on Thursday, the Varsity team took another, but less humiliating 43-45 loss to the Modoc Braves.

Senior Rocky Torgimson gave the game a few exciting final moments when he got on the court.

"He came in at the last minute and made a three-point basket and then stole the ball to give us a chance to tie," said Tara Jones. "It ended up that we lost, but we got a good look at the basket."

Kyle Moody scored 15 points for Burney. Ryan Huffman put 12 points on the board and Chase Ayers added 6 points.

Burney's JV boys' team was back in business with a 48-46 win over Modoc in a game that Wade Jones described as "rough," in part because of encountering new referees with different styles.

"You can't guarantee a game pattern when they call a different game," he said.

Grant Moody was fouled out within the first three minutes of the game.

Tension rose in the last three seconds of the game, when Kevin Sutherland "held his ground and took a charge giving the ball back to us and we ran the timer out," said Jones.

Ryan Rhodes was top scorer with 12 points. Nate Bartell and Daniel Barba added 8 points each.

F.R. loses to Trinity, Bulldogs played well

Fall River Boys' Varsity basketball Coach Greg Hawkins said he was proud of the way his team played against Trinity, in spite of their 72-67 loss.

"We made a good effort. I just wish we'd gotten the win. We played pretty well and they were pretty good. We were down by 13 points at the half. It's pretty hard to catch up to a team like Trinity," Hawkins said.

The Bulldogs' John Morris scored 17 points. Blake Connors scored 15 points and Alfred Olvera scored 14 points.

The JV boys also lost to Trinity, 48-66, and Coach Scott Gallion said he, too, was proud of the way the Fall River boys played.

"We played hard, but they are a very good team," he said.

Brady Corr scored 13 points for the Bulldogs. Shane Robertson scored 12 points and Brandon Oilar put in 10 points.

F.R. varsity girls defeat Wolf pack

The Bulldog Girls' varsity basketball team made 40 percent of their shots against Trinity to win 53-36 on Jan. 13.

"It was a good night for us," said Coach Kathy Jones.

"I thought we ran the floor well and that led to a lot of fast break baskets. We also had a team total of 23 steals and I was pleased with that, too."

Brittany Shelton scored 15 points with 12 rebounds, 8 assists, and 7 steals. Jessica Caldwell made 15 points and had 7 rebounds. Abby Salters scored 10 points.

Delaney Chapman scored 6 points and had 8 rebounds. Shawna Truan scored 5 points and had 6 rebounds and 8 steals.

Fall River's JV girls lost their game in Weaverville, 31-19. Kelsey Sloat scored 6 points and Maggie DeCoito added 5.

Fall River had a bye on Friday.

Raider girls defeat both Mt. Shasta, Modoc by 'making the short shots'

The Burney Girls' varsity basketball team found the basket last week with a 45-37 win over Mt. Shasta and a 49-39 victory over Modoc in Alturas.

"The team played well together and our free throws actually were the determining factor in the win, as well as spreading the points around and getting three players in the double digits," said Raider Coach Susan Ayers, about their Jan.13 win over the Bears.

"We also did a much better job of getting the ball inside and making our short shots."

Natalie Bartell came off the bench for a "terrific defensive game" after Paige Logan was injured.

Sophomores Kayla Stover scored 13 points and had 10 rebounds and Robbie Fulk scored 12 points and grabbed 7 rebounds.

Aimee Ayers scored 10 points, with 11 rebounds and 3 assists. Rocksann Barba had 8 points, 4 rebounds and 5 assists.

The Burney team shot 17 of their 30 free throws, while the Bears landed 4 of 16.

The Raider JV Girls lost 23-39 to the Mt. Shasta Bears. Taylor White was top scorer with 13 points, followed by Jessica Van Laak who scored 6 points.

In varsity play against the Modoc Braves Thursday, Coach Ayers said Bartell played "another great defensive game. Her quickness is key to causing the other team to turn over the ball and we were able to score on those turnovers."

Fulk was the high point scorer with 19. She also had 7 rebounds, 4 assists, and 3 steals. Barba scored 17 points and had 5 rebounds, 6 assists and 3 steals. Stover scored 10 points with 15 rebounds, 1 assist and 3 steals.

"The whole team played a great game," said Ayers.

Burney JV Coach Loni Estes said her girls would be practicing their free throws after their 38-42 loss to Modoc. "We made 14 out of 38 baskets from the free throw line. I know they can do better," she said.

The team was ahead 21-20 at the half and again at the end of the third quarter at 27-24, but then began losing ground as Modoc pushed ahead for the win.

Anika Kierce led her team with 8 points, followed by Taylor White who scored 7 points and Amber Spooner who scored 6.

Figure skating is a cool sport for more and more people. It is fun for skaters on ice and fascinating for TV viewers at home and audiences at rinks.

One reason that it is becoming more popular is that there are more places to do it.

Until recent years, most ice skating was in cold climates where skaters could skate outside only in the winter. Today, there are many indoor rinks, so skaters can skate and train all year long.

Television has also inspired kids to get on the ice. Thousands are taking lessons. Many of these are going on to compete.

Let's skate

Most figure skaters begin to skate when they are about 4 years old. They usually start with group lessons just for fun. Some are introduced to the sport at birthday parties at rinks.

Those who want to compete have to put in much hard work. Parents also have to help kids juggle school and skating lessons. Kids have to be determined. It takes about 15 years of training before skaters are ready to put together a competitive routine.

The Mini Page talked to two top figure skaters about how they got started.

Meet Andrea Gardiner

Andrea Gardiner, 24, finished fifth in the 2000 U.S. Figure Skating Championships. While in school, the only class she was allowed to skip was physical education. She graduated from high school with honors. She plans to become a heart surgeon when she retires from skating.

Andrea Gardiner started skating when she was 4 years old after she saw a Christmas ice show. She told us: "It was so cool. I wanted to skate. I loved the spinning and jumping, and how fast they were going."

Andrea began taking group classes each Saturday. In junior high and high school, she got up at 3:30 every morning so she could practice before school started.

She advises kids: "If you are really dedicated to something, you have to put your heart and soul into it. Don't give up when it gets rough."

Meet Michael Weiss

Michael Weiss, 27, has won the U.S. Championship title three times, was a bronze medalist in two World Championships, and skated on the U.S. Olympic men's figure skating team.

For several years Michael Weiss trained to be a diver before he took up skating at the age of 9.

By the time he was 13, he was training four to five hours a day on the ice, and one to two hours more off the ice.

For his schooling, he was able to skip morning classes, but he attended regular afternoon classes. He did much of his homework while waiting at the rink or while riding to and from it.

He advises kids: "Find something you have a passion for. Mine is figure skating. Then work your hardest to become the best you can at it."

Goldie Goodsport's Report

Supersport: Sasha Cohen

Height: 5-2

Birthdate: 10-26-84

Hometown: Laguna Niguel, Calif.

To the music of "Swan Lake," Sasha Cohen glides gracefully across the ice. Exhibiting style and skill, she has emerged as one of the world's top figure skaters. Cohen won a bronze medal at the 2002 Winter Olympics. She also has finished fourth in the World Championships two years in a row.

Cohen, who won a Skate America title this year, began skating at age 7 in California and currently trains in Connecticut.

Sasha also enjoys art, making jewelry, reading, designing costumes, and spending time with her dog, Mocha, and cat, Meow. After completing her skating career, she wants to become a fashion designer.

Meet Mindy Smith

Some music teachers told Mindy Smith that she wouldn't make it as a singer. But her mother, a music director for a church, told Mindy to keep trying because she had a special talent.

This year, her work pays off, as Mindy, 31, a singer and songwriter in Nashville, Tenn., releases her first album, "One Moment More."

Mindy was adopted and raised in Smithtown, N.Y., by a minister and his wife. She grew up singing at her father's church. She became the lead singer of a band while attending college in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mindy fell in love with acoustic, jazz and blues music when she moved with her father to Knoxville, Tenn., after her mother died. She moved to Nashville in 1998 to pursue her music career and performed in clubs there. Soon her talents got the attention of others, such as country music star Dolly Parton.

Mindy says she doesn't care about fame or fortune, just making music. She has two sisters and one brother. Her favorite food is bagels and her favorite hobby is shopping.

Mini Jokes

All the following jokes have something in common. Can you guess the common theme or category?

Carrie: What do you call a bunny who plays with jacks?

Stewart: A jackrabbit!

Mindy: Why does a rabbit have a shiny nose?

Nathan: Because its powder puff is on the other end!

Beth: What is the difference between a counterfeit bill and an angry rabbit?

Zeke: One is bad money, the other is a mad bunny!

History of Figure Skating

People have been ice skating for about 1,300 years. Ice skating began in northern Europe — in Sweden, Norway, Finland, Denmark and the Netherlands.

But early skaters didn't skate for sport. Ice skating was a way of getting where they wanted to go.

Early skaters used the shinbones of cattle and sheep for the blades. They tied the bones to the bottom of their boots with leather ties and straps.

This drawing shows a Dutch skater from the 1600s. Skaters at that time used a long pole to push themselves along the ice.

Skating becomes a sport

In the 1700s, wealthy men started skating clubs in Scotland. New members had to pass skating challenges to get into the clubs.

Some of the challenges included jumping over hats on the ice, drawing figures or writing names on the ice. This was the beginning of figure skating.

By this time, skates were made of a wooden block with an iron blade stuck in it. The blade had no sharp edges.

The wooden block was tied to the feet with straps and worn over special boots.

Madge Syers won the first women's figure skating gold medal in the Olympics in 1908. She also won a bronze medal with her husband, Edgar Syers, for pairs skating.

Competitions

In the 1860s, a U.S. inventor and dancer, Jackson Haines, developed a skate that fastened onto the shoe. These stayed on the foot better, and skaters could perform many more moves.

In the 1890s, the first world competitions for men were held. In 1902 one woman, Madge Cave Syers, competed against the men and came in second.

Many now believe she really came in first, but the judges didn't want the top prize to go to a woman. So they gave her second prize.

The judges banned women from competing against men in the future.

Sonja Henie changed the way women dressed to skate. She wore shorter skirts, so her skates did not get tangled in the kind of long skirts other women were still wearing.

Debi Thomas wears a bright costume for the 1988 World Championships. When stretchy materials were invented in the 1950s, modern skating costumes were created.

Costume changes

Until the 1920s, people wore their normal winter clothes when skating. In the 1860s, for example, women skated in long skirts, a coat and a muff. Men wore pants and long jackets.

By the 1890s, men were wearing black or dark blue tights when they competed. Their costumes had no sparkles.

At that time, women were still wearing long skirts in competitions. They wore bright, colorful tops.
